Ottawa Stalls Fishing Lines

By JOHN BEST

OTTAWA (CP) — An unexpected delay has occurred in the drawing of fisheries closing lines that would bar foreign fishing fleets from large bodies of water on Canada's East and West coasts.

Observers here are puzzled over why the cabinet has not acted to establish the lines, authorized by Parliament in June before it recessed for the summer.

Fisheries Minister Jack Davis told the Commons external affairs committee in May that the government could issue maps setting out the closing lines within days after the enabling legislation was passed.

Davis is known to attach great importance to the lines, which would be drawn between co-ordinates on either side of the entrances to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the Bay of Fundy and Queen Charlotte Sound.

The question was on the agenda for the final week of intensive sessions the cabinet held throughout July, and aides of the minister appeared optimistic then that it would be disposed of without undue complications.

A knowledgeable source suggested that Davis apparently was unable to persuade his cabinet colleagues to view the matter with urgency.

He also thought it possible that other cabinet members had expressed concern about the implications of drawing the lines.

Another source suggested the closing lines may have fallen victim temporarily to the need of a "digestion period" after passage of the controversial legislation to enact a 100-mile-wide pollution control zone around the Arctic archipelago.

Arrangements for Arctic pollution control are a more pressing issue at the moment, he maintained.

Hickel: Two-Nation Link

Energy Policy 'Continental'

- Canadian bases proposed for U.S. radar planes. Page 6
- Ottawa issues guides for North. Page 11

MONTREAL (UPI) — U.S. Interior Secretary Walter Hickel, who leaves today for a first-hand look at resources development and pollution problems in the Canadian Arctic, believes that Canada and the United States must forge a common policy on continental energy resources.

Hickel told a news conference Thursday that the two countries, bound by "unique relations in the world," ultimately will find "we have many things in common."

Stressing that he was viewing the question of a pool on Canadian resources, Hickel said any pact would "only be good if it's good for both countries.

★ ★ ★

"It will have to be based on the common good for the greatest number," Hickel said.

"I don't think any one country has a hold on anything. Your resources have to go to market and ours have to go to market, too," the U.S. cabinet member told Canadian newsmen.

"I look forward to a North America energy policy that will take in all forms of energy — atomic, coal, gas, water or whatever."

★ ★ ★

"It may take 20 years to arrive at a common policy by Canada and the United States, though I hope not," he added.

Hickel said he did not believe that President Nixon's cutbacks in March on Canadian oil imported into the U.S. would stir Canadian reluctance to reach agreement on a pool continental policy regarding Canadian resources.

"The matter of oil imports is an entirely different matter," Hickel said. "It's based on other criteria, other needs, and development and trade problems with other countries. It's true, though, that we don't produce enough oil for our domestic market.

★ ★ ★

Hickel said he did not believe Thursday's announcement by Canada establishing guidelines for the building of a pipeline from the Arctic to South Canada markets would deter American investment interest.

Northern Development and Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien, who is host for Hickel's safari into the northland, said the guidelines limit the pipeline building to one for oil and one for gas along a predetermined corridor from the Arctic to Canada's south.

Warnings Heard On Labor Front

By DON COLLINS

Thursday was a day for warnings on B.C.'s uncertain labor front.

Provincial Labor Minister Leslie Peterson warned building trade unionists they would face court action if they strike the construction industry.

Pat O'Neal, international vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, said it is likely all of the province's pulp and paper mills will be closed through strike action by midnight next Wednesday.

There were also repeated warnings of separate pending strikes involving the International Woodworkers of America — one against the Victoria operations of B.C. Forest Products and the other by 270 lumber inspectors against the province's sawmills.

Ironically, the day also included a joint statement from the IWA and MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. of a planned study aimed at creating peace in the forest industry.

★ ★ ★

Peterson's warning came following the latest development in the troubled construction picture — a 72-hour strike notice from Local 170 of the Plumbers served on three Lower Mainland contractors.

The union has said, however, that it has no immediate plans to strike.

Several of the building trade unions have rejected settlement proposals from deputy labor minister Bill Sands. Sands came into the picture in a third-party role in an interim agreement that saw the men go back to work beginning July 27.

★ ★ ★

The deal was that the 25,000, men idled since April 14 by an industry-imposed lockout, would go back without contracts if Sands would bring down recommendations and the government would suspend back-to-work and compulsory-arbitration orders.

Peterson said Thursday the binding arbitration section of the act still applies and indicated proceedings would begin if strike action is taken.

The act provides for a variety of fines. A judge can

Wealth Shift Will Receive Priority Study

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa said Thursday Prime Minister Trudeau will study with "absolute priority" Quebec's proposal to establish an economic stabilization fund to redistribute the wealth of Canada.

The premier, who met Trudeau at Ottawa Tuesday, told a news conference the prime minister considers the idea "very interesting" and agreed to have Ottawa civil servants study it.

★ ★ ★

Bourassa proposed creation of an Ottawa-financed fund at a federal-provincial meeting of finance ministers earlier this year, describing it as a mechanism to aid regions suffering from high unemployment.

He argued that existing wealth-sharing mechanisms such as equalization payments do not enable poorer provinces to over come negative effects of some federal policies, such as unemployment arising from the fight against inflation.

★ ★ ★

Bourassa said Trudeau agreed during their meeting that the country's wealth has not been distributed in a satisfactory fashion within the last 100 years of Confederation.

The Quebec premier hoped that the federal government would agree to setting up of the fund this year, and help him hit his election campaign target of creating 100,000 jobs in Quebec in 1971.

Agnew Sets Asian Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will send Vice-President Spiro Agnew to South Vietnam and three other Asian countries for a fact-finding trip later this month, the White House announced Thursday.

Agnew also will visit South Korea, Taiwan and Thailand.

Quake Felt In Fairbanks

PALMER, Alaska (AP) — An earthquake measuring 5.6 on the Richter scale occurred Thursday night about 50 miles west of Fairbanks, Alaska.

Preliminary reports indicated the quake was strongly felt in Fairbanks, but no damage or injuries were reported.

Lindbergh Probes Jungle

MANILA (AP) — Charles Lindbergh, the famous American airman and conservationist, joined an expedition into the forests of Mindanao this week to learn first hand about the lives and problems of ancient tribal people.

Lindbergh, 68, accompanied a party led by Manuel Manda Elizalde, the secretary and director of the Presidential Arm for National Minorities (PANAMIN).

★ ★ ★

The Philippines government organization is dedicated to assisting minority people of the island country who are being threatened by expanding cities and pushed from their centuries-old dwelling places by settlers, loggers and miners.

"I'm going along to learn," Lindbergh said of his series of visits to the Philippines. "Secretary Elizalde is doing an extraordinary job. If I can help in any way, I'll be glad to do whatever I can. It's the first program like this I know of."

He started the series of visits to the Philippines about two years ago to help promote conservation of the Tamaraw wild water buffalo and the monkey-eating eagle, both of which have been faced with possible extinction.

San Francisco Sleeps —Siren-Sounder Sequestered in Cell

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The sirens were silent in San Francisco Thursday. And Michael Courtney was in jail.

Police said the 22-year-old Courtney admitted being the "siren fiend" who has been setting off air raid sirens in various parts of San Francisco during the early hours for the last six days.

Courtney's method was fiendish indeed. He removed padlocks from the sirens, wired in a timing device to set them off at 5:30 a.m., and then locked them up again with new padlocks.

★ ★ ★

So, while the siren wailed and San Franciscans jumped out of bed and held their ears, police would rush to the scene, to find they had to break into the device in order to silence it.

Courtney, arrested Wednesday in his rooming house, said he set off the sirens "as a protest against nuclear armament. I'm against atomic warfare and nuclear holocaust."

He said he arrived in San Francisco from New Orleans about a year ago and entered the San Francisco Mortuary College. His funds ran out and he dropped out, he said.

Courtney said he bought the clocks and the padlocks a couple at a time. The locks, he said, proudly, were "better than the ones I took off the sirens."

★ ★ ★

Asked how he located the sirens, he said, "I'd just scan the horizon."

Courtney was booked on two counts of burglary, for breaking into two high schools, allegedly to set off sirens there.

He said he worked alone, but police said they felt others were involved.

But if everyone in San Francisco didn't get a good night's sleep Wednesday, it was not Michael Courtney's fault.

Big Four Parley At UN Meeting Wish of Kosygin

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) — Eastern European diplomats said Thursday that Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin plans to meet with President Nixon and other western leaders in New York in October on the occasion of the United Nation's 25th anniversary session.

The diplomats said a summit conference was virtually certain. But they said Kosygin apparently would prefer a four-power meeting with Nixon and the French and British premiers rather than a bilateral meeting with Nixon.

If a Big Four summit conference proved impractical, a meeting between Kosygin and the American chief executive appeared "inevitable," the sources said.

US. sources at the United Nations said Thursday no preparations were yet in progress for staffing such a meeting or setting up it's agenda. "If a summit is to be held, it would be on an informal basis only," one source said.

The eastern diplomats indicated the Kremlin's preference for a four-power conference was motivated by its apparent desire to avoid charges of "ganging up" in world affairs by the two superpowers.

World leaders will converge on New York for the special UN meeting scheduled for Oct. 19-24.

Judge Delays Gas Dump

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — A federal court judge ordered the United States Army Thursday not to dump a 2,800-ton load of nerve gas in the Atlantic before today but said it could continue putting gas containers aboard a ship for disposal at sea.

The order was issued after six hours of argument by lawyers supporting and opposing the army plan and despite a plea by a top government research officer that the dumping of the containers be treated as a matter of urgency.

Bennett's Head Crowns 'Non-Indian' Totem Pole

By JOHN MATTERS

A carving of Premier Bennett atop a totem pole at Hazelton is "sacrilege," the administrator of the Union of B.C. Indian Chiefs said Thursday.

Bill Wilson told the Colonist he was in Hazelton on Wednesday when the totem pole was raised during a visit there by the provincial cabinet. Reports describe the carving, which is atop a column of traditional Indian figures, as Bennett in a top hat, bow tie and frock coat.

★ ★ ★

"If it's a joke, it's a terribly unfunny joke," said Wilson, a former University of Victoria student who will be studying law at the University of B.C. this fall. "Where I come from (Cape Mudge), we would have buried the carver with the pole."

The pole was raised to commemorate the opening of 'Ksan Village, described as an Indian "cultural centre." A 61-unit campsite is nearby.

"We tried to talk to the people there (about the totem pole)," said Wilson. "But 'Ksan Village is a project mainly run by non-Indians who are prostituting Indian art."

★ ★ ★

He said the presence of Bennett among such Indian religious figures as the killer whale, bear and frog was unforgivable.

"It is not necessarily because it's Mr. Bennett that Indians are offended," said Wilson. "It is the idea that Indian culture could be exploited to this degree."

Wilson noted that 'Ksan Village, operated by non-Indians, recently got a grant from the First Citizens' Fund.

The B.C. Union of Indian Chiefs has recently said that the First Citizens' Fund is a "political fund" administered to divide B.C. Indians.

Diamond Rings Scatter In New York's Night

NEW YORK (UPI) — The case read like the scenario for an Alfred Hitchcock thriller: police with an electronic eye that peers into the night; a gang of acrobatic jewel thieves with a million-dollar string of successes, and a mad scramble for $240,000 worth of rings tossed out a window.

★ ★ ★

It began shortly before midnight Wednesday when a burglar alarm brought Sgt. Thomas Connolly of the police department's safe and loft squad and two other officers racing to the Botell Ring Co. on the 18th floor of a 20-storey building in mid-Manhattan.

Atop the building, they searched the darkness with the aid of an "owl eye," an electronic device developed for night fighting in Vietnam. It magnifies available light more than 100 times. They spotted a man hanging by a rope from the second floor window and raced back down the stairs.

★ ★ ★

Out of the same window, four other men were throwing cases of gold and diamond rings taken from a vault smashed by sledgehammers. One of the cases burst, spewing rings all over a courtyard.

Sidney Heller, president of Botell, said more than 2,000 rings worth $24,000 were recovered, some of them by police who spent more than an hour searching for them on their hands and knees in the courtyard.

Police arrested Raymond Smith, 36, of New York as he dangled from a rope over the courtyard. The others escaped.

Double Standard?

I WONDER ABOUT . . .

The double standard. Why would Attorney General Les Peterson refuse Prince Rupert pubs the right to hire topless waitresses and yet allow certain clubs and eateries in Vancouver to employ same? Bare is bare be it in Prince Rupert, Vancouver or Vanderhoof and Peterson should rule one way or the other with a degree of equality . . .

THE ONE thing that Women Lib has forgotten. These female Billy the Kids are well within their rights to scream for equal rights, but the methods used strip them of their greatest asset—femininity . . .

A GOVERNMENT that can honestly believe the necessity of Phil Gaglardi's portfolio . . .

★ ★ ★

THE sick mentality behind some chain letters. The latest to make the rounds is a chain prayer and in it a covering warning not to break the chain. Says the prayer will bring good luck, but woe betide those who don't send out their 20 copies. Gives as an example a U.S. General Walker who lost his life in the Philippines six days after receiving his prayer letter. He had failed to re-circulate it within the specified 96 hours. However, it states, just before he died he received an inheritance of $750,000, proving the prayer did bring him good luck. Sick, sick . . .

★ ★ ★

GOLF courses that insist length is the only criterion. The average member has trouble breaking 100, why make it that much tougher by building courses of over 6,500 yards? After all, the average member pays the shot, not the handful of hotshot scratch players . . .

★ ★ ★

PEOPLE who deride other people trying to do a good turn. Case in point, people who give up hundreds of hours of leisure time to literally build their church. They will have the last laugh, however, because the triumph of accomplishment can never be taken from them . . .

RESTAURANTS that can mess up a simple order like toast . . .

THE local movie houses. They are slipping, sir—only one black cat graced the movie ads one day this week, which meant the public had seven non-restricted movies to watch. I fear this is the thin edge of the wedge—soon we will have no more smut flicks . . .

PEOPLE who wonder about increased welfare costs. Sure the B.C. welfare bill is away up and so is that of nearly every province. If you think for one minute that Canada's roving, hitch-hiking youth hasn't a hand in the increase, you are being naive. In too many instances, we are footing the bill for summer vacations . . .

★ ★ ★

WHY IT always takes a disaster, like the Queen of Victoria accident in Active Pass, to get governments to act? Surely some legislation will have to be introduced banning either pleasure craft or industrial shipping from that stretch of water, but why wasn't it in force long ago? . . .

HYDRO buses that carry big ads on the back singing the praises of a certain gasolene that, because of new processes, makes our air purer to breath. Only problem is seeing the ad through the clouds of diesel smoke belching from the bus . . .

THE reasons for sending Victoria area patients to mainland psychiatric hospitals instead of to the Eric Martin Institute . . .

★ ★ ★

THE nerve of those dog owners who take pup for the evening stroll and stand calmly by while said animal messes all over shrubs, trees and flowers in other people's yards. The owner, not the dogs, are the ignorant ones . . .

THE law that allows beer and liquor advertising in magazines and newspapers (in British Columbia) but refuses the same right to radio and television station . . .

THE popularity of a game like baseball (dullsville) and the apparent lack of enthusiasm for an action-packed sport like lacrosse . . .

MIDDLE-AGED males who sport long sideburns and long hair in an effort to recapture that youthful look. The younger generation, who thought of the style first, laugh at so-called hip oldsters . . .

THE authors of dirty jokes. Some of the humor is tremendous, but it has to be a labor of love, because nobody pays money to dirty joke writers.

Fallopians Blocked

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Both of my Fallopian tubes are blocked and therefore I have no children. I have heard that they can be opened by surgery.

Would you advise me to do this? Can you tell me what kind of a doctor is qualified for this operation?—Mrs. T.G.

A gynecologist (specialist in surgery of the female organs) is the type of doctor you should consult.

If the tubes were ligated (tied) for contraceptive purposes, there is something like a 50-50 chance of opening them well enough to permit pregnancy.

However, if the blockage was the result of infection and subsequent scar tissue, the likelihood of successful "unblocking" of the tubes is very small, indeed.

In view of this, you should consult a gynecologist first, to get some idea of what may be possible before going ahead with surgery.

□

Doctor: I am only 5 feet 1 and fat. Women who are thin can always get real pretty slacks. Women who are fat can't even get a decent dress to look nice.

Tell me why some of the big shots that can always think up all kinds of medicine can't find something to reduce fat women.

I would like to be about 110 pounds. I would also like some kind of medicine which given as one shot would make it so you would never gain that weight back but could eat what you want.

I know you will throw this letter in the wastebasket but please read it and have the big shots think of something.—A.B.C.

People are fat because they eat more than they need and exercise too little. Drugs powerful enough to do what you ask would also ruin your health, and some women have died chasing the will o' the wisp of a shot to keep them thin without the effort of learning how to eat properly.

Sometimes a sluggish thyroid gland makes it harder for some people to reduce. That can be corrected with medicine. But the only wise way and the only successful way to get thin and stay that way is to learn something about calorie values of foods, then learn to eat only the amount you really need.

See your doctor to find out if you need some help from him. Then join TOPS, Weight-watchers, or some similar group. Read up on some factual material on reducing. Reduce instead of just dreaming about it.

impose jail sentences under the summary convictions act.

The Construction Labor Relations Association, which imposed the lockout, has not disclosed the result of its vote on Sands' recommendations. Nor has the carpenters' union, largest in the construction field.

In the pulp mill dispute, O'Neal said at Prince George the 7,000 mill workers represented by his union and 1,200 belonging to the United Papermakers were ready to strike at several mills at midnight Wednesday unless the industry comes up with an acceptable offer.

Such a strike would close the only mills remaining open. Seven have been closed by a strike that began three weeks ago by 4,200 members of the rival union — the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

Affected by a strike by the two international unions would be employees at MacMillan Bloedel plants in Powell River and Port Alberni; Crown Zellerbach operations at Elk Falls and Ocean Falls; Kamloops Pulp and Paper, Northwood Pulp in Prince George, Rayonier's plant at Port Alice and the Port Mellon complex on Howe Sound.

★ ★ ★

The unions are free to strike when the term of government mediator Gus Leonidas expires.

O'Neal said: "It's in the employers' hands — if they want to continue operating after midnight next Wednesday they had better realize the clock is running out."

Of the seven mills closed by the Canadian union's strike, three are on Vancouver Island at Crofton, Harmac and Gold River.

By today the close to 1,000 Victoria employees of B.C. Forest Products will have received an official message from the company explaining what has taken place in talks held separately from the overall Coast Region negotiations.

The company has informed the employees that Victoria IWA president Murray Drew has said the mills may be struck by midnight Sunday and adds: "It is incomprehensible to us that such action could even be considered in view that all problems have been resolved at Point Ellice and Victoria plywood divisions and there are only two outstanding items at Victoria sawmill division."

The larger Coast region dispute could be resolved by recommendations to be made by Mr. Justice Nathan Nemetz whose report is expected by next week. The judge, appointed by the government, held hearings into the dispute which involves 30,000 men and 114 companies.

The 270 IWA lumber inspectors have said they will strike at 8 a.m. Monday if a jurisdictional dispute involving use of a new automated plane at Port Alberni isn't resolved in the meantime.

The study which is being used as a vehicle to create more labor-management co-operation in the forest industry was disclosed in a joint statement by Robert Bonner, executive vice-president of MacMillan Bloedel, and Jack Moore, western regional president of the IWA.

The idea would be to promote better relations, avoid local wildcat strikes and shutdown tactics and to solve disputes of wider consequence.

out and to the bottom of the ocean as soon as possible in as safe a place as possible," said Victor Linnenbom, superintendent of the ocean science division of the Naval Research Laboratory.

During the court hearing Thursday lawyers seeking to block the army plan said there are three safer ways to do it. The hearing resumes today.

Arguing in federal court as the army continued loading nerve gas containers aboard a ship for disposal in the Atlantic Tuesday, they said the alternatives include burying the containers in an empty missile silo and detonating it in a high alkaline solution.

★ ★ ★

The legal action filed by the Environmental Defence Fund of New York and Florida Governor Claude Kirk, seeks a temporary restraining order on the grounds that the 418 concrete coffins of nerve gas rockets, when subjected to ocean pressure at 16,000 feet, could be crushed and the charges detonated through implosion, releasing the gas and endangering marine and human life.

The army's lawyers argued that their plan to sink the coffins, which contain 12,540 rockets, three artillery shells and one land mine, was the safest and most feasible method of disposing of the aging nerve gas.

Environmental Defence Fund lawyers also claimed it would be safer to scuttle the ship in a stagnant deep-water pocket off the coast of Venezuela, although Judge Green said she thought Venezuela should be consulted.

Firearm Use Ris Markedly in U.S

WASHINGTON (CP) — The FBI says the use of firearms in crime has grown markedly in the United States in the last five years.

In crime statistics for the last calender year issued Wednesday, the FBI said two of every three murder victims were killed by firearms and one-quarter of all assaults involved a firearm.

Current estimates say there are 35 million rifles, 31 million shotguns and 24 million handguns privately owned in the U.S.

The FBI said 14,590 persons were killed in murders and non-negligent manslaughter in the U.S. in 1969, a 7-per-cent increase from 1968. Among those killed were 86 law enforcement officers.

The FBI statistics show that 65 per cent of the 1969 murders involved the use of firearms, a jump from 1964 when 5,909 of 9,250 murders, or about 55 per cent, included the use of firearms.

Firearms were also used in 24 per cent of the aggravated assaults, which cover everything from non-fatal shootings to sluggings. There were 306,420 assaults cent fr

Israel Accused in Attack

AMMAN (UPI) — Israeli jets strafed a village in northern Jordan Thursday with rockets and machine gun fire in violation of the 90-day Middle East cease-fire which went into effect at midnight last Friday, a military spokesman said in Amman.

Tel Aviv, meanwhile, accused Egypt of deploying new Soviet-supplied anti-aircraft missiles in the Suez Canal front zone, demanded that the United States have them removed and threatened to delay start of the proposed Arab-Israeli peace talks.

The Jordanian military spokesman said two Israeli jets strafed the village of Northern Shuna, five miles south of Lake Tiberias, at 5:30 p.m. He said the 10-minute raid was aimed against civilian targets, but added that there were no casualties or damage.

The incident was the first officially reported action along the Jordanian front since the cease-fire went into effect.

In Cairo, the official government radio reacted to Israel's missile charges as a "contemptible Israeli attempt to evade the consequences of their acceptance of the American peace initiative."

The broadcast said the charge created an "artificial crisis" and Israel was trying to wriggle out of the peace talks "because every step which would follow would lead to the enforcement of the security council resolution" of 1967.

Israel charged that Egypt had moved SAM 2 and SAM 3 rockets to within 12 miles of the canal after the cease-fire went into effect at 6 p.m. EDT last Friday. Under terms of the cease-fire both sides agreed not to move new military equipment into a zone 31 miles wide on each side of the canal.

In Washington, state department spokesman Robert McCloskey said the United States has been investigating the alleged violation but has not yet reached any conclusion.

Limit Urged On TV

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate negotiators reached agreement Thursday on a bill that would sharply restrict the amount candidates could spend for radio-television campaign commercials for all federal offices and for governor and lietenant-governor.

It would be effective this year, applying to spending for the congressional election campaign.

The compromise bill, drafted by a House-Senate conference committee, basically contained provisions of a House-passed bill to limit broadcast spending to an amount equal to seven cents per vote cast for a particular office in the last election.

The bill would not apply to primary elections this year.

Washington's Two Faces

THE STUBBORNNESS with which the United States government is holding to its decision to dump more than 60 tons of nerve gas into the Atlantic off the Bahamas makes nonsense of the concern President Nixon so glibly expresses over the dangers of pollution.

On Monday of this week the American president introduced to Congress the first report prepared by his Council on Environmental Quality with these words: "Unless we arrest the depredations that have been inflicted so carelessly on our natural systems — which exist in an intricate set of balances — we face the prospect of ecological disaster."

Such a warning issued by the president himself gave the report additional importance. Yet how sincere can his words be judged when at the very moment they were being uttered tons of poison gas were already on their way to their eventual dumping ground in international waters?

Three days before Mr. Nixon spoke so feelingly about the threat air, water and land pollution poses to the American people, UN Secretary General U Thant publicly stated that Washington's plan to dump nerve gas into the sea violated a UN resolution and a Geneva convention.

"It is apparent," he said, "that the safety problems and adverse environmental effects resulting from the dumping of nerve gases in the Atlantic Ocean are far from clear. There is, so far, no established evidence that the ocean can easily assimilate or dilute these gases beyond their capacity to be harmful."

Replying to this the U.S. State Department denied that the method of disposal violated in any way any provision of international law or any U.S. obligation to the United Nations.

Though Ottawa has remained remarkably silent on this issue, the British government and others have added their protests to U Thant's during the past few days.

Some governments contend that risks arising from the disposal of lethal substances should be borne in the main by the people responsible for creating them and not by the international community as a whole.

This would seem only fair, yet it is probably not a view that would be supported by the United States at this time. After all, according to the London Sunday Times, the United States has been getting away with this sort of thing for years. Since the war, the journal reports, the United States army has performed twelve major sinkings at sea, including at least three of poisonous gas.

"Only fools," it concludes, "would see these as a precedent, rather than a terrible warning, for the future."

Though the hope may be a slim one, there is still time for President Nixon to halt the dumping.

Should he do this and follow U Thant's suggestion that the matter be placed before an international panel of scientists for study of methods of safe destruction, he would not only enhance his own reputation but would demonstrate that the United States is not only one of the most powerful but one of the most responsible nations in the world.

Towards Grams and Metres

A WHITE PAPER tabled in the House of Commons at the beginning of this year by Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin was described by the minister as outlining "what is the start of a long process on the road to metrication." On this road to the use of the metric measurements already employed by about 90 per cent of the world's peoples, Canada obviously cannot to advantage race far ahead of its chief trading partner, the United States, and at this point the United States is only beginning to consider metrication. But it is interesting to see how short the way can actually be when the decision is made to change systematically from ounces and inches to grams and metres.

The decision that Britain should "go metric" was made in 1965. A recent report describes the progress being made.

A lively start has been made, the report says, in spreading knowledge of the metric system. In transport and communications, the principal interests are working together on a common date for metrication of rates and charges — the beginning of 1972 is suggested. Road speed limits will first be expressed in kilometres per hour in 1973.

Most metals will be available in metric terms this year. The majority of industries producing other industrial materials will change over during 1970-71. The printing industry will be metric by the end of 1970.

In construction, by 1972 "virtually all new projects in the public sector should be designed in metric terms." But there are problems in the private sector. There are also "very diverse" problems in the food and consumer goods industries. The bedding industry hopes to go metric in 1971, however, and some textile fibres and fabrics will be supplied in metric quantities next year.

It thus seems that in Britain, metrication may well be accomplished within a decade of the decision to begin. And when Lord Ritchie-Calder, chairman of the Metrication Board, predicts the whole world will be metric by the end of the '70s, he may not be far off the mark.

"See, we MUST be in Canadian waters . . . !"

Infectious Excitement

Cambodia Awaits a Glorious Victory

By GAVIN YOUNG from Phnom Penh

OLD hands in Phnom Penh say it's quite different from Vietnam. Young hands, newly arrived from Vietnam, say: "Here we go again." The skins in the street are darker, the smiles broader, the excitement of Cambodians all around you, for a war they feel is going to be glorious and soon victorious, is as infectious as hepatitis.

But for anyone who has witnessed the years of agony in South Vietnam, the cynicism of the foreigners here and the uninformed war-euphoria of normally gentle Cambodians are equally horrific.

It is different from Vietnam; it is also the same. Phnom Penh is like a little Saigon. Physically, it is French colonial — neat avenues, undistinguished but unmistakably thirties French provincial architecture, with the flamboyance of royal Khmer palaces and Buddhist temples tacked on.

A small, comfortable city is in arms. Everyone seems to be wearing a uniform, or half a uniform, or at least a military cap. To be entirely dressed in civilian clothes is to be obviously out of the swim.

On lycee campuses down any main boulevard, you look for students walking from lecture to lecture, sheltering their faces, in Asian custom, from the sun with their school books. Instead you see scores of small khaki-clad figures squatting entranced by the harangue of three or four men in battledress, instructing them over a loud-speaker on how to strip down an M16 automatic rifle.

It is extremely unlikely that those students will ever, even if they are thrown into combat several months from now, have the chance to handle such a weapon; the M16 is something the Americans keep for special occasions and special friends. And to say that is not cynicism. It took the South Vietnamese army a long time to achieve that gun.

Nevertheless, the students want it, feel they need it, and a simple demonstration of its use brings them to their feet in a hot college sports ground to applaud. "I am now going to fire one shot into the air." Eight hundred boys and girls rose to their feet and clapped.

After the demonstration, I talked to the instructor, a Khmer Krom, one of the Cambodians born and recruited in Vietnam, who have been imported to a country they have never known to help train an unformed army.

Did he see any difference between Vietnamese youth and the young Cambodians? "Very interesting question. Yes. Vietnamese youth are always trying to bug out of the war, you know. Running off to the pagodas, things like that. Here they all want to fight. The spirit is great."

★ ★ ★

In an army post 70 kilometres from Phnom Penh, young Cambodian soldiers crouch at night in shallow foxholes. Immediately to their front is a narrow strip of barbed wire; then green fields, shrubs, bushy trees. "Viet Cong a hundred yards away," they say. The post has been occupied twice by the Viet Cong or North Vietnamese since April. The Cambodians took heavy casualties. Viet Cong mortars or rockets shell the Cambodians now quite regularly. The few buildings in the post are husks; the civilian population has fled.

Over pork and rice wine, the Camobian major says: "Voyez, we could chase all those Vietnamese back to Hanoi — if we had the weapons. As it is, we cannot go out and push them away from our own villages a mile away from this post. This war is between Khmer (ethnic Cambodians) and Vietnamese. But if they manage to control our countryside and raise the peasants against the towns, it will be Khmer against Khmer — and that will be really serious. We can't go to the villages because we haven't enough trained men, and not enough arms. C'est simple."

Back in Phnom Penh it is not so simple. In the rather modest American embassy building, officials are, to say the least, cool to suggestions that Cambodians should have infusions of modern weapons. "They wouldn't know how to use them," or, "They'd lose them to the Viet Cong." Of course some weapons — perhaps more than one knows — are arriving. They will be small arms, nothing armored, mechanical or pretentious. Even so, for the moment they are not arriving at the front.

★ ★ ★

That could be a sign of an American desire not to escalate the whole, pointless, unpromising Cambodian war, and to induce the North Vietnamese (if not the deposed Cambodian Prince Sihanouk, now in uneasy exile in Peking) to negotiate the neutrality of this little, essentially unbellicose state. It could be a sign of a genuine American intention to withdraw from what it once saw as a profound obligation in this part of the world.

It could be taken as long-delayed wisdom; or political cynicism that is not pleasant to witness. The United States itself would be divided on that.

What seems clear in Cambodia is that Cambodians see themselves in the position of the South Vietnamese, say, six years ago, not even in a state of civil war as the Vietnamese were then, and righteous and raring to go. As in Vietnam then, the countryside here is slipping away. Unlike Vietnam, the youth of Cambodia is afire to join up and do battle. And unlike Vietnam, the young Cambodians are finding their only real allies, the Americans, dragging their heels.

Perhaps in all the complexities of the Indo-Chinese situation since the American intervention in Vietnam in 1965, neither Cambodians nor Americans can be condemned for present attitudes and intuitions that were not present in Vietnam five years ago.

But with Cambodians being shelled in inadequate foxholes 20 miles south of the capital, and thrown out of a town an hour's drive north of it, the military similarities between these two Indo-Chinese wars begin to look tragically striking.

Ottawa Offbeat

Some Mid-Summer Madness

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

THIS year you're putting up $30,800,000 to keep Ottawa beautiful.

Nice of you, especially since so many of you so seldom see it.

That $30,800,000 is the cost — pretty well the annual average — of mowing the lawns, trimming the trees, planting the flowers from spring's tulips and crocuses to fall's asters and 'mums, keeping the floodlights and the fountains cascading light and water, gathering the litter, sweeping and plowing the parkways.

The cost of operating the government plant — the agglomeration of federal buildings housing the government and the civil service — is extra, running something more than $150,000,000.

That $30,800,000, then, is mostly for landscaping.

It's your money. And over the long years, these hundreds of millions of dollars have made for a truly eye-smashingly beautiful national capital, at least that section of the city — the best, by far, of it — that is federal property.

★ ★ ★

The rest, except for the mushroom beds of the new suburbs and the spiky forest of new midtown high-rise towers, can pass for any other small Ontario town.

Where the federal property line ends, old turn-of-the-century Bytown begins.

Your trustee and caretaker of this costly federal show-window property is the National Capital Commission.

So how has it been doing?

Suffering from what must be an acute attack of mid-summer madness.

★ ★ ★

In a light-headed mood it giggled that it could be playing host for what was described by the intended guests as a "mass bash" by the Free Use Cannabis Organization Freedom Fighters.

The Ottawa underground newspaper, The Octopus, which often comes out in those tired old four-letter Anglo-Saxonisms, exulted it would be "Canada's biggest pot party ever."

Knowing that cannabis is marijuana, and aware that the local house organ of the grass gang had promised the swingingest smoke-in yet, the commission said yes, its property — your property — could be used for the bash, on three permissive conditions:

1. Post a bond covering damage and cleanup.
2. Provide facilities to satisfy city health regulations (which don't happen to cover the still illegal possession and use of marijuana.)
3. Secure permission, first, to demonstrate on Parliament Hill.

After all, murmured the bemused commission, "it's a free country, isn't it?"

★ ★ ★

Only as an afterthought, Commission Chairman Douglas Fullerton ruled there could be "no smoking" — but neglected to explain how this might be enforced among the 7,000 guests of the Free Use Cannabis Organization Freedom Fighters.

And did that throw the fat of controversy into the federal fire, instantly generating enough heat to force a future possible backoff from the pot kitchen by the commission.

It is still reeling and in shock from what it laments is the "backlash."

It didn't know, it insists in innocence, that an angry majority reaction to high taxes, violence, crime, hippies, drugs, strikes and mindless demonstrations was turning the once leftward drifting liberalism of Lester Pearson sharp right into the conservatism of Pierre Trudeau.

(Hard evidence of the backlash was the dismayed report of Solicitor General George McIlraith — one of the "squares" of cabinet — that in all the phone calls he received about the shooting by Ohio National Guardsmen of four students in the Kent State campus riots, there had not been one expressing regret or even sympathy.

("I was appalled," confessed Mr. McIlraith, "that they all said the students had it coming. I didn't know till then how bitter the reaction had become.")

The cabinet, flinching under accusations from all directions but New Democratic, had become too perilously permissive, has hived off its leading activists, Health and Welfare Minister Munro, State Secretary Pelletier, Labor Minister Mackasey, Immigration Minister MacEachen, and a few other such swingers of free-and-easyism.

Among respected authorities laying it on the line has been former Deputy Commissioner W. H. Kelly of the Security and Intelligence Division.

He charges, and publicly, that militants in high places already have converted the country into a sanctuary for criminals, Maoists, anarchists, academic nihilists and homicidal racists.

★ ★ ★

He suggests that the turning point came when the royal commission of Dr. Gerald Le Dain went too far in recommending what he warns would have been the continuing conversion of the country into a haven for drug-hooked hippies.

He believes the "loading" of that royal commission with personnel pre-committed publicly to favoring the legalizing of marijuana went "beyond the fringe of lunacy," and now the nation is frantically back-pedalling into sanity.

Could be, except that the National Capital Commission seems to have been betting your $30,800,000 that you don't really mean you want to prohibit pot on the premises.

I Beg to Differ

A Strange Economic Fact

By FRANK LOWE

ONE of the many economic facts of life I cannot understand is why the head of the house, the bread winner, has less money to spend after his family goes to work than when they were all sitting around living off his pay cheque.

At first the idea seemed fine, even economically sound. When my daughter went away to college, my wife went back to work.

So now I have a working wife, and my daughter is working at a summer job.

I expected to sit back and wait for the golden shower to begin.

But somehow it hasn't worked out that way at all. Mind you, I realized that with a working wife I would have to pay more income tax — although after all these years of married life it does seem rather silly to be classified as "single" again.

★ ★ ★

Other than that, however, I really did expect there to be some discernible benefits. Like more cash for Dear Old Dad to play around with.

But something has gone wrong. I began to suspect that things would not work out just as I had wished shortly after my wife had been working for a few months.

She suggested we all go out to dinner. That meant me, my wife, my daughter and my mother-in-law. And the invitation came from my working, wage-earning wife.

It was a delicious meal. Even my mother-in-law said it was edible. Then came the bill. The waiter presented it with a flourish.

Humming a merry little tune, I let the bill lie there on the table. It had been a long time since anybody had taken me to dinner, and I was enjoying it to the full.

About 10 minutes later, though, my humming was wearing a mite thin. The waiter stood there. And the bill lay there.

My wife was busily pulling on her gloves, gathering up her purse and my daughter and mother-in-law were already on their feet.

I sighed, and signed the bill.

Later, when I attempted to explain some simple rules of etiquette to my wife, such as, "When you invite somebody to dinner, you pay the bill," she merely replied:

"Don't be silly — wives never pay bills."

Well, my wife is a trifle old-fashioned about such things. So I thought things might be different when my daughter began earning her own money.

After all, she is a child of today. She knows about campus riots and has read widely about all those various Women Liberation movements.

She stands for equal rights and equal pay for equal work. No man is ever going to hold her in an economic type of thralldom.

No man but her Old Man, that is.

The other day, for instance, she appeared in my office. She was going to go to lunch with a girl friend. Did I have $5, please?

(Fortunately, she is a very polite kid.)

I gave her a little lecture. I asked her if she knew that as a summer replacement worker she was actually earning nearly as much money as I was when she was born.

She clucked sympathetically and opined that times must have been tough. Then she added: "But I would like to have that $5, please. I only have an hour for lunch and already 10 minutes of it is gone."

★ ★ ★

When I wanted to know why she thought she warranted a $5 lunch, she seemed surprised at my ignorance. "We're not going to eat all that," she explained patiently.

"We're just going to have a sandwich and coffee and then we're going to do a little shopping."

"But why haven't you any money?" I asked, making a last ditch attempt to protect my last five-spot.

"I haven't had time to cash my cheque," she said.

As I handed over the five dollars I had a terrible premonition.

What if my mother-in-law decided to go out and get a job, too? If this happened, economically I would be dead.

Today In History

All 99 persons aboard were killed when a New York-bound Dutch airliner crashed into the Atlantic 12 years ago today—in 1958—in the worst air disaster until then involving a single commercial plane. The crash occurred some 130 miles west of Ireland. The death toll was exceeded in March, 1962, when 111 died as a British charter plane plunged into a swamp in the Cameroon Republic.

The bespectacled African talked like a banker, and you thought back over 10 years. Was it all for this?

The African is the Congolese president, General Joseph-Desire Mobutu who holds his job by the grace of his army, the CIA, $800 million in U.S. aid over a decade, and his cleverness. He traveled to Washington last week on an official visit to meet with President Nixon and to entice white capitalists to sink money into The Congo.

No wild-eyed Canadian he. No talk about 51 per cent Congolese control, Melville Watkins wouldn't last 10 minutes in The Congo where the opposition has been traditionally shot, beheaded or even eaten. The Mobutu message was bland:

"My government has never contemplated tampering with foreign assets or nationalizing foreign companies. That is not part of my economic policy."

★ ★ ★

The emphasis was on "my" economic policy and it should have been. General Mobutu (a sergeant-clerk until Patrice Lumumba made him a colonel) runs The Congo like an old-time African chief. The opposition? He smilingly replies that such "Anglo-Saxon" fetishes as the opposition are not part of the African way. "We just sit down and work things out," he said.

No one of the assembled guests at Washington's National Press Club dared refer to the violent demise of Lumumba and other Congolese leaders who were not so lucky as Mobutu in this African process of finding a consensus.

Would he run for election in the fall? a newsman asked. He patiently explained that people loved him so that he felt constrained to accept their mandate and run unopposed.

★ ★ ★

Mobutu stressed that he was all for "Congolization." Not the Congolization of the early 1960s which meant taking the white man's property and the white man's woman, and then maybe beating up or killing the white man for the fun of it. No, Congolization a la Mobutu is something entirely different. Something akin to what Attorney General John Mitchell or Spiro Agnew might come up with.

"We stand for law and order, for the protection of private property," he said. "We are against racism," meaning no Black Panther nonsense in The Congo.

Law and order a la Mobutu means protecting the 100,000 whites who now run The Congo, many of whom have returned from Belgium following the terror of the early 60s. According to Mobutu, even the giant mining firm Union Miniere (which financed the Katanga rebellion) was free to return.

★ ★ ★

The Americans have a police-training mission in Kinshasha, formerly Leopoldville. The mission is teaching the natives to police the natives and protect the whites. Kinshasha may be a safer city than Washington, where the locals do not have a law-and-order Mobutu to restrain them.

The Russians must be jealous of Mbutu. He is a real achievement of the CIA and U.S. political realism.

New Threat to Wildlife

Mystery Po

By RICHARD MACKIE fro

Federal health authorities are investigating a new mystery pollutant they fear could be as toxic and as dangerous as DDT.

Called polychlorinated biphenyls — PCBs for short — the new pollutant appears to harm the reproductive process in birds and other animals.

Like DDT, the PCBs contain chlorine, hydrogen and carbon — all of which are soluble in animal fat and are extremely persistent.

★ ★ ★

The PCBs are being found in fish, wildlife and in water samples, according to Dr. A. B. Swackhamer, chief of the pesticides division of the Health Department's Food and Drug Directorate.

Due to their similarity, there is even a suspicion that many pollutants identified as DDT in recent years were really PCBs, he said.

Unlike DDT, however, it is not easy to control the entry of PCBs into the environment, he said.

DDT was added deliberately to the environment as a pesticide. It was regulated almost from the beginning in Canada and health authorities have kept a strict control on the amounts of DDT or its by-products allowed in food-stuffs.

★ ★ ★

But the origin of the PCBs that are being found in the environment is not known, said Swackhamer. They could be coming from industry.

Another theory is that they are being synthesized in nature from their components of phenyl and chlorine, he said. Again there is no proof one way or another.

Facelift Coming

An Ailing V

By ROY SHIELDS from

The CBC's Viewpoint is ailing and will undergo surgery.

The hallowed 4½ minutes of personal commentary following the CBC's National News at 11 p.m. is due for a facelift by Sept. 28 that will alter it enough to call for a new name.

But what name? Knowlton Nash, the CBC's director of information programs, says his news team is still in the search of one.

★ ★ ★

Nash says Feedback has been suggested as coming close to the intent of the new Viewpoint, inasmuch as it aims at getting the opinions of the viewers on the air, as well as those of the journalist, professor and various specialists of the past.

Current thinking about the new Viewpoint, Nash said, is to draw on letters received by the CBC.

"For example," he said, "somebody might write in and say, 'what in God's name are we doing in the Arctic? Selling out to the Americans?'

★ ★ ★

"Now this might be one of hundreds of letters we would choose from. And on the basis of its content we would then phone the letter writer and ask him whether he would like to air his views. Then we would go out with a camera crew and ask him to elaborate on the opinions expressed in his letter."

The interview thus gathered would be edited and in all probability form only a part of the overall program. Several such edited interviews may be put together. In some cases, questions raised by a viewer might be answered on air by an expert.

★ ★ ★

So there it is. If you have any ideas for one of those brilliant and distinctive CBC titles, be sure to write Nash. It's your duty as a public-spirited citizen.

Mobuto's Congo Today:

We Stand for Law and Order

By AARON FINFRANK from Washington

The bespectacled African talked like a banker, and you thought back over 10 years. Was it all for this?

The African is the Congolese president, General Joseph-Desire Mobutu who holds his job by the grace of his army, the CIA, $800 million in U.S. aid over a decadc, and his cleverness. He traveled to Washington last week on an official visit to meet with President Nixon and to entice white capitalists to sink money into The Congo.

No wild-eyed Canadian he. No talk about 51 per cent Congolese control, Melville Watkins wouldn't last 10 minutes in The Congo where the opposition has been traditionally shot, beheaded or even eaten. The Mobutu message was bland:

"My government has never contemplated tampering with foreign assets or nationalizing foreign companies. That is not part of my economic policy."

★ ★ ★

The emphasis was on "my" economic policy and it should have been. General Mobutu (a sergeant-clerk until Patrice Lumumba made him a colonel) runs The Congo like an old-time African chief. The opposition? He smilingly replies that such "Anglo-Saxon" fetishes as the opposition are not part of the African way. "We just sit down and work things out," he said.

No one of the assembled guests at Washington's National Press Club dared refer to the violent demise of Lumumba and other Congolese leaders who were not so lucky as Mobutu in this African process of finding a consensus.

Would he run for election in the fall? a newsman asked. He patiently explained that the people loved him so that he felt constrained to accept their mandate and run unopposed.

★ ★ ★

Mobutu stressed that he was all for "Congolization." Not the Congolization of the early 1960s which meant taking the white man's property and the white man's woman, and then maybe beating up or killing the white man for the fun of it. No, Congolization a la Mobutu is something entirely different. Something akin to what Attorney General John MitcheH or Spiro Agnew might come up with.

"We stand for law and order, for the protection of private property," he said. "We are against racism," meaning no Black Panther nonsense in The Congo.

Law and order a la Mobutu means protecting the 100,000 whites who now run The Congo, many of whom have returned from Belgium following the terror of the early 60s. According to Mobutu, even the giant mining firm Union Miniere (which financed the Katanga rebellion) was free to return.

★ ★ ★

The Americans have a police-training mission in Kinshasha, formerly Leopoldville. The mission is teaching the natives to police the natives and protect the whites. Kinshasha may be a safer city than Washington, where the locals do not have a law-and-order Mobutu to restrain them.

The Russians must be jealous of Mboutu. He is a real achievement of the CIA and U.S. political realism. After a weird succession of names like Kasavubu, Adoula, and Tshombe, the Americans finally put all their chips on Mobutu and his army. If it worked in Latin America, it might work in Africa. And it did. So far anyway.

★ ★ ★

The Cuban mercenaries of the CIA who were unsuccessful at the Bay of Pigs worked wonders for Mobutu. They flew his air force which helped destroy several rebellions. Thanks to U.S. help, even the fierce white mercenaries of Katanga were conquered by the Mobutu forces.

Had Mobutu not been clever, the U.S. might have lost a lot. He accepted U.S. aid, and proved his gratitude by praising the Americans this week. Nevertheless, he is his own man.

Mobutu

If the West was not useful to Gen. Mobutu, then the West would not be running The Congo today. But he is not a Lumumba type whose irrationality was his destruction.

★ ★ ★

The general-president has a wonderful way of turning disadvantageous situations to his favor. The Russians once introduced a resolution in the Security Council calling for his arrest for his alleged complicity in the murder of Lumumba. Yet this didn't phase Mobutu. In fact, he cashed in on Lumumba's martyrdom by associating himself with the propaganda campaign which made Lumumba atrocity stories from The Congo.

Thanks to booming exports, the former sergeant-clerk is on the way to making the Congolese currency the only freely-convertible money of black Africa. The Congo is a mecca for investment as it was in the time of Belgian rule. King Badouin can even come back for a royal tour and get the same sort of friendly reception that the Queen got this year in Canada. Mobutu has his portrait publicly displayed with that of the king. One king can help another, just as one president can help another.

★ ★ ★

Mobutu heads back from Washington with whatever presidential charisma that managed to rub off during his friendly visit with Nixon. Congolese flags are all over Washington as I write this — not put up by U.S. blacks but by the Nixon administration. The illiterate natives in the bush may be perplexed by all this, but if we take Gen. Mobutu's word, they wholeheartedly approve. And maybe they do.

★ ★ ★

And you look back at all those interminable Security Council meetings which were spiced by atrocity stories from the Congo.

You remember Dag Hammarskhold staking his and the U.N.'s reputation on The Congo venture, and his death in Katanga under mysterious circumstances.

You remember how John Diefenbaker eagerly volunteered Canadian troops for the Congo, perhaps in the hope of winning glory and a Nobel Prize as Lester Pearson had done in the Mideast in 1956. The Congo won no one any prizes.

★ ★ ★

The UN's Congo fiasco is to a large part responsible for the current weakness of the UN in peacekeeping matters. The UN rushed in where colonialists feared to tread, and the UN got clobbered, financially, politically and prestige-wise.

It was up to U Thant to pull the badly-battered and quite-broke UN out of The Congo, leaving the country to Mobutu, his army, the CIA and the once-discredited Belgian colonialists. Still, those were exciting days at the UN.

New Threat to Wildlife

Mystery Pollutant

By RICHARD MACKIE from Ottawa

Federal health authorities are investigating a new mystery pollutant they fear could be as toxic and as dangerous as DDT.

Called polychlorinated biphenyls — PCBs for short — the new pollutant appears to harm the reproductive process in birds and other animals.

Like DDT, the PCBs contain chlorine, hydrogen and carbon — all of which are soluble in animal fat and are extremely persistent.

★ ★ ★

The PCBs are being found in fish, wildlife and in water samples, according to Dr. A. B. Swackhamer, chief of the pesticides division of the Health Department's Food and Drug Directorate.

Due to their similarity, there is even a suspicion that many pollutants identified as DDT in recent years were really PCBs, he said.

Unlike DDT, however, it is not easy to control the entry of PCBs into the environment, he said.

DDT was added deliberately to the environment as a pesticide. It was regulated almost from the beginning in Canada and health authorities have kept a strict control on the amounts of DDT or its by-products allowed in foodstuffs.

★ ★ ★

But the origin of the PCBs that are being found in the environment is not known, said Swackhamer. They could be coming from industry.

Another theory is that they are being synthesized in nature from their components of phenyl and chlorine, he said. Again there is no proof one way or another.

Canadian-born Dr. Robert Risebrough, a PCB expert at the University of California at Berkeley, suspects the chemical is loosed from manufacturing plants, from leaks and wastes of hydraulic systems, from the wear of PCB-containing materials such as asphalt, and from the burning of other PCB-containing products in city dumps.

★ ★ ★

Risebrough later this summer is to spend six weeks looking for PCBs in the Canadian North during a study funded by the Canadian Wildlife Service.

The Food and Drug Directorate late last year began a special research project to measure the toxicity of the chemical in laboratory animals and to determine the extent of PCB contamination in fresh water fish.

The work by the two branches of government should soon indicate how widespread and how dangerous PCB pollution is in Canada.

Studies by Dr. David Peakall of Cornell University indicated that PCBs upset the natural balance of sex hormones controlling the reproductive processes in animals.

★ ★ ★

When this happens in birds, they either lay thin-shelled eggs which crack or they nest so late that their young starve.

There is a suspicion that repeated ingestion of high PCBs doses by humans could have similar unbalancing effects on their hormones.

In industry, PCBs are used mainly for insulating, as plasticizers in chlorine-based rubbers, as caulking materials and in some hydraulic fluids.

An Ailing Viewpoint

The possibilities are endless —Talkback, Letterrip, Hear Hear, You Don't Say, Opinionated, What's Your Point? No Point, or maybe even Nash's Folly.

But don't forget, keep those letters coming.

The revamping of Viewpoint is only part of an overall new look planned for the National News.

★ ★ ★

The most obvious change will be the disappearance of Warren Davis as the man who reads the 11 p.m. news. He stepped down as of Sunday and CBC announcers will take turns with the news until a final selection of the new man is made.

Right now Lloyd Robertson appears in line for the job, although Nash would not confirm this beyond admitting he is "certainly in the front pack."

★ ★ ★

University Challenge is the name of a new CTV program to be seen this fall at 5 p.m. on Sundays.

It's a Canadian version of the U.S. program College Bowl which has been on the air for 14 years. A similar college competition has also been running in Britain for five years.

CTV has approached 55 universities and colleges in Canada to take part in the series, to be co-produced between the network and its Ottawa affiliate, CJOH-TV.

★ ★ ★

Host of University Challenge will be Bill Walker, the TV actor and pitchman who will commute to Ottawa from his home in Oakville, Ont. Lorne Freed is executive producer.

"The subject matter of the questions given to the panels," says CTV, "will cover the entire spectrum of learning — from poetry to politics, art to astronomy and sports to science. The qualification for answering is a test of instant reflexes and instant recall."

"He says he wants to play David."

Military Proposes U.S. Radar Planes Use Canada Bases

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is being told by its military advisers that provision of Canadian air bases for the planned U.S. airborne warning system would improve Canada's and North America's security.

There is no indication whether the government will take this advice, informants said Wednesday.

Congress has approved initial spending of $170 million as the first phase of a $2 billion U.S. air force plan to provide 42 aircraft which would carry NORAD's radar warning and control system.

The object of North American Air Defence Command is to make the system invulnerable to bomber or missile attack.

Canada, a partner in NORAD, has not decided whether to spend anything on the new airborne network, which would operate much like the present ground radar system, only in the air.

Defence officials say that the normal area of patrol for the radar planes would be off the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and over Canada.

Bases for them in Canada would shorten the time needed for them to reach patrol areas. These radar planes would control the operations of manned and unmanned interceptors.

Provision of bases with full radar planes would cost hundreds of millions of dollars, officials said.

People Fewer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The census bureau has made a sharp downward revision from its estimate of three years ago of what the U.S. population would be by the year 2000. in 1967, census experts projected the total at between 283 million and 361 million. But now, they say, it looks as though the population will fall in a range of 266 million to 320 million by century's end. The bureau said the new estimate is based on a decline in the birth rate.

Courtroom Shootout

Gun Purchaser Now in Canada?

SAN RAFAIL, Calif. (UPI) — A state official investigating last week's Marin County shootout said Thursday night he was not convinced by a television report that admitted Communist Angela Davis had fled the country.

Miss Davis is sought for questioning about her purchase of two weapons used in the gun battle. Station KNXT reported she obtained a passport and traveled to Canada. However, the station did not give a source for its information.

* * *

Assistant Attorney-General Albert Harris Jr., told United Press International his "main concern is that she be available to us for questioning."

He was asked if by that statement he meant Miss Davis, ousted from the UCLA faculty, was in the United States.

"I don't think she's left," Harris said.

He said he would check out the station's report, but added he had more pressing matters.

Earlier Thursday, San Quentin prison officials said two guards involved in the shootout have been moved to protect them from possible inmate reprisals.

* * *

Associate Warden James Park would not identify the two men who were among some 20 guards in nearby San Rafael when gunfire claimed four lives in an abortive kidnap-escape attempt. The slain included a judge, two inmates and an accomplice.

Park said he would not name the men for fear of jeopardizing them.

There were reports from the prison grapevine that some of the younger inmates planned to exact a "one for one" vengence, Park said.

Meanwhile, several Marin county lawyers urged appointment to the municipal bench of assistant district attorney Gary Thomas, critically wounded in the gun battle.

Thomas, 32, is still in serious condition from a bullet wound in the spine and may be paralyzed from the waist down for life.

Car Insurance Act Effective Next June

WINNIPEG (CP) — After next June 30, Manitoba motorists will have to buy their basic insurance from a government corporation.

The legislature prorogued Thursday after giving third and final reading to Bill 56, hoisting a victory flag for Premier Ed Schreyer in the toughest fight he and his minority NDP government have faced since their upset election win 14 months ago.

A last-ditch attempt by Opposition Leader Walter Weir to give the measure a three-month hoist was defeated 29 to 27. Liberal Democrat Larry Desjardins of St. Boniface and independent Gordon Beard of Churchill supported the government.

That their votes went to the NDP must be rated a personal triumph in diplomacy for the 34-year-old premier.

Brandt Buo

MOSCOW — Chancellor Willy Brandt returned to Bonn Thursday leaving behind the impression that the Russians will make concessions on the status of Berlin as part of the price for West German's signature on a non-aggression treaty.

He left Moscow's Vnukovo airport aboard a Lufthansa jet to complete a two-day visit to the Soviet capital for the signing of the treaty and diplomatic talks.

Premier Alexei Kosygin and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko saw him off.

ABM Discussion Made Irrelevant By SALT Speed

VIENNA (UPI) — Diplomatic sources said Thursday U.S. and Soviet negotiators had made such solid progress toward a treaty at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks here as to make the current U.S. Senate debate on antiballistic missiles virtually meaningless.

★ ★ ★

But the sources said U.S. chief negotiator Gerard Smith and his delegation do not oppose continued development of the American ABM system until a treaty has been signed and do not feel this development is hampering discussions with the Soviets.

The first round of SALT, which began in Vienna April 16, will end this morning with a brief plenary meeting at the U.S. Embassy.

Money Missing

CHILLIWACK (CP) — Ronald Cameron Roth, 36, of Chilliwack, suspended from his job as business manager of the Chilliwack forest camp last June, was charged Thursday with theft, and is scheduled to appear in court Sept. 9.

RCMP said the charges were laid after the provincial corrections branch, which operates the camps, reported a "substantial" amount of money missing.

Firefighter Fined $200 For Leaving

KELOWNA (CP) — David Cote of Kelowna was fined $200 by Provincial Court Judge D. M. White Wednesday after pleading guilty to failing to man a forest fire line.

White was told Cote had volunteered for fire duty, but later refused to assist on a fire line and chose to leave a camp where men were gathered to fight the Raymer Lake fire near here last month.

The judge noted that Cote was being paid and received meals, yet refused to fight a fire "Which could have wiped the whole area out."

Brandt Buoys Hope

By HARRY TRIMBORN
Colonist-Los Angeles Times Service

MOSCOW — Chancellor Willy Brandt returned to Bonn Thursday leaving behind the impression that the Russians will make concessions on the status of Berlin as part of the price for West German's signature on a non-aggression treaty.

He left Moscow's Vnukovo airport aboard a Lufthansa jet to complete a two-day visit to the Soviet capital for the signing of the treaty and diplomatic talks.

Premier Alexei Kosygin and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko saw him off.

★ ★ ★

While here, Brandt had long conversations with Kosygin and Communist Party chief Leonid Brezhnev on a wide range of topics, especially development of economic ties.

Brandt said he was impressed with the intensity of his talks with the two Soviet leaders but said "they never became tense and hectic."

West German diplomats here said they were impressed with the cordiality of the Soviet-German meetings and with the widespread publicity given them by the Soviet press during Brandt's visit.

Brandt disclosed some of the content of his talks but he shed little light on what was said about Berlin — and then only in a cryptic manner.

★ ★ ★

"I have my reasons for not saying more to this question now," he told newsmen at a briefing before his departure. "And I would appreciate it if this would be respected."

Still, he indicated that the status of Berlin would be improved from the West German viewpoint.

"I feel that my opinion which I expressed the day before yesterday (Tuesday) in Bonn has been strengthened with the understanding that this treaty has a favorable influence on this problem, in which we have a vital interest," Brandt said.

★ ★ ★

The reference to Bonn was to Brandt's expressed hope that the treaty would have a positive effect on Berlin.

Just what concessions the Russians might be willing to make was not known. It could include strengthening of the Allied asserted rights of access to the divided city and a possible opening of the wall dividing East and West Berlin to increase the now limited access to both sides by East and West Berliners.

The movement of Germans across Communist borders was raised Thursday as a new element in the Russo-German drive for burying the hostilities of the Second World War.

Micheners Touring Canada's Far North

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Michener left Ottawa Thursday on an 11-day visit to Canada's North, his first trip to the Yukon, the western Arctic islands and the Mackenzie Valley.

The vice-regal couple flew to Whitehorse where they are to spend two nights before going on to Mayo, Dawson City and Old Crow. Thy will then visit the Northwest Territories communities of Inuvik, Tuktoyaktuk, Sachs Harbor, Holman Island, Coppermine and Yellowknife.

At Coppermine he is scheduled to take a one-hour canoe trip to Bloody Falls. At Dawson City, he will attend the annual Discovery Day Parade and a performance of the Gaslight Follies.

Look world, I can parallel park

Let's not beat around the block, parallel parking is one of the worst things about driving.

If you can do that you can do anything. And a sure way to succeed is with a Datsun 1600.

A Datsun 1600 will make it where a big car can't. Because a big car's wheels may slip over the curb. Or a fin won't fit. Until, red-faced and humiliated, with all the traffic piling up behind you, you have to give up.

You see, a Datsun 1600 is so compact it fits in places bigger cars fear to tread. So easy to see out of, it's almost like being outside. (Even if you are a foot from the curb, it's still in line with other cars.) And you can park a lot too because Datsun 1600 gives you up to thirty-five miles per gallon of gas.

The 1600 also comes with a three-speed automatic transmission, so everything you do driving can look twice as nice. Automatically. Datsun 1600. There's a place for it.

Papers Take Heavy Beating

Kaiser and CPR Among the Losers

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market took another sharp step downward in light trading.

It was the fourth consecutive losing session.

This is the longest successive period of decline since mid-June.

Largest losses were in beverage, general manufacturing, industrial mining, paper and forest products, real estate and steel sectors.

Among losing stocks, CPR was down 2 to 55, Dome Pete 1⅝ to 52⅞, Labatts 1 to 22, Dominion Textiles ⅜ to 11⅛ and Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas ⅝ to 37⅝. Top trading IOS was off .30 at 1.30.

Lake Dufault dropped ⅜ to 15¼, Sherritt ⅜ to 18⅜, Roman 25 cents to $6.10, Cassiar ¼ to 20⅝ and Canadian Gridoil 50 cents to $6.50.

Placer was up ⅝ to 32⅝ and Endako ⅝ to 13. The two companies have agreed to amalgamate.

Abitibi dropped ⅞ to 6⅜. As the company cut its quarterly dividend rate to five cents from nine cents.

Rally in Western

VANCOUVER — Kaiser Resources dropped to a new low at 11⅜ but later recovered slightly to close at 11⅝. Feature on the upside of industrials was Growers Wine B which was unusually active and up .30 at 3.25. House of Stein rose .15 to 3.25 while Doman, Tokar and Warner B rose .10 each.

Oils were mixed with Ponderay, Royal Canadian and United Bata all lower while Stampede made a small gain.

Major gain in mines was a jump of .20 to 4.55 in Gibraltar and of .35 in Western Mines to 4.35.

Pipelines Higher

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices fell sharply lower as sellers dominated light trading.

Declines were posted across the board with papers taking the brunt of the sell-off by falling more than four points.

Falconbridge Nickel led declines among senior mines and oils with a drop of 2 to 134.

Hollinger was off ⅝ to 30¼, Noranda ⅛ to 27¼, Inco ⅝ to 40⅝, Imperial Oil ¼ to 17, Husky Oil ¼ to 9⅝ and Asbestos ⅛ to 28⅝.

Among other declining issues, CPR fell 2⅛ to 54⅛, Abitibi 1 to 6⅞, Canada Cement Lafarge 1 to 34¼, Kaiser Resources ⅝ to 11¼, Moore Corp ⅛ to 28⅛ while off ¼ were MacMillan-Bloedel at 23¼, Domtar at 12½ and Crush International at 11⅜. Off ⅛ were Zican Aluminum at 20⅝, Bank of Montreal at 14⅝, Bell Canada at 41⅞ and Atlantic Sugar at 6⅛. IOS Ltd. slipped 30 to 1.30.

IBM Falls Again

NEW YORK (CP) — The market continued to slip in somewhat more active trading than was registered in Wednesday's session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks finally rested 3.29 points lower at 707.35 at the close after being down almost 5 points earlier.

The market activity was said to represent a continuation of the bear market trend that has been going on for a long time.

IBM down more than 180 points from its highs of last January closed 7⅝ lower at 223 after being off almost 11 points in earlier trading.

Volume leader on the New York exchange was Telex Corp., off ¼ to 10¼. Other prices included Standard Oil of New Jersey, off 1 at 61⅝, Eastman Kodak off 1⅛ at 58 and Gillette off 1⅛ at 38.

McIntyre Porcupine took the biggest dip among Canadian issues, off 5. Canadian Pacific lost 1⅝, Alcan dropped ⅛ and Dome Mines was down ⅝.

Mine Merger Slated

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

An amalgamation of Placer Development Ltd. with its subsidiary Endako Mines Ltd is planned subject to the approval of the shareholders and tax and securities authorities.

Endako, with a mill capable of handling 28,000 tons of molybdenum ore, is one of the largest in Canada. Its property is about 100 miles west of Prince George.

The plan involves an exchange of shares into a new company, with each Placer shareholder receiving one share in the new company, while shareholders of Endako would receive four new shares for nine now held.

Canex, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Placer, owns 82.48 per cent of Endako shares.

A local investment dealer said the amalgamation, if approved, could affect the income of holders of Endako. Both companies pay $1 a year regular with approximately the same extras — last year, 25 cents each.

"If the holder of nine Endako shares is only to get four shares of Placer, or its equivalent in exchange, the dividend on the new stock will have to be considerably increased, to make it worth his while" he said.

Endako shares trading around $11 give a yield of about 10 per cent, while the yield on Placer at $32 is less than 4 per cent.

NEW ORE FOUND

Rumors about the ore situation at the Buttle Lake operations of Western Mines have drawn a "clarification" from W. G. Jewett, president.

In a news release, Jewett says ore reserves are not calculated until year end, but he said an increase was expected at the Lynx mine where approximately 240,000 tons of new ore had been developed on the eight level.

At Myra Falls drilling had failed to locate any extension of high grade ore, but a new 10-foot wide mineralized zone with a true width of 10 feet had been located 350 feet from the portal of the decline.

He said it averaged 0.12 oz. gold; 9.91 oz. silver; 1.50 per cent copper; 2.71 per cent lead and 20.2 per cent zinc, and would be developed in due course.

□

TURN IN BUILDING

A slight improvement in home building activity is reported for July by Central Mortgage and Housing.

Its preliminary figures for the month show starts of 1,109 in B.C. centres of more than 10,000 population.

This was up from 627 starts in June, but down from July 1969 when there were 2,147 starts.

The biggest decline is in apartment building in the Victoria and Vancouver districts.

□

ABITIBI CUTS RATE

Directors of Abitibi Paper Company announced the quarterly dividend would be cut from 9 cents to 5 cents with the Oct. 1 payment after reporting a sharp loss in earnings during the first half.

The eastern forest industry giant had net earnings of $3,112,622 (15.3 cents a share) after deducting an after tax loss of $445,000 as a result of the freeing of the Canadian dollar in May.

In the first half of 1968 Abitibi made $6,673,484 (35.3 cents).

The drop in profits came despite higher sales of $145,025,000 up $2,150,000 from a year ago.

The reduction in the dividend rate was to conserve cash at a time when anti-inflationary measures were slowing down the general economy.

Bill Yield Drops

OTTAWA (CP) — New 91-day Government of Canada treasury bills auctioned Thursday: $150 million at an average price and yield of 98.593 and 5.72 per cent. Last week, same amount and term, 98.583 and 5.77 per cent.

182-day: $40 million at 97.121 and 5.94 per cent. Last week, same amount and term, 97.157 and 5.87 per cent.

Ottawa Issues Guides For North

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government announced Thursday a series of guides for the future construction of oil and gas pipelines in the North, governing pollution control, Canadian ownership and employment of northern residents.

Industry Minister J. J. Greene and Northern Development Minister Jean Chretien told a joint news conference major oil and gas companies have expressed an interest in constructing pipelines. But initially only one trunk line each for oil and gas in the North would be permitted.

A "corridor" for the initial pipelines would be established at a future date.

In a formal statement, the ministers said the guides will apply to all pipelines tapping oil and gas resources north of the 60th degree of latitude in the Yukon and Northwest Territories and in Alaska.

● The energy and northern development ministers will act as a "point of contact" between industry and government to guide prospective applicants wishing to build pipelines.

● Only one trunk oil pipeline and one trunk gas pipeline will be allowed in the North within a designated "corridor."

● Each of these lines will provide "common carrier" service at published tariffs or a "contract carrier service" at a negotiated price;

● Northern pipelines like those in all other areas of the country, will be under the jurisdiction of the federal government.

● Means of providing Canadians with a "substantial opportunity" for participating in the financing, engineering, construction, ownership and management of the pipelines will play an important part in the government's consideration of applications.

● The National Energy Board will ensure that any applicant gives satisfactory assurances that pollution will be prevented and that the rights of northern residents and freedom of navigation will be preserved.

● Applicants must provide specific programs for employment of residents of the North both during construction and operation.

Jobless Shrink Slightly

OTTAWA (CP) —Unemployment showed some improvement last month, but not as much as it should have, taking seasonal factors into account.

The Manpower department and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimated that 518,000 workers were without jobs at mid-July. This was 5.9 per cent of the labor force, a slight improvement from 6.1 per cent at mid-May and mid-June.

However, there was higher unemployment among workers aged 25 and older, and with the mid-summer peak of job opportunities normally to be expected, the seasonally-adjusted rate of unemployment rose to 6.7 per cent from 6.6 in June. It was the highest rate of unemployment since 1961.

JOBLESS INCREASE

The statistics showed an increase of 220,000 among employed persons under 25. This showed an expansion of summer jobs for students about equal to last year.

In actual terms, without seasonal adjustment, the rate of unemployment improved in all parts of Canada except the Atlantic provinces, where it rose to 6.7 per cent of the labor force from 5.6 in June.

Unemployment was still highest in British Columbia, but declined to 8.3 per cent of the labor force in July from June's 9.7.

Word on Oil Today

OTTAWA (CP) — Energy Minister J. J. Greene said Thursday he plans to make an announcement today about the division of oil markets east and west of the Ottawa Valley.

Under a policy laid down in 1961, the area west of the Ottawa Valley is reserved for Canadian oil production, and the area east of the valley is supplied from foreign sources.

No Place to Stand

Justice waits patiently in back of truck for pedestal to stand on outside Supreme Court in Ottawa Thursday. Pedestals for Justice and Truth — similar oversized bronze statues waiting in vehicle behind Justice — were first reported on broken-down truck east of Ottawa. When they finally arrived, series of accidents further delayed installation of statues. — (CP)

Nixon Veto Overridden

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House voted Thursday to override President Nixon's veto of a budget-busting $4.4 billion school aid bill but sustained his rejection of another $18 billion bill for housing, space, veterans and other government programs.

The school bill now goes to the Senate, where a test was scheduled for Tuesday. Senate leaders forecast that the two-thirds majority vote needed to enact a law over the president's veto also would prevail there.

The House's failure to muster two-thirds approval for the over-the-budget housing bill closed the book on that one. A new bill, presumably tailored more to the president's specifications, will be drafted by the House apprpriations committee.

Nixon vetoed both bills Tuesday on the ground that they appropriated a total of $1 billion more than his requests and would widen a budget deficit he said threatens a renewed wave of inflation.

Tattered Co-Ed Rescued

OCHOPEE, Fla. (AP) — A police posse searching the swampy Everglades rescued a tattered 20-year-old co-ed kidnapped Tuesday night from a lover's lane, and captured the gunman charged with abducting her, police said.

Dale Regina Leach, a Buffalo University student vacationing at Cape Coral, was apparently unharmed.

Charged with kidnapping was James Wesley Ross, 23.

Meanwhile, in Maine, army helicopters joined the search over a three-square-mile area of beach near Ogunquit for the missing 13-year-old daughter of an army brigadier-general, feared kidnapped.

Volunteers combed the area repeatedly Wednesday without turning up a trace of Mary C. Olenchuk, daughter of Brig.-Gen. and Mrs. Peter Olenchuk of Wilmington, Dl.

GM to Pay Nader $425,000

NEW YORK (UPI) — General Motors and one of its most persistent critics, consumer advocate Ralph Nader, announced Thursday they had agreed to settle Nader's $26 million invasion-of-privacy suit against GM for $425,000. Among other things, Nader had charged GM hired girls to entrap him.

Nader said he would use the tax-free money to continue monitoring GM's safety and pollution programs and consumer relations.

In announcing the settlement, a GM spokesman said the agreement "in no respect constitutes an admission of any of the claims asserted by Nader" in the suit.

From his office in Washington, Nader issued a statement that said he agreed to the settlement because "there is every likelihood that General Motors could have delayed this case into the 1980s, when all the culpable officials would have been retired."

Home Recipe Plan Takes Off Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drugstore and ask for Naran. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoonful twice a day as needed and follow the Naran Reducing Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Fish Strike

Province, Ottawa Blamed

HALIFAX (CP) — A fishermen's union leader Thursday accused the federal and provincial governments of failing to accept their responsibility in the long, bitter strike of trawlermen in eastern Nova Scotia.

Homer Stevens, president of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, told an industrial inquiry commissioner that the governments should force collective bargaining for the fishermen or take over the fish plants involved in the strike. The fishermen blamed the two governments for delays in seeking a solution to the strike.

★ ★ ★

Steven's was one of three submissions to Judge Nathan Green, jointly appointed by the two governments to inquire into the strike which has tied up three fish plants in the Strait of Canso area since March 30.

The inquiry ended Thursday. Judge Green said he recognized the urgency of the matter, and would file his report as soon as possible.

★ ★ ★

Counsel for Booth Fisheries Canadian Co. Ltd. and Acadia Fisheries Ltd., the two companies involved, told the inquiry the companies will not recognize the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, but would give voluntary recognition to a union affiliated with the Canadian Labor Congress.

Stevens said the aim of the companies is "to slowly starve the fishermen into giving up their freedom." He contended none of the fishermen's problems could be resolved without a union.

Fish Strike

Province, Ottawa Blamed

HALIFAX (CP) — A fishermen's union leader Thursday accused the federal and provincial governments of failing to accept their responsibility in the long, bitter strike of trawlermen in eastern Nova Scotia.

Homer Stevens, president of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, told an industrial inquiry commissioner that the governments should force collective bargaining for the fishermen or take over the fish plants involved in the strike. The fishermen blamed the two governments for delays in seeking a solution to the strike.

Evenson, Mates Shred Vaunted Esk Defence

EDMONTON — The vaunted defence of the Edmonton Eskimos may never be the same.

British Columbia Lions, with an awesome ground attack led by fullback Jim Evenson, overpowered the Eskimos, 35-7, in a Western Football Conference game before 18,992 Clark Stadium fans Thursday night.

Evenson, given the opportunity by near-flawless signal dalling of Paul Brothers, shredded the Esk defence for 147 yards and three touchdowns, on 23 carries.

Placekicker Ted Gerela contributed 11 points on field goals of 46 and 18 yards, four converts and a single. Lions' other points came on a late touchdown by Rhome Nixon on a pass from Carroll Williams, who replaced Brothers late in the game.

Gerela moved within one point of Saskatchewan's Jack Abendschan, who has 34 points, in the West scoring race.

Mike Eben, a recent acquisition from Toronto Argonauts, got Edmonton's only touchdown on a six-yard run midway through the second quarter with ex-Victorian Dave Cutler kicking the convert.

Next game: Monday—Calgary vs. Saskatchewan at Regina.

TWO-WAY PERFORMANCE

The B.C. offensive line manhandled the Edmonton defence, opening gaping holes for Evenson and his running mates . . . and an inspired Lions defence, led by Jerry Bradley, easily controlled the Eskimo offence.

Bradley intercepted two Don Trull passes, returning one to the Edmonton 23-yard line from where Gerela scored a single on a wide field-goal attempt to make the count 8-0, and the other to the Edmonton eight, setting up Evenson's third touchdown.

Greg Findley and George Juggum made other interceptions for the Lions.

DOZEN INTERCEPTIONS

Edmonton quarterbacks have now had 12 passes intercepted in three games. Trull was the victim three times last night while Rusty Clark had one picked off.

The Edmonton pair completed 17 of 33 pass attempts for 150 yards while Brothers, sticking mostly to the ground, hit on four of 10 attempts for 57 yards. Williams completed both passes he tried for 40 yards.

WHITFIELD STRONG

In addition to Evenson's total, A. D. Whitfield ripped off 68 yards in 16 carries toward a team total of 259 yards on the ground.

It was the second win in four starts for the Lions and moved them into a second-place tie with Calgary Stampeders.

TD EACH QUARTER

The Lions struck early with Evenson scoring on a six-yard run at the 4:44 mark and they added touchdowns in each quarter. They were ahead 8-0 after one quarter, 15-7 at half-time and 25-7 after three quarters.

Evenson's second touchdown came on a six-yard pass play from Brothers and his third on a seven-yard plunge.

A fumble by Whitfield on the Lions' 25-yard line led to Edmonton's only touchdown. Trull completed a pass to the 11-yard line, ran it himself to the seven and then sprung Eban loose on a reverse play.

Lions now have a week off before hosting Calgary next Thursday. Edmonton travels to Montreal for a game on Tuesday.

ALEC MERRIMAN

Take your pick . . . anywhere in Vancouver Island waters . . . and you will have a good chance of getting salmon . . . the only difference is that some spots are better than others.

Tyee waters are all producing, with Muchalat Inlet, from Gold River to Nootka Sound, probably the hottest.

Campbell River's Tyee Pool is producing a few big ones, including a 57-pounder taken Tuesday night by Ross Spiers.

First of the Alberni Inlet tyee have been recorded from Nahmint Bay.

Coho fishing is reported hot all the way from Duncan Bay, north of Campbell River down to the Comox Bar, and from Deep Bay to Claytons is quite good.

In Cape Lazo-Bell Buoy waters off Comox the coho have been snapping wildly at pink, and green and white, bucktails, with a little spinner in front, trolled quickly in the wake of the boat on less than 50 feet of line.

Norris Rocks, off Hornby Island, has been a hot spot.

The mouth of Little Qualicum River has been rewarding trollers with coho up to six pounds, on herring strip, with or without a flasher, and six ounces of weight.

In the early mornings between 5 and 7:30 the waters in front of Eagle Crest have been hot for bucktailers, but when the sun comes up about 7:30 the bite has been stopping cold.

Claytons is reported good. Nanaimo waters have slowed down a little.

Yellow Point, Coffin Point, Tent Island, Kuper Island, Thetis Island and Crofton are all rated fair for coho and small chinooks and at Porlier Pass the bite has been finnicky, but some big chinooks and some coho are being taken.

Cowichan Bay has been on again-off again, but the overall picture is fair. Bert Caldwell of Victoria took a 33-pounder trolling in Cowichan Bay Wednesday. Bob Young of Duncan took a 28.2-pounder, 11-year-old Bill Miles of Duncan a 24-pounder. There are some coho for the taking. Live herring is not available at Cowichan Bay this year.

Saanich Inlet waters have picked up appreciably with anglers averaging a fish a boat, a mixed bag of coho, jacks and bigger chinooks.

Coho are showing in fair numbers and there has been a run of good-sized chinooks—probably Cowichan Bay fish— milling around Finlayson Arm.

Jim Gilbert has been picking up jacks and coho in the Indian Bay to Coles Bay run, but reports fish just about all over the Inlet. Jacks are a little bigger than they were, four to eight pounds now and it doesn't seem to matter what lure you use as long as it is small, under three inches.

In the early mornings nylon line and eight to 12 ounces of weight is taking fish, later in the day you have to go to 150 to 200 feet and a planer for the jacks.

Under-sized coho grilse are a problem in Saanich Inlet.

Weekend fishing at Otter Point was good for a mixed bag of jackspring, pinks and the odd big chinook, but Beecher Bay-Secretary Island is still rated the hot spot. Over-all picture at Sooke this week has been half a fish a boat, with chinooks averaging 12 pounds and a number of coho grilse having to be returned.

★ ★ ★

E. Jarvis took the monthly trophy of Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association for July with a 17-pounder. Mrs. J. Birch took the women's trophy with a 9.2-pounder.

Hidden weight winners were Vic Holman, Jim Leggett, J. F. Swantson, and L. Mahaffey.

★ ★ ★

More than 100 of Vancouver Island's top trap shooters will be out at the Victoria Fish and Game Club's Goldstream trap layout Sunday for the Vancouver Island Shooting League Trap championship shoot, starting at 10 a.m.

Saturday will see a merchandise trap shoot, open to all comers, starting at 4 p.m.

VISL rifle championships will be held Aug. 23 at Port Alberni.

Congratulations are in order to the Canadian Power Squadron for its safety-first program, one of the functions of which is to mark deadheads with fluorescent markers and ribbons.

Many of the squadron boats carry a supply of these markers, so if you see a marker floating about you can be sure there is a boating hazard beneath the water at that point.

TORONTO — Quarterback Don Jonas, former passing star with Orlando Panthers of the Continental League, came off the bench in the second quarter Thursday to spark Toronto Argonauts to their first victory of the Eastern Football Conference season.

Jonas threw three touchdown passes in relief of starter Tom Wilkinson as Argos won their home opener before 33,135 fans, 29-3, over Hamilton Tiger-Cats to move into a second-place tie with the losers, who have played one more game.

BUILT EARLY LEAD

Jonas, who also handles place-kicking duties for Argos and scored on three of four convert attempts, connected for two touchdowns in the second quarter as Toronto built up a 15-0 lead.

Hamilton scored in the final minute of the half on a 19-yard single by Tommy Joe Coffey which tied him with Jackie Parker, B.C. Lions' coach, for the all-time Canadian Football League point-scoring record at 750 points.

Hamilton picked up a safety when Bill Symons was tackled in the end zone in the third quarter and Jonas closed out scoring in the final minute of the game with another touchdown pass after Wilkinson had come on for a touchdown pass early in the quarter.

Explosive halfback Dave Raimey combined with Jonas for the first touchdown on a 60-yard pass-and-run play midway through the second quarter, catching the pass from the quarterback and streaking in from 30 yards out.

FOLLOWED INTERCEPTION

Jonas, who completed 10 of 16 pass attempts for 180 yards, then clicked on three passes, the last an 11-yard toss to flanker Tom Bland, for the second touchdown after linebacker Mike Blum had intercepted a Joe Zuger pass.

Jonas' final touchdown pass was a 45-yard strike to Dick Thornton, a defence back who went in in the final minute as a flanker.

Wilkinson, who was good on six of nine passes for 138 yares and had one intercepted to two for Jonas, combined with end Tony Moro for the other touchdown on a 62-yard pass-and-run play.

MANN BOOTS SINGLES

Toronto's other two points came on singles in the first and second quarters by Dave Mann before Jonas got Toronto moving.

Symons was the leading rusher for Argos with 89 yards on 18 carries while Raimey gained 64 yards on nine carries.

Zuger hit on 11 of 22 passes for 138 yards and had two passes intercepted. Dave Fleming led Ticats with 37 yards rushing in 13 carries.

Argos had a 22-13 edge in first downs and 479-182 margin in total yardage.

Bosman Pitches One-Hitter To Blank Slumping Twins

Hard-throwing Dick Bosman limited Minnesota Twins to only one hit Thursday with an outstanding performance as Washington Senators defeated the slumping leaders in the American League West, 1-0.

Bosman, bringing his record to 12-8, gave up a leadoff bunt single to Cesar Tovar at the start of the game and faced 28 batters, only one over the minimum, in sending Minnesota to its sixth straight loss.

Losing-pitcher Jim Kaat drew a base on balls in the sixth inning after Bosman, who had a 14-5 record and 2.19 earned run average last year in his first season as a regular starter, had retired 16 straigh batters. Kaat, 10-9, was wiped out in a double play.

KAAT TOUGH TOO

Senators manged only five hits off Kaat but staked the 26-year-old Bosman to a lead in the first inning when Wayne Comer got on with a bunt single, moving to third on a wild throw by Harmon Killebrew and scoring when Twins blew a double-play after Frank Howard was intentionally walked.

Second-place Oakland A's failed to gain ground, remaining five games behind the Twins when they were stopped, 4-3, by Cleveland Indians and Sudden Sam McDowell, who picked up his 17th win with a three-hitter.

COMEBACK WIN

Tommy Davis' three-run double in the fifth inning gave Indians their comeback win over the A's who had a five-game win streak snapped.

Oakland scored three unearned runs in the third innings on two of their hits after Vada Pinson had homered in the first for Cleveland.

Roger Repoz' eighth-inning home run gave California a 3-2 victory over Baltimore Orioles as Angels closed to within half a game of Oakland.

Ed Kirkpatrick's first major-league grand slam homer helped Kansas City Athletics to an 11-3 rout of Boston Red Sox, Dave May's fifth-inning home run gave Milwaukee Brewers a 3-2 victory over Detroit Tigers and rookie Frank Baker doubled in the winning run in New York Yankees' 4-3 victory over Chicago White Sox in other action.

In the National Legue, Jim Merritt picked up his 17th victory as Cincinnati Reds' home-run power prevented New York Mets from gaining ground on idle Pittsburgh Pirates in the close Eastern Division race.

Johnny Bench, the major-league leader, hit his 40th home run, Tony Perez added his 36th and Lee May, with a shot immediately after Bench's in the fourth inning, his 25th as the Reds won, 6-1, behind Merritt's five-hitter.

CUBS GAIN GROUND

Chicago Cubs, closing to within four games of Pittsburgh, downed San Francisco Giants, 6-3, on home runs by Ron Santo, Billy Williams (his 32nd) and winning-pitcher Milt Pappas, who went the distance to raise his record to 8-5.

Ollie Brown and Jose Arcia each drove in three runs as San Diego Padres snapped St. Louis Cardinals' three-game win streak with a 9-7 victory.

Jesus Alou's two-run single with two out in the eighth inning capped a three-run rally which lifted Houston Astros to a 4-3 victory over Philadelphia Phillies.

George Stone, gaining his first win since July 6, combined with Hoyt Wilhelm for a three-hitter as Atlanta Braves completed a three-game sweep over Montreal Expos, 4-1.

Nanaimo Boxla Club Upsets McDonalds

Nanaimo City, third-place finishers in the Vancouver Island Senior "B" Lacrosse League, upset Victoria McDonald's Bread, 12-8, Thursday night at Memorial Arena in the first game of their best-of-three semi-final series.

Mike Good, who had four assists, and Leigh Jeffs led Nanaimo scorers with three goals each. Dave Collett (2), Joe Manzini (2), Jim Scott and Al Mayson also scored for the winners.

Pat Green and Muzz Bryant had two goals each for Victoria, who finished second in regular-schedule play. Jim Walshaw, Fred Moulson, Murray Murault and Rod Hamilton completed the scoring. Victoria was without four of their regulars for the game.

Second game will be played at Nanaimo Saturday.

NEW WESTMINSTER — Paul Parnell scored four goals and added three assists Thursday to lead champions New Westminster Salmonbellies to a 16-12 victory over Vancouver Burrards in Western Lacrosse Association action.

Brothers Wayne and Ed Goss and junior Tracey Wright each added three goals while Ray Bennie scored twice and Al Lewthwaite, once.

Vancouver, which missed a chance to clinch at least a tie for second place, received three goals each from Ross McDonald and Gord Frederickson. Bill Rawson and Brian Davidson each scored twice with the other goals coming from Art Dickinson and Brian Ansley.

Sneva Repeats at Langley

LANGLEY — Tom Sneva of Spokane gained his second victory in the five-race International Drivers' Challenge series for super modifieds here Thursday night.

Winner Wednesday at Victoria's Western Speedway, Sneva won fast time honors last night and threaded his way through the pack to take the lead on the 18th lap of the 100-lap feature. He led the rest of the way to pocket another $1,100 in prize money.

Roy Smith of Victoria, as on Wednesday, was second.

The series continues tonight at Bellingham and winds up Saturday and Sunday at Munroe, Wash.

Pancho Loses Cool but Wins Match

TORONTO (CP) — Volatile Pancho Gonzales curbed his temper enough to survive three match points and defeat Ron Holmberg of Highland Falls, N.Y., 6-4, 4-6, 8-6, in rain-delayed, second-round singles play at the $23,000 Canadian open tennis championship Thursday.

The fifth-seeded Gonzalez, of Los Angeles, broke Holmberg's service in the fifth and seventh games to win the first set, but erupted in the second set when a fault was called in the 10th game.

Trailing 5-4 in games and leading 40-15, the colorful Californian lost the point and when a fault was called at deuce he yelled at the linesmen:

"That's a fault. The other was on the line."

He then bashed a ball that was being returned to his court at the wall behind him, missing another linesman by about three feet and drove a second ball at the linesman who made the call.

Holmberg then broke Gonzales' service to force a third set.

After Holmberg held his service, to win the opening game of the deciding set, Gonzalez halted play before he started to serve to exchange words with part of the capacity crowd of 2700.

"Please play, gentlemen, nobody wants to make a mess out of this," implored the umpire.

"Why don't you tell the linesman that?" retorted Gonzalez.

He then hit another ball out of the court, over the stands and a row of trees.

When they switched courts, Ganzalez also spoke to the linesman who made the call in the second set, but did not ask that he be replaced.

Gonzalez then evened the match, broke Holmberg's service in the third game to go ahead 2-1, then rattled off four straight points to lead 3-1 on his own service.

and the match was evened at faults to lose the eighth game

Needing only to hold his service to win, Gonzalez served two consecutive double 4-4.

Holmberg won on his service and had Gonzalez at love-40 in the 10th game but Gonzalez used his backhand to even the game at deuce and scored two more straight points to tie the set 5-5.

Homberg went ahead 6-5 but Gonzalez broke his serve in the 13th game and held his own serve in the last game as Holmberg's only point came when Gonzalez double-faulted again.

Top-seeded Rod Laver of Australia made his tournament debut and won his second-round match, 6-3, 6-1, over countryman Bill Bowrey.

Soccer Star's Wife Object of Threat

LONDON (Reuters) — Armed detectives are maintaining a close guard on the family of Bobby Moore, captain of the English national soccer team, after a threat to kidnap his wife Tina for £10,000 ($25,000) ransom, Scotland Yard said Thursday.

The around-the-clock watch started after an anonymous letter sent to a London evening newspaper was passed to the police Monday.

The letter warned: "Within the next few days five men, two of them are armed, are going ahead with their plans to kidnap Mrs. Tina Moore.

"They will release her only if Mr. Moore pays them £10,000 ransom money," it added.

Petition Accepted For His Arrest

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Magistrate Jorge Cardenas accepted the petition of a public prosecutor to issue an arrest warrant against British soccer star Bobby Moore, the newspaper El Tiempo reported Thursday.

Moore was accused of having stolen a gold and emerald bracelet, valued at $1,300, from a jewelry store in May while he was in Bogota prior to the World Cup soccer matches in Mexico.

El Tiempo said the Moore case may have been one of "scandalous intrigue" and that the secret police are trying to determine whether "this intrigue had a shady origin related to sports, with the aim in influencing the soccer championship, or if, contrarily, it was premeditated and hatched here with the criminal purpose of extorting money when only a few hours lacked for the beginning of the Jules Rimet Cup."

The report that the magistrate had accepted the petition of prosecutor Rafael Campo Restrepo had yet to be confirmed officially but indicated that the judge found the petition within the law which stipulates that the testimony of but one credible witness is necessary to justify the issuance of a precautionary arrest warranty.

At Western Speedway...

Dave Cooper Wi

By LORI WELLS

As the roar of the powerful super stocks return to Western Speedway Saturday, local auto racing fans will have the privilege of seeing one of the most exciting and competitive drivers to ever grace the Langford oval — Victoria's own Dave Cooper.

Dave first climbed behind the wheel of a race car in 1946, starting an affair between man and machine that has lasted well over 24 years — a relationship that is as strong today, as it was then.

FIRST MODEL T

The first car he owned was a model "T" Ford, purchased in 1933 for $1.50. At the age of 12, he put months of hard work into restoring the car then sold it for a profit of $3.50, launching a career that would prove successful, in both business and racing.

It was several years later that Dave took to the track for the first time — in a cumbersom '36 Buick. The car had cost him $35 — and the engine was borrowed. In this, he won his first main event, kicking off a reputation in racing that remains unequalled today.

Through the years, racing has taken him to many points in Canada and the United States, including the track at Riverside, Calif., to compete with drivers that would make a who's who in the world of auto sports.

He has piloted everything from a motorcycle to a modified — and he has led the field in each class.

In 1954 he captured the Island Sprint Car Championship, in 1964 the Canadian Auto Sport Club's Western Regional Rally Championship, and on seven occasions, he has earned the No. 1 spot for points at Western Speedway, as well as the Island Stock-

Marlene Slips to 76 But Clings to Lead

TORONTO (CP) — Marlene Stewart Streit of Fonthill, Ont., held a one-stroke lead Thursday after three rounds of the Canadian women's open amateur championship.

Mrs. Streit shot a three-over-par 76 for a 54-hole 222, one better than Gail Moore of New Westminster, and Jocelyn Bourassa of Shawinigan, Que., who shot 76 and 74, respectivtly.

PLAY DELAYED

Play for the Duchess of Connaught Gold Cup was delayed for about one hour at the Oakdale Golf and Country Club by rain and lightning after half of the field of 65 players had completed 18 holes. The rest of the field, including the leaders, resumed play in sunshine.

Mrs. Streit, defending champion and 10-time winner of the competition, went two over par on the front nine holes with a 39 before play was suspended and shot one-over 37 on the back nine.

SECOND-PLACE TIE

Mrs. Moore, one stroke back of Mrs. Streit at the end of two rounds in the 72-hole competition, also shot 39 and 37 for her 76.

Miss Bourassa, third after two rounds, moved into a second-place tie with Mrs. Moore by shooting a pair of 37s for her 74.

TWO GET BEST SCORE

Miss Bourassa's 74, along with Gayle Borthwick's 74, were the best scores of the day.

Mrs. Borthwick, of Mississauga, Ont., was fourth with her three-round total of 226.

Mrs. Moore said rain on the green of the 11th hole, where she started after the delay, caused her to go two over par.

MARILYN SHARES FIFTH

Betty Cole of Edmonton, with a 77, and Marilyn Palmer of Vancouver, with a 78, were in a fifth-place tie with 230.

Holly Botham of Haney, winner last week of the Canadian junior women's title, had an 81 Thursday for a total of 245. Barbara Renwick of Vancouver also shot an 81 for 247. They were the only other B.C. players surviving the cut after Wednesday's round.

The final round at the 6020-yard, par-73 course is today.

LONDON (Reuters) — Armed detectives are maintaining a close guard on the family of Bobby Moore, captain of the English national soccer team, after a threat to kidnap his wife Tina for £10,000 ($25,000) ransom, Scotland Yard said Thursday.

The around-the-clock watch started after an anonymous letter sent to a London evening newspaper was passed to the police Monday.

The letter warned: "Within the next few days five men, two of them are armed, are going ahead with their plans to kidnap Mrs. Tina Moore.

"They will release her only if Mr. Moore pays them £10,000 ransom money," it added.

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Magistrate Jorge Cardenas accepted the petition of a public prosecutor to issue an arrest warrant against British soccer star Bobby Moore, the newspaper El Tiempo reported Thursday.

Moore was accused of having stolen a gold and emerald bracelet, valued at $1,300, from a jewelry store in May while he was in Bogota prior to the World Cup soccer matches in Mexico.

Lefty-Righty

California Pair Takes Lead

A pair of golfers from San Francisco, Tom James and Charles Wilks, took the first-round lead in the third annual Lefty-Righty Golf Association tournament at Royal Colwood Thursday.

They matched par with a best-ball score of 70, two strokes better than three other pairs. Runners-up with 72 are: Gordon Millen and Ron Howard Sr., of Colwood; Ray Tuil and Mike Pyke of Calgary; and Jack Keller and Don Ross of Colwood.

The top 12 teams gained spots in the championship flight of the 54-hole competition which continues today and Saturday.

A total of 48 teams, from California, Oregon, Washington, Alberta and British Columbia are entered in the three-day event.

Roxburgh Close to Leader In Canadian Amateur Golf

OTTAWA (CP) — John Mahaffey from San Antonio, Tex., fired his second consecutive 69 Thursday to take the lead at the halfway mark of the Canadian amateur golf championship at the Ottawa Hunt and Golf Club.

The 22-year-old graduate of University of Houston matched his round Wednesday for a 138 total, one stroke ahead of the first-round leader, Allen Miller.

ROXBURGH THIRD

Doug Roxburgh of Vancouver, Robert Zender of Skokie, Ill., and Don Klenk of Medinah, Ill., were bunched at six-under-par with 140 each.

Mahffey said that although his wedge "wasn't working too well," he had better luck with his putter and drained a 25-foot putt on the 17th hole and a 40-footer on the 12th.

LOTS OF PRACTICE

The slightly-built golfer, who practises six hours a day at his home course and has played in 20 tournaments in the last year, birdied three of the par-five holes on the 6714-yard course.

Stu Hamilton of Brampton, Ont., carded a two-under 71 to go with his opening 72 for a fourth-place tie with four other players.

Faced with an exhaustingly humid 86-degree temperature and new pin placements, many of the 167-man field shot themselves out of contention.

LOTS OF TROUBLE

Wayne McDonald of Oakville, Ont., who was in second place with a 67 Wednesday, and John Sale of Calais, Me., who had a 68, found out how hard it was early in their second rounds.

McDonald shot a 41 on the front nine Thursday and came in with 77. Sale found trouble on nearly every hole, shot 40 on the first nine and finished at 78.

The course was set up easier Wednesday to allow the field to finish the first round in regulation time and 50 golfers came in at par 73 or under. But tees were set back further, pins were placed near the green fringes Thursday and the result was a batch of high scores.

FIVE UNDER PAR

Gary Cowan of Kitchener, and Keith Alexander of Calgary, who played in a three-some with Miller, shot 70s to leave them at 141-five under par after 36 holes.

Roxburgh, 18, and Dan Talbot, 17, of Beloeil, Que., among the youngest players in the tournament fired 72 and 69, respectively. At the halfway mark Talbot was a stroke behind Roxburgh at 141.

FIELD CUT TO 60

The field was trimmed to the 60 low players and ties for the final two rounds.

Neil Crofton of Vancouver, a Willingdon Cup teammate of Roxburgh, just made the cutoff total of 149 as he added a 75 to his opening 74.

Teammates Carl Schwantje of Victoria and John Russell of Vancouver missed out however, Schwantje slipping to a 77 for a 152 total to tie with Russell, who had a 75.

Vancouver's Ross Ellison was also at 152 after a 74 and John Johnston of Vancouver had 78 for 154.

At Western Speedway...

...On Saturday Night

Dave Cooper Will Be There

By LORI WELLS

As the roar of the powerful super stocks return to Western Speedway Saturday, local auto racing fans will have the privilege of seeing one of the most exciting and competitive drivers to ever grace the Langford oval — Victoria's own Dave Cooper.

Dave first climbed behind the wheel of a race car in 1946, starting an affair between man and machine that has lasted well over 24 years — a relationship that is as strong today, as it was then.

FIRST MODEL T

The first car he owned was a model "T" Ford, purchased in 1933 for $1.50. At the age of 12, he put months of hard work into restoring the car then sold it for a profit of $3.50, launching a career that would prove successful, in both business and racing.

It was several years later that Dave took to the track for the first time — in a cumbersom '36 Buick. The car had cost him $35 — and the engine was borrowed. In this, he won his first main event, kicking off a reputation in racing that remains unequalled today.

Through the years, racing has taken him to many points in Canada and the United States, including the track at Riverside, Calif., to compete with drivers that would make a who's who in the world of auto sports.

He has piloted everything from a motorcycle to a modified — and he has led the field in each class.

In 1954 he captured the Island Sprint Car Championship, in 1964 the Canadian Auto Sport Club's Western Regional Rally Championship, and on seven occasions, he has earned the No. 1 spot for points at Western Speedway, as well as the Island Stock-Car Driving Championships. His trophies number close to 300.

Dave Cooper

Each period of travel has brought Dave back to Western Speedway, just as every class of car has brought him back to his first love—the stock car. Three years ago he teamed up with another veteran racer, Dick Midgley, along with Nelson Morely and his son, Steve Cooper, to build the most sophisticated stock car of his career—a super stock, one of the first to be built and run locally.

Since 1946, his driving career and his plumbing business have flourished, while he has put up with the affectionate nick-names he has been tagged with, throughout the year—"The Flying Plumber", "Coop" and more recently, "The White Knight." The reason for the latter came this year when after driving a black car for several years he appeared behind the wheel of a shiny white '65 Chevelle.

Contrary to popular belief, drivers do not quit because they lose their ability to drive. They give up racing when they begin to resent the financial burden of supporting a race car, or they no longer experience the thrill that comes with racing.

Dave Cooper will never give up racing. To him, each time he climbs behind the wheel of a race car, it is like the first. The excitement and the challenge will never escape him.

NEW CHALLENGE

Cooper has already decided, that should the day come when he no longer chooses to drive, he would like to enter into the building of competitive machines—marking not the end of a career, but only the beginning of a whole new challenge.

But Saturday he'll be there for the time trials at 7 p.m. and racing at 8.

Nicklaus, Miller Lead PGA As Only Four Better Par

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, bagging birdies by the pair, stormed in with a two-under-par 68 Thursday and tied John Miller for the first-round lead in the PGA National Championship.

Charles Coody and Larry Hinson followed at 69 and were the only other players in the select field able to break par on the sun-seared Southern Hills Country Club course, a 6962-yard layout.

WRONG CLUB

"I played all right," said Nicklaus, the pre-tourney favorite and currently the hottest player on the tour. "I hit the ball extremely well. I played the wrong club once and that cost me two strokes."

That was on the par-three sixth on which he went two over.

But Jack, the reigning British Open champion who hasn't finished worse than second in his last four tournaments, got that back with birdies on 10 and 11, then closed with birdies at 16 and 17.

Arnold Palmer, the 40-year-old athlete of the decade who is seeking the one major title that has eluded him, was in contention at 70, but some of the other great names of the game had their difficulties in the strength-sapping heat.

TREVINO, CASPER AT 72

Lee Trevino had a 72. So did Masters champion Billy Casper. U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin and South African Gary Player stumbled in with 74s.

Defending champion Ray Floyd took a 71, then went hustling off in a search of an official to make a complaint.

Floyd said that on the landing area for the par-four fourth hole, "divots had been filled in with piles of red sand."

It's all over out there. It looks like an animal has been there."

Palmer headed a big group at 70 that included 57-year-old Sam Snead, Homero Blancas, Dave Stockton, Jacky Cupit and New Jersey club pro Dick Hendrickson.

Miller is a 23-year-old tour sophomore from San Francisco, competing in his first PGA and looking for his first professional triumph.

He had three over-par holes and five birdies.

Nicklaus, on a hot streak that has won him $66,500 in his last four tournaments, had five birdies.

He gained a share of the lead on the 552-yard, par-five 16th. He reached the green in two big hits, and just missed on an 18-foot eagle putt.

George Knudson of Toronto, only Canadian in the tournament, shot a 77.

Hardluck Guy

Right-hander Bill Singer, sidelined from April 22 to June 14 with hepatitis, suffered two lineal fractures of the right index finger Wednesday and will be lost to Los Angeles Dodgers for two to three weeks.

Whalley Plays Windsor for Title

STONEY CREEK, Ont. (CP) — John Cole, 14, tossed a two-hitter Thursday as Whalley, B.C. defeated Edmonton 5-0 and moved into the finals for the Canadian senior little league baseball championships.

Whalley meets undefeated Windsor, Ont., in the final. Windsor has two chances at the title since they are the only undefeated team in the double-knockout tournament.

Should Windsor lose today's game, the clubs play again Saturday.

Gorge Hotel defeated last-place Imperial Essos, 7-1, Thursday night at Royal Athletic Park and only need a win Monday to clinch the Senior Amateur Baseball League title.

Gorge and second-pace Transport Workers will complete a pair of tie games from earlier in the season on Monday night and Gorge can claim the top spot with a victory in one of them.

George Brice limited Essos to three hits for the win, striking out six while allowing only one base on balls.

Gorge broke the game open with a four-run barrage in the fifth inning, highlighted by Wayne Peters' bases-loaded triple.

Cablevision Extends Series

A fourth game will be necessary in the best-of-three Victoria Senior Women's Softball League final series.

Cablevision defeated Vicettes, 7-4, Thursday night at Central Park in a replay of the opening game of the series which Vicettes won, 5-4, but protested by Cablevisions. The protest was upheld, forcing Thursday's game which tied the series at 1-1. Final game will be played Tuesday at Central Park starting at 6:30 p.m.

'Cold Duck'

What an absurd, ridiculous, inappropriate, dumb name for a great new sparkling wine.

Actually, there is a reason for it. The name Cold Duck is a literal translation of a German pun. At the end of a party, guests would mix left-over wines together . . . calling the results "Kalte Ende", or "cold ends". Then the last word "Ende" was jokingly changed to "Ente", meaning literally "duck".

But there's no joking about the taste of Andrés Cold Duck wine. It's a tingling, unstuffy blend of champagne and fine sparkling Burgundy. It maketh merry, it's new from Andrés. You'll like it.

B.C. Sniper Scores Again

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP) — Bev Pinney of Haney, B.C., outfoxed tricky winds Thursday to come out on top for the second time in this year's annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association matches, being held at Connaught Ranges, near this community about 10 miles west of Ottawa.

Pinney fired a 143 — and 20 V-bulls — in the Alexander match shot from 800, 900 and 1,000 yards with 10 bullets at each distance.

Two other shooters, Arthur DeBodt of Stellerton, N.S., and Gerry Ouellette of Windsor, Ont., also fired a 143 in the windy match. Debodt had only 12 V-bulls in second place: Ouellette had 11 V bulls for third place.

New Champ

HALIFAX (CP) — Gary Broughton of Brantford, Ont., won the Canadian middleweight boxing championship here Thursday night, dethroning Dave Downey of Halifax with a ninth-round knockout.

Givan Reaches Final Third Straight Year

Harry Givan of Seattle, bidding to become the first since Seattle's Ralph Whaley to win the Seniors North West Golf Association grand championship in three consecutive years, has advanced to today's final.

Givan, the 1968 and 1969 champion, defeated Dr. George Bigelow, B.C. champion and a former Canadian titlist in senior ranks, 5 and 4, Thursday in the semi-final on the latter's home course, Victoria Golf Club.

Whaley, who holds the record of seven titles, won three in a row ending in 1951 and four in a row previous to that string.

Although Dr. Bigelow, the 1966 champion, was sidelined, Victoria still has a chance for the title this year.

Bill Thompson downed Seattle's Bruce Shorts, 5 and 4, in the other semi-final and meets Givan today at 9:30 a.m.

In all, Victorians have reached two of the six championship finals with Gordon Verley making the "D" championship match against Don Seaberg of Spokane.

Jack Edgell of Vancouver is the only other Canadian to reach the championship finals. He meets 1963 "C" winner Bob Littler of Seattle in the "A" final.

Guild Will Screen Nudity

LOS ANGELES (LAT) — The Screen Actors Guild has announced it is forming study groups to examine a growing occupational hazard within the acting profession: nudity.

"Due to increasing utilization of sex and nudity in motion pictures films," said a spokesman, "the study committees have been appointed to determine what action may be necessary for protection of members involved in such situations."

What situations? The SAG cited a few:

ENTRAPMENT — Where a producer hires an actress for a role but doesn't tell her about nude scenes until after she has started working on the film.

DISROBEMENT — Where girls reporting for casting interviews are required to disrobe by producers.

EMBARRASSMENT —Where a still photo of a nude scene made during a brief long shot is enlarged, distributed or sold to the needless embarrassment of an unsuspecting actor or actress.

ENTERTAINMENT GUIDE

BUTCHART GARDENS. INCREDIBLY BEAUTIFUL! OPEN EVERY DAY 9 A.M. TO 11 P.M. . . . ROMANTIC ILLUMINATION . . . SPARKLING ENTERTAINMENT . . . RESTAURANT. COFFEE BAR SERVICE. 6 GARDENS PLUS BEGONIA BOWER, SHOW GREENHOUSE AND THE FASCINATING SEED AND GIFT SHOP. The gardens were developed from an abandoned cement quarry to become one of the most admired, talked-about, written-about showplaces in the world. 30 acres, planned and planted to maintain a continuous peak of perfection. Actually 6 gardens in one—fabulous Sunken Garden, Lake Garden featuring the spectacular "Ross Fountains," English Rose, stately Italian, quaint Japanese, and the great Stage Show Garden.

BUTCHART GARDENS ROMANTIC ILLUMINATION. Every evening 'til midnight. Gates close 11 p.m. Bathed in the subtle glow of 1,000 hidden lights, the entire 30 acres are transformed into a fairyland of indescribable beauty. Be sure to see the Sunken Garden and the spectacular "Ross Fountains." They alone are worth a visit. Invite a friend and share your happiness. Drive out today . . . tonight!

BUTCHART GARDENS SPARKLING ENTERTAINMENT. Staged in the midst of incredible beauty . . . highlights the summer entertainment season in Victoria. Every day or evening to September 6. For sitting around, the evenings are not as warm now, so bring a sweater, a blanket. Be comfortable, enjoy yourself, it's an informal affair.

MONDAYS, 8:30 p.m.: "Sing Out Victoria." Over 40 singers and musicians. Part of the International Up with People program.

TUESDAYS, 8:30 p.m.: "Nice 'n Easy." Variety musical entertainment featuring vocalists John Dunbar, Marge Bridgeman, John Crago and Betty Winter with folk singers Alan and Mimi Robertson, plus the "Butchart Buskers."

WEDNESDAYS, 8:30 p.m.: Same program as Mondays.

THURSDAYS, 8:30 p.m.: "Scottish and Variety Night." Colorful Scottish Stage Show and Tattoo. Thrill to the Pipes and Drums of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) as they march on our stage and parade in the great Stage Show Garden. Plus other entertainment starring John Dunbar, baritone; soprano Grace Lux, accordionist Lawrence Tuttle, Adeline Duncan Dancers, Gail Bamford , champion Highland dancer; Grace Timp, pianist, and drummer Dave Fern. "Zingari" Puppets, 7 and 7:45 p.m.

FRIDAYS, 8:30 p.m.: Same program as Mondays.

SATURDAYS: "The Butchart Buskers" 1 to 3 p.m. (A zany Dixieland band of 6 entertaining and talented musicians.) 7 and 8 p.m.: "Zingari" Puppets. Approximately 8:30 to 9:30 p.m.: Color Film "Helicopter Canada."

SUNDAYS: "The Butchart Buskers," 1 to 3 p.m. "Grace Tuckey" Puppets, 3:30 and 4:30 p.m. Recorded Concert Music 3 to 5 p.m. Color film "Helicopter Canada," approximately 8:30 to 9:30.

BUTCHART GARDENS RESTAURANT. Delicious lunches, afternoon teas served 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day. Monday through Friday, buffet suppers served 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Snack Bar always open.

IF YOU HAVE FRIENDS ARRIVING, don't fuss. Show them a good time in a grand way. Invite them to see the Gardens. A most appreciated and gracious way to entertain.

BUTCHART GARDENS SUGGESTS THIS GOOD, THRIFTY IDEA: Come in late afternoon, see the gardens by daylight, enjoy a delicious buffet supper, then take in the stage show followed by a tour of the gardens under the romantic night lighting. Breathtaking! Entirely different! Don't miss the fabulous Sunken Garden or the "Ross Fountains." Their fascination is beyond description. No extra charge for entertainment and night lighting.

Yes, Yes Nanette

Ruby Keeler, tap-dancing motion picture star of 1930s, is returning to Broadway this fall after 41-year absence. Now 60-year-old grandmother who in private life is Mrs. John Lowe of Newport Beach, Calif., Halifax-born Miss Keeler will play part of foster mother in revival of Vincent Youman's 1925 musical comedy, No, No Nanette.

Love Grows Back From Coal Shed

GLOUCESTER, England (UPI) — Three years ago, Irene Tullet divorced her husband Harry, and Harry went to live in the coal shed behind her house.

In court Tuesday, when Harry was sentenced to two years probation for stealing, the two embraced and agreed to remarry.

Harry said he would undergo medical treatment for his heavy drinking. "I always told him I would remarry him if he got treatment for his drinking problem," she said.

An Unlikely Success

LONDON (CP) — The best investment Canadian producer Bill Freedman ever made will soon end its money-spinning career on the London stage, although customers are still lining up at the box office.

Hadrian the Seventh, a fantasy about a cigarette-smoking English Pope who wants to give away the Vatican's fortune, was turned down by 15 London managements before Toronto-born Freedman snapped it up for a peppercorn fee.

It turned into one of the sleeper sensations of the 1960s and has grossed more than $1 million in London and New York. Freedman and his American colleague Charles Kasher now have decided to bring the curtain down Sept. 5 after a 2½-year run in London, although tickets are still selling well at the Haymarket Theatre.

"We didn't want to invite an anti-climax and stay on until the audience fell away," explained Freedman.

The play, which has been produced in 15 countries and ran for a year on Broadway, will be made into a movie next year by John Schlesinger, director of the award-winning Midnight Cowboy.

Actors as well as managements shunned Hadrian at the beginning, with 17 leading players turning down the name role, which became a triumph for Alec McCowen. Two other actors have since played Hadrian.

Canada's Douglas Rain and Britains' Paul Daneman. The movie lead will be played by McCowen.

Bargaining Resumes Today

Postal Talkers Quiet

OTTAWA (UPI) — The government and union negotiators Thursday talked over the new government offer in the labor dispute that has disrupted Canada's mails for most of this year, and agreed to meet again today but weren't saying what they told each other.

At the close of a three-hour session, the postal union officials said both sides agreed to resume discussions at 10:30 a.m. Today.

Further comment was refused.

The Council of Postal Unions has been expected to make a counter-proposal to the treasury board's improved offer of a 47-cent increase in hourly wages over a 32-month contract period, made Monday.

Union negotiators were straight-faced when they emerged from the conference room at 1:30 p.m. and gave no indication what position they would be taking today, or whether any progress toward settlement has been made.

Mailmen Apologize For Interruption

HANEY (CP) — Twenty-two postal workers here who oppose their national union's policy of rotating strikes have apologized to residents for an interruption in mail delivery service this week.

The Haney Council of Postal Unions placed an advertisment in the weekly Gazette, published Wednesday, saying it regretted the interruption, which happened Monday when union members from Greater Vancouver picketed the local post office.

The Haney mailmen had voted overwhelmingly against taking part in rotating strikes, although they have said they would join in any countrywide strike. But they did not cross the picket line Monday.

Welfare Verdict Reserved

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mr. Justice Thomas Dohm reserved decision Wednesday on an application by construction worker Ross Alden, 25, for an injunction to restrain Welfare Minister Phil Gaglardi and his department from refusing social assistance to persons out of work because of strikes or lockouts.

Lawyer Lloyd McKenzie, representing the provincial government at the hearing, said Alden was not denied assistance as a result of labor troubles, but because he was not "destitute and suffering."

Safeway Campaigns To Clean Up Litter

A B.C.-wide stop litter campaign by Canada Safeway is being launched as a part of a drive involving five provinces.

The announcement of the campaign was made by W. J. Craft chairman of the board of Canada Safeway Limited. He said the campaign is being launched in all of the areas in which the company operates stores in British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario.

The campaign over the next two months will be directed not only to employees of all Safeway operations but to the public at large. It emphasizes that litter is a personal problem and only the adoption of good habits will eliminate or reduce it.

Addict Just Caught By 'Vicious Drug'

"The life of a heroin addict is almost always brief and wretched," Judge William Ostler told a 20-year-old Saanich man Thursday in Victoria Provincial Court before he passed sentence.

Brian Tucker, of 1551 Arrow, was given a jail term of one year definite and 18 months indefinite. He was convicted at an earlier hearing on a charge of being in possession of a narcotic.

The judge told Tucker he didn't think he was in any way vicious.

"You have just been caught by a vicious drug," he explained, and added that Tucker couldn't get away from it by himself.

The judge also said he hoped Tucker would be helped to overcome the habit while in jail.

□

Wendell Aakre, 28, of 1915 Leighton Road, pleaded guilty to a charge of being in possession of a narcotic and was fined $400.

Court was told Aakre was stopped by police Aug. 5 while in a car and was found to be in possession of a small quantity of marijuana.

□

Norman Day, 8532 Patricia Bay Highway, was fined $25 after being convicted on a charge of allowing livestock to be on a highway. He was the owner of two cows which were involved in a traffic accident and had to be destroyed.

□

Giovanni Calgaro, 22, of 3459 Bethune, Saanich, pleaded guilty to a charge of being unlawfully in possession of a firearm and ammunition and was fined $25. The offence occured last Oct. 13, 1969, at Gold River.

Resthaven Land Deal Hanging

New Hospital Must Limit Space

Resthaven Hospital has been told to keep to a minimum the space requirements for the new building it plans in Central Saanich.

Administrator T. J. Bradley said Thursday that B.C. Hospital Insurance Service has indicated that the building, which would include 75 extended care and 75 acute care beds, should not exceed 85,000 square feet.

This compares with 50,000 square feet in the existing hospital at Sidney, which has 56 acute-care beds.

★ ★ ★

Bradley said Resthaven had not specified a space requirement in its preliminary proposals to BCHIS but he expected the new hospital, which would be built on Mount Newton Cross Road, would be crowded.

"For example, I imagine we will have to trim our lounge," said Bradley. "The people will just have to wait elsewhere.

"We did not ask for any specific space in our functional program but now it's up to the architects to design the rooms and allocate space so we can get 150 beds into 85,000 square feet."

★ ★ ★

In the meantime, it is understood that negotiations are still not complete for the acquisition of a 22-acre site for the hospital.

Also involved will be a widening by 13 feet of Mount Newton Cross Road.

Bradley said Resthaven's architects likely will need another two or three weeks to complete the preliminary building program. Once that is finished and approved they will go into the sketch drawings.

Officer's Hearing Opens

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (UPI) — Capt. Jeffrey MacDonald, accused of slaying his wife and two children, tearfully denied it in a military hearing Thursday and insisted the deed was done by three men and a woman while he slept.

MacDonald's defence attorney, Bernard Segal, said the Green Beret physician broke down frequently during testimony in a closed hearing to determine whether he must stand trial for the murders.

Segal told reporters —who got their only account of the proceedings from defence lawyers — that he asked MacDonald directly whether he killed his family. He said MacDonald choked, sobbed, and then said "very clearly, 'No'."

MacDonald testified that after his wife went to bed he went on watching television and reading until 2 a.m. on Feb. 18.

Segal said MacDonald told the hearing he left lights on in the kitchen and bathroom, and walked to the master bedroom, where he found his younger daughter, Kristen, 2, asleep in bed with his wife.

MacDonald told the hearing he carried Kristen and her baby bottle back to her bedroom, tucked her in and then returned to the master bedroom and discovered Kristen had wet the bed on his side.

★ ★ ★

MacDonald then decided, at 2:15 a.m., to go to sleep on the sofa in the living room, the attorney related.

Asked what happened next, MacDonald said he was awakened.

"I heard screams. I heard Collett's voice screaming 'Jeffrey, help me, Jeffrey help me'," MacDonald testified according to Segal. Segal said MacDonald also heard his older daughter, Kimberly, six, scream "Daddy, Daddy."

MacDonald said he started to sit up and saw three men standing at the foot of the sofa, one black and two whites. Behind them was a girl with long blonde hair and a floppy hat.

MacDonald said the black man struck him in the head with a club, knocking him back on the couch. MacDonald said he grabbed the man's arms, the two white men began punching him and he felt a sharp pain in the chest.

According to the attorneys, MacDonald said he saw a blade flash.

After another sharp pain MacDonald said he blacked out. When he woke up his attackers were gone.

Segal said that MacDonald then related how he found his wife with a knife in her chest, gave her mouth to mouth resuscitation, went to the children's bedrooms and tried to revive them.

Threatened Crisis Avoided By North Ireland Premier

BELFAST (CP) — Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark, under fire from Protestant hardliners for his handling of Northern Ireland's troubles, appeared Thursday to have staved off the threat of an immediate crisis within the ruling Unionist party.

He met for two hours with about 30 members of the Ulster Parliament, after which Home Affairs Minister Robert Porter told reporters: "There was no crisis such as has been suggested in recent days. Everyone was satisfied with the meeting."

Porter added that most of the criticism of the prime minister and the government was on the question of law and order.

"No vote of confidence arose during the meeting," he said. "It was not considered necessary."

In a new bomb scare Thursday, army bomb disposal specialists were called to investigate an abandoned car near the home of the British army commander, Gen. Ian Freeland, in nearby Lisburn. Nothing suspicious was found.

The police and army are treating all abandoned cars with caution following the killing of two policemen by a booby-trapped car left near the Ulster-Irish Republic border Tuesday.

A search continued Thursday for those responsible for the booby-trap killings, condemned by both Protestant and Roman Catholic leaders.

'I Hope It's Not True'

The chairman of Greater Victoria school board said Thursday he hopes it's not true that Education Minister Donald Brothers plans to restrict school construction for another year.

With the provincial cabinet on a tour of the B.C. Interior, Brothers was quoted as saying in Quesnel: "Money markets are still as tight as ever, if not tighter. Interest rates have not come down."

He went on to say that school construction restrictions, already the source of many complaints, will remain in effect for another year.

Dr. Carron Jameson, chairman of the Greater Victoria board, said he was shocked to hear Brothers' statement. He had hoped there would be an easing of school construction because interest rates, which have to be paid on loans for those buildings, had declined.

Jameson said the board was anxious to proceed with a number of projects, especially activity rooms that have been stalled by the provincial freeze.

He said the board has executed betwen 60 and 65 per cent of the three-year school referendum adopted by ratepayers in 1967.

"It is still one-third incomplete and I hope the minister's statement is not true," added the chairmn.

Victoria Gives $5,000 For Rubella Vaccine

Victoria city council Thursday decided to spend $5,000 this fall on rubella vaccine for pre-school children in the city.

Council acted swiftly and unanimously after hearing letters from Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, Greater Victoria's senior medical health officer and Dr. Scott Wallace, Social Credit MLA for Oak Bay, advocating a rubella (German measles) vaccination program for pre-schoolers.

Finance committee chairman Ald. Percy Frampton told council the money must be allocated immediately. Although the city's contingency fund has dwindled to $31,000, council had no choice but to approve the expenditure, he said.

"School will start very shortly, and the vaccination program must get underway," he said.

Ald. Harold Olafson said he endorsed the action of council, but he wanted to point out that this matter was actually the provincial government's responsibility.

"But since it looks like they aren't getting into the act, we must spend the money," he said.

Saanich, Central Saanich and North Saanich decided earlier to participate in the inoculation program. Oak Bay and Esquimalt are expected to discuss the matter at their next council meetings.

The money allocated by the various municipalities will be spent for vaccine for pre-school children only. The provincial government plans to vaccinate older children in a province-wide campaign.

According to public health authorities, rubella poses a great danger to the unborn children of pregnant women. A woman who contracts the disease during pregnancy has a 50 per cent chance of giving birth to a deformed child, medical authorities say.

City Wants Area Control

Leases in Harbor Not Yet Granted

By HUBERT BEYER

Victoria Ald. Peter Pollen told city council Thursday the transport department had granted renewal of two Inner Harbor leases to CPR's Marathon Realty, but several hours later he told the Colonist the renewals had not been granted.

Other city hall sources confirmed that the renewals had not been granted.

Nor will the renewals be granted if the city's protest against them is strong enough, Pollen said.

The two foreshore leases in question include pieces of property now occupied by Undersea Gardens and the CPR's new docking facilities at Belleville.

Pollen told Victoria city council Thursday, Marathon Realty, a Canadian Pacific subsidiary, had been granted 21-year renewal leases by the transport department.

In an interview, hours after the meeting, he disclosed that the renewals had, in fact, not been granted.

"After the council meeting, I found out that the transport department may just be trying the city on for size. In a letter to the city, the department very subtly points out that the renewals may be granted," Pollen said.

★ ★ ★

"Now, if public outcry is strong enough and if city council starts screaming about this, Ottawa might just back down. I don't think Marathon will get the renewals if the city's protest is strong enough," he said.

Pollen said the leases would in no way affect the CPR's $1 million Inner Harbor development which has been on the drawing board for more than a year.

The development proposal, which has been altered six times, calls for construction of a shopping centre, a seafood restaurant, a dance pavilion and a number of boutiques.

"We've pretty well got that under control, but we would like to see the Undersea Gardens removed from their present location. They shouldn't be in front of the legislative buildings," Pollen said.

★ ★ ★

"As far as the docking facilities are concerned, they're fine. We don't want to drive the CPR out of business. They're doing a good service to the public," he said.

It all boiled down to who should be in control of public property, he said.

"It is ludicrous that some bureaucrat in Ottawa can determine part of Victoria's destiny," Pollen said.

The two leases in question expired this year, and according to City Solicitor Terry O'Grady, the leases contained renewal clauses.

However, some months ago, Victoria applied to the transport department for primary leases on the two properties and several others so that the city could control development in the area. Council was told at that time the city's interest would be given priority by the transport department.

Group of Tree Defenders Makes Stand in Council

Plans for the Johnson-Begbie-Shelbourne extension were sent back to committee Thursday after a tree-cutting controversy surrounding the project flared up again at a meeting of Victoria city council.

About 25 area residents appeared before council to protest the city's plans for converting Begbie into a four-lane one-way artery.

Their main protest was directed against removal of trees to make way for the road widening.

Richard Morris, spokesman for the Save-the-Trees group, told council the city was giving priority to the automobile in its planning.

He asked council to stop all work and land acquisition until the entire scheme has been carefully reviewed.

Mrs. L. D. McClintock of 1599 Begbie said residents had not been informed of the project prior to last April's capital budget referendum.

"There is an awful lot of nonsense going on here; we didn't know up to recently whether it was going to be a one-way street, a four-lane highway—nothing," she said.

"They just said it would be a major road improvement, and that covers a lot of territory," she said.

"What about the depreciation of our property when we have this highway? What about the extra taxes? I would like to know how many members of council were aware of all the implications of this scheme," Mrs. McClintock said.

Turning to Mayor Courtney Haddock, she said, "You know why you were elected, don't you? Because we were fed up with Oak Bay mayors. Well, we are fed up now."

The mayor replied he was surprised himself when he was elected.

Mrs. McClintock snapped back that he was certainly not doing Victoria taxpayers a favor by building a four-lane highway (Begbie) in the city.

★ ★ ★

"Who do you think will benefit from this? Not Victoria. Saanich and Oak Bay will, but not Victoria," she said.

Mrs. Bernice Packford told council arterial roads were the responsibility of regional government.

She also said the city could stop the project if it wanted to.

"Not one tree has been cut down on Begbie; not one bush has been uprooted. I'm sorry to see that everyone seems to say it is too late. It isn't too late. The choice is still ours," Mrs. Packford said.

★ ★ ★

Ald. Peter Pollen told council it was time the city developed a long-range policy in the fields of planning and road construction.

There are too many examples of shortsighted planning. The beautiful view of the Olympics was now blocked by an apartment building and parks had to give way to street projects.

Ald. Clyde Savage said he would like to find out "a lot more" about the proposed Begbie-Johnson-Sheldourne extension.

He then moved the matter be referred back to committee which will deal with it Tuesday.

Salmonella Was 'Hefty'

The laboratory at Royal Jubilee Hospital investigated 959 samples following a salmonella outbreak in Victoria in June, it was learned Thursday.

"It was a tremendous workload," said Dr. A. C. Pickles, the hospital's executive director. "We had people working night and day."

The task was particularly difficult because most of the samples were human feces. Others were swabs of kitchen appliances and portions of food suspected of harboring the bacteria.

The hospital's laboratory on an average does about 250 cultures a month in routine investigations of enteric infections.

"The additional 959 samples in a period of two or three weeks was an exceptionally hefty load," said Dr. Pickles.

In addition to collecting samples from persons who complained of salmonella symptoms after the June 13 banquet at the Empress Hotel, public health staff also investigated a number of hotel employees as possible carriers.

Persons suspected as carriers, or who actually came down with salmonella, had a minimum of three fecal samples taken.

Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, Greater Victoria's senior medical health officer, said last month the source of the outbreak likely was a carrier — someone who caught the disease prior to the meal and was still shedding the bacteria — or the food, possibly the turkey that produced positive swabs for salmonella.

★ ★ ★

However, it is understood health authorities will probably not be able to make a conclusive statement for about a month.

After getting the samples, it took the laboratory about 72 hours before the organism could be identified in a culture medium.

Identification involved several steps, including the group of antigens produced by the bacteria (a clue to the antibiotics to which it would be sensitive) and the specie of bacteria.

Windows Broken

More than $1,000 worth of store windows in five businesses were broken by rocks thrown at them Tuesday night in the 500 block Johnson. Victoria police said Thursday they arrested two suspects shortly after the incident.

Union Reactivates Drive For Jubilee Certification

By JOHN MATTERS

Local 180 of the Hospital Employees' Union again is attempting to claim the bargaining rights for about 900 employees of Royal Jubilee, the second largest hospital in B.C.

However, if HEU succeeds in having the Royal Jubilee Hospital Employees' Association decertified, it must first have the support of more than 50 per cent of the workers.

HEU has until the end of August to find that support. The Labor Relations Act says certifications can be challenged only during the seventh or eighth months of the year.

The latest HEU attempt follows a similar move, made about 15 months ago, which was rejected by the B.C. Labor Relations Board.

At that time, Ray McCready, business manager-secretary of local 180, said his union would not surrender to Royal Jubilee.

At a recent Jubilee association membership meeting, a new slate of officers was elected and all of them are supporters of local 180, The Colonist was told.

★ ★ ★

When this occurred, C. W. Burr, the association's business manager, immediately resigned. He and the Jubilee supporters had just negotiated a new contract with the hospital that provided increases of $50 a month for each of two years and new job security clauses.

Contacted at home Thursday night, Burr said those job security clauses were the best in the hospital industry.

★ ★ ★

The 900 employees at Royal Jubilee would represent about 10 per cent of HEU's province-wide membership. The union is already certified at such hospitals as Vancouver General, St. Joseph's in Victoria and St. Paul's in Vancouver.

During the takeover attempt in April, 1969, HEU claimed the hospital employees' association was being dictated to by an "all-powerful" bargaining committee.

The bargaining committee accused HEU of being unethical and "raiding."

Met Star's Wife vs. Glamor Clamor

Super-Beauty Balks

By MARIAN CHRISTY

GREENWICH, Conn. — She blithely skips along the skinny tightrope between femme fatale and wholesome woman — never falling on her face. All the while she knows well that her persuasive brand of feminity is the secret of her potent charm.

Mrs. Tom Seaver, blonde wife of the amazing New York Mets pitcher, is the newest under-30 glamor girl in the world of baseball wives. She's the type of beauty who can slip into a maxi terry cloth dress with side slits zooming up from ankle to waist — the fashion that suggests a gal is wearing nothing underneath except her birthday suit — without suffering any consequences.

Women in her company aren't stabbed by pangs of competition because Nancy, with sunny smile and cornsilk hair, had dared to come on deliriously strong. And men, no matter how vulnerable, practice self-control because a pass at Nancy would be like approaching a sister.

She's Marketable

Kinetic Nancy Seaver, with star qualities written all over her pretty face, is what advertising agency grains call "marketable."

Nancy has been a McCall's cover girl, is reportedly being wooded by the slick fashion magazines, has turned down $75-an-hour modelling jobs. There's a big-money, syndicated television show in the offing — with Tom and Nancy as host and hostess. American designers are begging to lend Nancy expensive couture to wear off or on screen. She's also endorsing Eastman-Kodel products in exchange for razzle-dazzle furnishings for the new Seaver hideaway here.

Actually, there's a shiny new world at Nancy's feet but she has a one-track mind: Tom.

He says: "She gives me a reason for striving."

She says: "I thrive on love. It makes me serene and stable. It is my biggest fulfillment. To me Tom is happiness."

Perfect Couple

Advertisers who soak up this saccharine-but-sincere repartee get even more hepped up because suddenly there's America's most perfect couple on the scene. Promoters talk about the beautiful picture of married love between superstar sportsman and super-beauty. They say that the vast "silent majority" is crazyfor people who present old-fashioned virtues at a time when the young are tearing them down.

Cynics don't always find the Seavers believable. The surface image smacks strongly of storybook romance and the reality of day-to-day living is dimmed. But those close to Nancy swear on a stack of Bibles that she works as hard at making the marriage click as those deeply-ambitious women who are striving for skyrocketing careers. Being Tom's wife is her "job."

She says: "I know that Tom is happy playing baseball. I've lived in some pretty unpleasant places without grumbling. If he is untroubled and satisfied he passes on a deep sense of contentment to me. Yes, modeling agencies have hounded me to pose for the magazines."

But I don't want Tom to come off the road and find me pre-occupied with something as senseless as fashion bookings."

Some Problems

The road to the Seaver marriage wasn't always paved with whipped cream.

Nancy, a Berkeley College dropout, went to Jacksonville, Fla., where Tom was playing minor league baseball. He had proposed and she said yes. Nancy, a Catholic, and Tom, a Protestant, immediately ran into a wall of resistance.

When they visited a Catholic priest the pressure was for Tom to take instruction and possibly become a convert. "I got uptight and panicky," says Nancy. "I had never asked Tom to change his religion. I felt that Catholicism was a Christian attitude — nothing more — and that it could run, but not ruin, our lives."

So they went to a Protestant minister.

He said he'd marry them immediately but respected Nancy enough to call the Catholic priest and say: Father, if you don't marry these young people, I will. Nancy recalls: "The priest, seeing he was about to lose a customer, told us all to come over and he would perform the ceremony. The Protestant minister was our best man."

College Sweetie

Nancy and Tom met when both were students at Fresno City College. Tom, who had eyed Missouri-born Nancy for months, let the whole semester float by before he drummed up courage to ask her for a date.

Since he didn't have a penny, their rendezvous would entail a walk across the golf course followed by coffee-and-hamburger. "He had this crummy '58 Chevy with no heater. Something was always wrong with it," recalls Nancy, who, when she wants to dramatize a point, crosses her eyes. Marriage was proposed and accepted in that jalopy and a look of undisguised sentimentality sweeps across her face at the mention of it. Now she drives a Porsche.

In the steady climb upward during four years of marriage the Seavers have delayed having babies.

Production Cut

Nancy says she is deeply concerned about the population explosion and is giving serious thought to reducing the number of wanted Seavers from four to two. Not so incidentally the couple once took out an ad in a newspaper saying they were available for Mr. and Mrs. America promotions — and the extracurricular activities cut into the business of family production.

Meanwhile, Nancy's closet isn't filled with maternity clothes. Instead there are see-through pantsuits by Chuck Howard, lots of teeny-weeny bikinis, and a slim Ben Kahn mountain lion coat that, to quote her, "will be unwearable if I gains an ounce."

People instantly recognize her on the street and every TV talk show is making a bid for her. She has become conspicuous among celebrities and is in a position to make a million before reaching 30.

But she's a woman in love: "For me it's Tom, Tom, Tom."

Salary Snags Sex Equality

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — The battle for sexual equality took an unsual turn Wednesday when two restaurants were sued by the U.S. government for paying women more than men.

The suits were filed by the labor department, which said they were the first of their kind under a 1963 law providing that male and females doing the same work for the same employer must receive the same pay.

They were filed in the Chicago federal district court on behalf of 30 employees of the two firms, where women — most over 18 — were paid about 55 cents an hour more than youths aged from 14 to 16.

All were working as order-takers.

Roger Moran of the labor department said that, although women benefit more from the 1963 law, it applies equally to men.

Major Firms Will Fortify Food Products

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientists of three major food companies disclosed plans this week to nutritionally fortify foods ranging from milk to potato chips.

They gave credit to consumer and government pressure for overcoming indifference to the idea by their sales departments.

★ ★ ★

Appearing at the international congress of food service and technology, Dr. Robert DiMarco, chairman of the department of food science at Rutgers University, said there had been "a phenomenal awakening of (food) industry awareness about nutrition." He and food industry research executives discussed the subject at a news conference.

Dr. Hartley Howard, technical director of Borden Inc., New York, said his company is test-marketing milk fortified with iron and developing fortified potato and corn chips.

Dr. Howard Bauman, vice-president of science and technology for Pillsbury Co., Minneapolis, said his firm now fortifies flour in cake mixes. So did Varnum Ludington, vice-president and director of the centre for applied nutrition of General Foods Corp., White Plains, N.Y.

Ludington said General Foods also had added Vitamin C to Kool Aid, a soft drink mix, and also is fortifying instant potatoes.

★ ★ ★

The scientists said their marketing departments used to shrug off nutritional suggestions. But they agreed that consumer groups and the government had awakened a nationwide interest in nutrition.

Hawaii Beauty Queen

'I'm Not Sex

By HELEN MORRIS

Imagine. He's fortyish, balding. Rainy December Victoria is getting him down so he makes plans to spend a week in Hawaii sun-soaking. In Honolulu he steps off the plane into what he thinks will be the smiles and flowers of aloha girls.

And there they are — maybe 40 strong — and carrying placards saying things like "Women are People," and "Out from Under." It's Hawaiian Women's Liberation.

It could happen.

★ ★ ★

Honolulu Narcissus Festival Queen Loretta Dang, in Victoria for a visit says Women's Liberation is very popular in Hawaii. She goes to the University of Hawaii, where the movement is most active.

A fourth-year education student (she wants to teach drama to children when she graduates next year), Miss Dang believes in abortion, Women's Liberation's first plank:

"I think a person is a person when she has a personality. If you don't have any hang-up about abortion — if you don't feel guilty then it's okay.

"There was a big controversy before it was passed (abortion was legalized in Hawaii this year), but after, no one seemed to care."

But Miss Dang isn't a movement member. She's of the "you look after yourself, and I'll look after myself" liberation school.

In Fall, Winter It' ...and Lipstick A

NEW YORK (UPI) — For fall and winter, women following the dictates of West Coast designer James Galanos will wear pantsuits that look like long dresses or midi length dresses that manage to look feminine via soft pleating.

They will also, as the curly-haired petite giant of American fashion dictated at his opening in New York this week, wear lipstick around the eyes.

Rather than looking as though they were on the warpth, models wearing the lipstick in new places looked rather clownish.

Hawaii Beauty Queen

'I'm Not Sex Object'

By HELEN MORRIS

Imagine. He's fortyish, balding. Rainy December Victoria is getting him down so he makes plans to spend a week in Hawaii sun-soaking. In Honolulu he steps off the plane into what he thinks will be the smiles and flowers of aloha girls.

And there they are — maybe 40 strong — and carrying placards saying things like "Women are People," and "Out from Under." It's Hawaiian Women's Liberation.

It could happen.

★ ★ ★

Honolulu Narcissus Festival Queen Loretta Dang, in Victoria for a visit says Women's Liberation is very popular in Hawaii. She goes to the University of Hawaii, where the movement is most active.

A fourth-year education student (she wants to teach drama to children when she graduates next year), Miss Dang believes in abortion, Women's Liberation's first plank:

"I think a person is a person when she has a personality. If you don't have any hang-up about abortion — if you don't feel guilty then it's okay.

"There was a big controversy before it was passed (abortion was legalized in Hawaii this year), but after, no one seemed to care."

But Miss Dang isn't a movement member. She's of the "you look after yourself, and I'll look after myself" liberation school.

★ ★ ★

—"I believe in some of their aspirations — like equal wages — but not all of them."

She thinks her Chinese upbringing (narcissus queen candidates have to have Chinese surnames) has influenced the way she sees men.

"I always think a man has certain privileges because he is a man. I wouldn't want to be on par with a man. I want him to be superior — I think it's better for family and for marital relations.

"Besides," she says with a smile, "my mom used to tell me, 'You give in to a man, but you know who's really boss. You keep quiet, but you know what you think.' "

★ ★ ★

As Narcissus Queen, Miss Dang says some people do treat her as a sex object, "but I don't feel like that at all. I don't think I'm some kind of sex object, just something to look at."

And if she knows she's a person, she doesn't think Women's Liberation types have a right to call her anything else:

"I don't see why a woman should feel she can say to another woman — 'Look, you're making yourself a sex object.' That's none of her business.

"Women's Liberation, in Hawaii anyway, sets down this code for all women to follow. To me, that's wrong. What you want to do and who you are is personal."

★ ★ ★

Miss Dang and 50 other Hawaiians are on a two-week tour, sponsored by Honolulu's Chamber of Commerce. She attended a dinner given by a number of Victoria Chinese community organizations Wednesday night. Thursday, she toured Butchart Gardens. Later, the group left for Seattle. Then it goes to Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles — coastal cities with large Chinese populations.

—William E. John

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I used to think your column belonged on the comic page. Now I think someone ought to put a muzzle on you. Are you suffering from delusions of grandeur? Do you think you are God Almighty? How dare you take it upon yourself to advise people about matters that might have a serious bearing on their lives. Most doctors won't even prescribe for a common cold — and you, without the slightest hesitation, open up your big mouth on every subject under the sun.

●

I am so furious over your advice to the girl who had an abortion, I could wring your neck. You told her to TELL her fiance about something that happened two years before they met. Why? Why? why? Most abortions are illegal. The transactions are cash and no records exist.

I had an abortion 33 years ago. I've been happily married for 30 years and have four beautiful grandchildren. No one knows about my past because I was smart and kept quiet. Had I been dumb enough to take your advice, my life might have been a mess. — More Experienced Than You.

Dear More: You are indeed more experienced. I've never had an abortion.

I agree your life might have been different had you taken my advice. It might also have been different had someone told your fiance about your abortion — after you had married him. So, if it's all the same to you, I'll continue to open my big mouth and advise people to play it straight.

□

Dear Ann: Every morning my sister gets up at 6 a.m., takes her dinner meat out of the freezer and leaves it in the sink to thaw so it will be ready for cooking when she returns from work at 4:30. Whenever I see it, I get sick. I'm afraid if someone doesn't get through to this dingaling, she'll poison the whole family.

Please set her straight. Or if I'm the one who needs to be set straight, tell me. — Green Around The Gills.

Dear Gills: Leaving meat at room temperature for 10½ hours, especially pork and ground beef, is a risky business. The lady has been luckier than smart. She should have a talk with her butcher and learn better techniques for preparing meals on short notice.

□

Dear Ann: We lost our only son seven months ago. Ralph was 32 years old. He left a lovely wife and two darling children. Ralph and his wife moved into their own home three years ago. The $7,000 mortgage weighed heavily on my daughter-in-law's mind. I decided to give her the money to pay off the mortgage. When my son died, I received $10,000 from a life insurance policy he had taken out on his 21st birthday. He was unmarried then. May daughter-in-law never asked for this money. Ann, I gave it to her because I felt the policy should have been signed over to her when they married.

The problem: My two daughters are nagging the life out of me. They feel they are entitled to $7,000 each. I am not a rich woman and have told them they will be remembered in my will. They want it now. What should I do? — Unhappy.

Dear U.: Nothing. And I mean nothing. You don't owe your daughters a money gift. They ought to be ashamed of themselves.

Louisiana

Court Upholds Abortion Law

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A federal court has upheld Louisiana's century-old abortion law. The court said it could rule only on the law's constitutionality, not on its moral or philosophical soundness. "That remains for the determination of society, by whatever means it has chosen for the making of such momentous decisions," the court said. The Louisiana law permits abortion only when two doctors agree that continued pregnancy would cause the mother's death.

Wig Ads

Color Them True

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. trade commission Tuesday advised wigmakers to be careful about advertising claims like "Virgin hair," "natural hair," "true hair" and "custom colored."

It said if a wig is made of animal or artificial hair, the ads and the label should say so. "True hair," "natural hair" and "genuine hair" should mean human hair, it said.

"Custom colored" claims should be avoided "unless the hair is to be dyed or is made of a mixture of precolored hair stock to meet a customer's personal requirements," the agency said.

A wig isn't "Virgin," it said, unless it "contains only human hair that has never been bleached, dyed or permanented."

The suggestions came in the form of guides for the wig, toupee and chignon industry. Although advisory, the commission said they are the agency's interpretations of the laws it enforces. "The guides have been issued to encourage the hairpiece industry to comply voluntarily with these statutes."

In Fall, Winter It's Pantsuits ...and Lipstick Around Eyes

NEW YORK (UPI) — For fall and winter, women following the dictates of West Coast designer James Galanos will wear pantsuits that look like long dresses or midi length dresses that manage to look feminine via soft pleating.

They will also, as the curly-haired petite giant of American fashion dictated at his opening in New York this week, wear lipstick around the eyes.

Rather than looking as though they were on the warpth, models wearing the lipstick in new places looked rather clownish.

The touches of red brightened the rather drab-colored daytime clothes with wrist-length sleeves, high necklines and severe man-tailoring touches.

The pantsuits from this master designer were the most feminine seen in this pantsuit era. Most had matching coats, long or hip-length.

Except for a few plaid ones in paintbox colors and vivid stripes, the pantsuits were mostly black or grey.

★ ★ ★

The daytime dress most favored resembled the ike jacket lengthened to below the calf. This look was relieved by midi-dresses with swirling skirts, some slit to show the thigh. A few were of long panels that were not stitched together until the thigh.

The daytime fabrics ranged from flat wool tweeds to other mannish fabrics. The drabness was relieved by black scarves bow-tied at the neck and with streamers hem.

★ ★ ★

For evening the clothes were clingy at their best and done in metallic looking prints and embroideries that shimmered.

One group of layered dresses were done in a fragile lace that looked as delicate as a spider's web.

The Galanos prices start at $369.75 and go to around $900 wholesale. Retail, the price is about double.

Also for evening some below the calf dresses in fragile fabrics featured ruffling, either down the front or suspender-style like a little girl's pinafore.

There were 150 pieces in the collection, said to be the largest ever from Galanos.

But all the gazing wasn't at what was being worn on the runway. A male fashion illustrator, from the rear looked as though he was wearing a midi-length sweater dress in light grey, accessorized by blue plaid knee socks and brown and white shoes.

Front on you could see it was just a long covering for his light blue gaucho pants, lavender shirt and red belt.

Professor on Provincial-National Clash:

Chiefs, Come Out of Woods

A Queen's University professor, Ronald Burns, suggested Thursday national leaders would do well to emulate the Fathers of Confederation in an attempt to resolve regional and national problems.

Burns was speaking Thursday to a luncheon meeting of the Victoria Rotary Club at the Empress Hotel. He is a former assistant deputy minister of finance in this province and has served as deputy provincial treasurer of the province of Manitoba. At Queen's in Kingston, Ont., he is director of the institute of inter-governmental" relations and professor of political studies.

Burns summarized his case on the conflict between provincial and national interests precisely. "It's the old case," he said, "of not being able to see the forest for the trees. Perhaps we may be forgiven if we suggest that our leaders should come out of the woods and take a long, careful look at the view.

★ ★ ★

"Perhaps if they could be less concerned with the means and more with the ends we would reach our objective sooner. The Fathers of Confederation first decided where they wanted to go and then worked out the way to get there.

"It's time all Canadians got down to thinking about what kind of country we want."

The former senior civil servant has been involved in federal-provincial relations in his career.

"Too often I think we create our own dilemmas. It is too often discouraging to encounter the view among those who should know better that if you support the cause of national responsibility you are the opponent of provincial authority — and vice versa.

"Personally I don't find the conflict here that so many of our politicians (and some civil servants), federal and provincial, seem to find. I cannot see the positions as legitimately distinct. In fact, I suggest that such an approach is old-fashioned in theory and practice.

"In this increasingly complex world of ours, our interests, political and economic, are inextricably woven together and any attempt to separate them will in the long run end in disaster for us all.

★ ★ ★

"Regional interests, if they are to be legitimate, must be considered as elements of the national interest and not as matters distinct and apart."

He stressed that the economic regionalism which characterizes Canada as a nation is closely associated with provincial political boundaries, with the possible exception of the Maritimes.

Burns added that even on the Prairies, where there are often cases of economic common ground, "the jurisdictional divisions are not easily ignored."

He cited the effort that had gone into approaching problems of regional adjustment, explaining that they have followed two main forms. The first being the equalization of government revenues to enable a more reasonable standard of public services to be maintained, and secondly, direct programs of subsidization in substandard zones.

Burns' major thesis, however, was that it is almost impossible to separate economic and political philosophies. "Perhaps it is significatn," he observed, "that those who have the greatest experience with the problems of regional distinctiveness, the Europeans, are most concerned with the effects.

★ ★ ★

"I found that senior officers of the European communities, the Common Market, are convinced they must always keep the ultimate goal of political union before them. Economic ties are never enough or lasting."

The ultimate decision on the resolution of the regional and national conflict will have to be brought about by parliament and the provincial legislatures. Burns suggested the recently-appointed joint parliamentary commitee on the constitution should be supplemented by committees of the provincial legislatures. "Here is the opportunity for those who have something to say to say it," he said.

★ ★ ★

"If they do not they have only themselves to blame and the consensus of the country will be made up from those who do come forward, the crackpots, the academics and the interest groups, economic and political, and I can hear someone ask how he will tell them apart."

In concluding, Burns who is currently a visiting professor at the University of Victoria, said he had sat in on a number of the committee meetings held by the Benson white paper tax reform team and he observed that it had attracted a good deal of attention and response. He suggested to his Rotary audience the future of Canada is even more closely bound up in this exercise on the constitution.

★ ★ ★

"Taxes change," said Burns, "but constitutions are usually with us for a long, long time."

He was roundly applauded at the end of the talk.

Burnham Fights On

George Burnham, 79, of 203 Menzies, has filed another suit against the government of Canada as he continues his attempt to bring down the Maple Leaf flag.

This time working without a lawyer, Burnham filed his suit in Vancouver Thursday. His first attempt in April was a failure. He claims the Red Ensign is legally Canada's flag.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Linda Kasabian was declared a free woman Thursday in return for telling her story of the killings at the Tate-Labianca homes and accusing the "Manson family."

The petite, 21-year-old blonde still was testifying and was expected to stay on the witness stand through Friday but she no longer had to go back to the jail where she has been held since last November.

Her attorney said that the Los Angeles police department would assign an around-the-clock guard for her and accompany her to and from her lodgings, the whereabouts of which were kept secret.

★ ★ ★

Although she admitted she was present at both of the slayings, Judge Charles Older signed papers formally dropping seven charges of murder against her in response to a prosecution agreement to grant her immunity.

Mrs. Kasabian was asked on the witness stand about the dropping of the charges and what she thought it meant.

"Everyone says I'm a free woman, but I don't feel free," she said.

★ ★ ★

Charles Manson, his shirt tail out, long hair uncombed and beard stringy around his face, appeared briefly on the witness stand during the morning to protest "harassment" in jail by the sheriff's department.

Manson got only so far as taking the oath and spelling out his name when his attorney, Irving Kanarek, objected to the district attorney's office being present during the hearing. He said the case should be argued by the county counsel's office.

Older instantly agreed and announced there would be a week's postponement of the hearing on the motion. Kanarek appeared stunned.

"But, your honor, we are seeking immediate relief," he began, but Older had already left the bench.

Manson claimed he was forced to disrobe and dress again several times each day. He said his "bodily cavities" were repeatedly searched and that he was forced to walk up and down in jail hallways until he was exhausted.

He said a deputy was always within listening distance when he conferred with his lawyer and that all of the communications he wrote were inspected by sheriff's officers.

Mrs. Kasabian, on the witness stand for the 14th day, was cross-examined further by defence lawyer Ronald Hughes.

Mrs. Kasabian, on the witness stand for the 14th day, was cross-examined further by defence lawyer Ronald Hughes.

She acknowledged that her ability to recall events and emotions often was impaired after getting "stoned" on drugs and marijuana.

Hughes asked her about walking hand in hand on a beach with Manson the night after the Tate murders and just after they had driven away from the home of grocer Leno Labianca.

"Were you in love with him then?" Hughes asked.

"I don't know really how I felt. He gave me good feelings, I guess."

"Did you think he was a murderer?"

Kanarek objected and was sustained by the judge.

On re-direct examination deputy district attorney Aaron Stovitz hopscotched over all of the testimony Mrs. Kasabian gave on cross-examination asking her to clarify several matters.

He asked her to define some of the "hippie language" she had used and to explain what she meant when she said she had learned how to get high without drugs.

"It's a form of yoga," she said. "It's like meditating. You concentrate on the inner eye, the one you can't see."

Trubshaw said he flew the British prototype at 800 miles an hour, at an altitude of 36,000 feet over the Atlantic.

Trubshaw said the airliner is expected to soon overtake the performance of the French prototype, which has already flown at 1,000 m.p.h. at 47,000 feet.

8 CARDS OF THANKS

Mrs. Massie and family wish to express sincere thanks to friends and neighbors for their kind expressions of sympathy in our recent loss of a dear husband and father. Also special thanks to Dr. Pound and Dr. Forth, nurses and staff at St. Joseph's Hospital. We are most grateful.

9 IN MEMORIAM

MILBURN — In loving memory of a dear husband, Henry Reginald, who passed away on Aug. 13, 1968.

To hear his voice, to see his smile,
To sit and talk with him awhile,
To be together in the same old way,
Would be my dearest wish today.
Dear Lord, forgive a silent tear,
A constant wish that he were here.
Others are taken, yes, I know,
But he was mine and I loved him so.
—Ever in our memory. His loving wife, Nan, and family.

Gone With The Wind, made in 1939, is often thought of as one of the first films to be made in color. Pathecolor, a stencil process by which films were hand-tinted, was introduced in the early 1900. Unfortunately, film makers using other than this particular process sometimes found themselves in a rather embarrassing predicament. When an actor left a scene, his color often stayed behind.

A lot of people are complaining about the nudity in today's films. At one time, the mayor of New York city, in response to a number of letters from people complaining about movie immorality, ordered all the movie houses closed. The year was 1909.

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Thursday's answer—Still trudging through movie-title-role land, Alan Ladd was This Gun for Hire, Arthur Treacher was Mr. J. in Thank You, Jeeves and Dora Bryan was Rita Tushingham's honey-loving mother in Taste of Honey. She's a goodie.

Today's question, believe it or not, is the last in a title-role run that began June 24. Identify those who played the title roles in the movies Witness for the Prosecution, Woman in the Window and Woman of the Year. In that last one, who married her and what was his job? The conclusive answers Saturday.

". . . However, while the plaintiff is justified in her plea to retain custody of the mouthwash, the court finds for the defendant in the matter of the underarm deodorant."

Friday Highlights

Winning Contract

By HOWARD and BEE SCHENKEN

This deal occurred during Britain's international team trials. It gave rise to a highly unusual situation when West led a low diamond and declarer played the jack from dummy.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♠	4◇	6♡	All Pass

Opening lead: Three of ◇

There is very little doubt that the slam would be made much more often than not, even though the declarer is missing two aces. Normally, East would win the first trick with the queen of diamonds and — having no reason to credit his partner with the ace of spades — would continue diamonds, hoping to promote a trump trick.

Declarer would then ruff with a high trump and peel off all his hearts, reducing West to impotence. If West elected to keep the ace of spades and the K-9-8 of clubs as his last four cards, declarer would win the slam by keeping four clubs in dummy and then taking the club finesse.

It is highly doubtful that any East player would find the lethal return of a spade instead of a diamond at trick two, for there is simply no reason for East to imagine that West holds the ace.

When the deal was actually played, East — who was Bob Rowlands of London — failed to diagnose the spade return. Yet, oddly enough, he defeated the contract!

When the declarer played the jack of diamonds at trick one, Rowlands was shrewd enough to win with the ace rather than the queen. The declarer then became convinced that West had led from Q-x-x of diamonds.

Accordingly, when Rowlands returned a low diamond to dummy's king, declarer elected to discard a spade. To his utter discomfiture, West produced a trump instead of the expected diamond.

NEWISH — DISTINCTIVE
You will thrill to the entrance of this lovely home. You enter through double doors to a slate foyer with curved stairway to the upper level. The 15'x22' living room plus a bay window, has w-w carpets, raised hearth fireplace. All drapes remain. The 12'x15' dining room, with w-w has glass doors to covered patio surrounded by private back lawn with more land in natural state. Kitchen is 12'x18' with eating area separate, and has double stainless steel sink with garburetor, ample counters and pass-through cupboards. G.E. automatic dishwasher, G.E. oven and range, with overhead safety controls. Utility room is off kitchen, for washer and dryer, plus a 2-piece service bathroom. The den is very distinctive with wide white oak Captain's Planking and dowels. Dad can even open a wood cupboard and pass the presto logs in for the raised hearth Arizona slate fireplace. The adjacent drive-in garage built into the house is 18'x24' with double doors, leading in from a 21'x24' carport outlined by lovely used brick solid columns. Upstairs are four bedrooms all large (12'x18', 15'x18', 15'x18', 12'x18'). The master has an 8'x10' ensuite bathroom with ceramic shower stall and heat lamp. The walk-in closet has a built-in wall vault. From the master bedroom you step onto a small balcony overlooking oaks, the sea and adjacent islands. All bedrooms have oak except the master with w-w carpets. The huge playroom, above the garage is 21'x24' with knotty cedar walls and is a child's delight and a mother's blessing on rainy days. The grounds are completely sprinklered. The house is so distinctive with white siding and brick. A pleasure to show. Phone for exclusive showing. Wills of Whittomes. (Many other features such as "inter-com" can be pointed out then). Forgot to mention there is a storage basement crawlspace, all cemented.

Gun Curb Discussed

COURTENAY — A firearms regulation bylaw, which has received three readings by the directors of the Comox-Strathcona Regional Board, is still attracting a good deal of attention.

At the regular monthly meeting held Monday, representations were made by Chuck Cronmiller of the Upper Island Retriever Club; Mike Parrish, Courtenay Fish and Game Club; Ray Monk, Cumberland Rod and Gun Club; Frank Cato, CFB Comox Rod and Gun Club; James Osman, Fish and Wildlife Department; and three landowners in the area involved.

The letter from landowners T. K. Berry, G. J. Hurford and D. W. Russell said they objected to closure of the area known as Dyke Flats. They pointed out that hunters with shotguns had always been most co-operative and noted that residents had no opportunity to express views on the closure.

The letter stated that "if our interest or public safety is jeopardized we will close our land to hunting as we are entitled to do by law."

Chairman R. D. Ellis told the group that if the area concerned in the closure was the only objection, the board would be prepared to consider that question in relation to the bylaw.

The representatives then left to prepare a mutual agreement for presentation to the meeting.

The delegation proposed that the boundary stand as it is; to close the whole area to single projectile firearms; and to include an additional 200 yards from the high water mark as a further safety factor.

A meeting between the represenatives of the groups and directors Pat Fox and Fred Luck was set up for next week, at which time the protests of the residents of the areas will also be discussed.

Charter Float Plane Sets Down in Strait

VANCOUVER (UPI) — The pilot of a float-equipped aircraft, with 11 persons on board, made a precautionary landing in the Strait of Georgia Thursday when it developed engine trouble shortly after taking off from Vancouver Harbor.

An Air West Airlines Ltd., official said pilot Bert Creasy noticed the single-engine Otter was losing power minutes after lift-off, and he decided to set the plane down in the rough waters.

Later it was found that a broken exhaust valve had entered a clyinder.

The Canadian Coast Guard cutters Rider and Moorhen rushed to his assistance. The passengers were taken aboard the Moorhen, and the two cutters towed the plane back to Vancouver.

The passengers were taken to Vancouver General Hospital for a check-up. None required treatment.

The passengers, all Canadian businessmen, were on a charter flight to Nanaimo when the mishap occurred.

Victoria Expresses 'Deep Concern'

A letter expressing Victoria's "deep concern" over an application by the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway to discontinue service between Victoria and Courtenay will be sent to the federal transport department in Ottawa.

A resolution to that effect was passed by Victoria city council at Thursday's regular meeting, five days after the Railway Transport Commission wrapped up its E and N hearings in Victoria.

* * *

The resolution was introduced by Ald. Peter Pollen who told council something had to be done fast. He said the commission — now back in Ottwaw — should be told that E and N would be breaking a contractural agreemtnt with the people of Canada if it discontinued the service.

Pollen

"Inherent in the company's contract is an obligation to continue service to the people of Canada. We should also point out that neither the attorney-general of Canada, nor the attorney-general of British Columbia was represented at the hearings," Pollen said.

* * *

Ald. Ove Witt was the only one present voting against the resolution. He told council he was "somewhat at a loss" regarding the issue. The matter should have been discussed first at the committee level.

Pollen replied there was no time to refer the matter back to a committe. Time was of the essence, he said.

Car Wrecked, Youth Bruised

CHEMAINUS — A late model car driven by Donald William Jameson, 19, of Chemainus was demolished in an accident early Wednesday but the youth escaped with bruises and broken teeth.

Jameson is reported in good condition in Chemainus General Hospital with a bruised leg and arm and two broken teeth. Police said the car ran off the Chemainus Road near Chemainus and piled up against a telephone pole.

Canadians Hurt In Bus Crash

KYOTO, Japan (AP)—Twelve Canadian tourists, mostly from Montreal, and two Japanese were injured — two of the Canadians seriously — when their tour bus swerved off a road Tuesday to avoid a child and tumbled into a rice paddy in Kyoto, western Japan.

Police said Lawrence W. Bell, 65, and Georgina Crowe, 59, suffered serious head injuries which would require them to remain in hospital two or three weeks.

Meeting Called On Development

View Royal Ratepayers and Community Associations will hold a meeting at 8 p.m. Sept. 21, in a location to be announced, to hear about the proposed warehouse and townhouse development of Green Isle Estates. Hugh Grant, president of the development company, will be on hand to answer questions. The Capital Regional Board will hold a public hearing in October.

Herbicide View Rejected

DUNCAN — Cowichan-Malahat Society for Pollution and Environmental Control president Kurt Horn has objected to a MacMillan Bloedel forester's comments on 2, 4, 5-T.

Edmond Packee, the forester and former director of Nanaimo SPEC, had called the provincial pollution group's condemnation of the herbicide 2, 4, 5-T "a scare tactic designed to add to the confusion."

Horn repeated SPEC's position on 2, 4, 5-T — "If there is an element of doubt, don't use it until that doubt has been entirely removed.

"Since Mr. Packee feels this herbicide to be harmless, perhaps he should carry his argument to the U.S. agriculture department, which recently declared the herbicide an imminent hazard to health and banned its use around the home, lakes, ponds and food crops," Horn said.

* * *

"Even in Vietnam its use has been restricted to areas remote from population. Surely, the citizens of British Columbia merit the same consideration.

SPEC's contention is that if there is an element of doubt, don't use it until that doubt has been entirely removed."

Cowichan Band Will Lecture College Classes

DUNCAN — Members of the Cowichan Indian band will lecture this fall at Malaspina College in Nanaimo, Cowichan Chief Dennis Alphonse said Wednesday.

Members of the band's education committee met with two teachers, Kevin Roberts and Ken Baxter, from the Nanaimo college to discuss the possibility of lecturing evening classes.

"Now we have a group of people lined up for these courses which will start this fall," Alphonse said. The lectures will deal with Indian traditions and contemporary history as taught by native people, with emphasis on the Cowichan band.

The list of subjects to be offered and instructors from the Cowichan band includes: the history of the Cowichan band to be given by Ellwood Modeste; Indians and education today, Mrs. Dennis Alphonse; ceremonial dances, Abel Joe; assimilation and retaining the Indian identity, Ken Sam; the band council, reserves and the federal white paper, Dennis Alphonse; arts and crafts, Ray Peters; residential schools, Ben George, and Indian organizations, Ross Modeste.

Alphonse said there will also be a possibility for a panel discussion on Indians and education today. All classes will be held at Nanaimo.

IWA Local Gives Bursary

LAKE COWICHAN — An 18-year-old Lake Cowichan girl has won a $400 bursary from IWA Local 1-80.

Marlene Denninger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Denninger of 28 Beaver Street, won the bursary for "outstanding marks" at Lake Cowichan senior high school, where she specialized in science.

She plans to attend the University of Victoria to become a dental hygienist.

Miss Denninger's father, a Local 1-80 member, works for Lake Cowichan school district. The annual award is open to local members, their wives and children.

Pellet Gun Brings Fine

NANAIMO (CP) — Ronald Clavering, 21, was fined $1,000 here Monday on a charge of possession of an offensive weapon. Police said he was carrying a pellet gun while on parole.

Recreation To Get Cash Aid

NANAIMO—Recreation programs of the Nanaimo Indian band will get a boost from a First Citizens Fund grant of $650 announced Monday by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

The money was requested to help two war canoe clubs, a basketball and lacrosse team, the Indian Girls' Drill Team and Tillicum Haus, a social centre operated by the band.

The Busy Fall

Only too soon now the busy days of fall will be upon us, with a multitude of garden chores pressing to be done, and with fewer hours of daylight in which to accomplish the work.

This being the case, it isn't a bad idea to clean up any jobs which can be done now, so we will have that much less to worry about when the rush starts.$ One operation that can be tackled as soon as the last of the berries has been gathered is the pruning of the raspberries, and to understand the basic principles of this operation, it is necessary to know something about the rather peculiar growth habits of this plant.

You see, the roots of a raspberry plant are perennial — permanent — and last for many years. But the canes that grow up from these roots are biennial, each one with a life span of only two years.

★ ★ ★

Each individual raspberry cane grows up one year, bears fruit the next, and after that it is finished and should be cut down to ground level, or even a little below the soil surface, for any ugly stubs left sticking up can carry the infectious spores of various blights and diseases over the winter to attack the new canes the following year.

There is one exception to this growth pattern. The canes of the so-called everbearing raspberries — not very generally grown hereabouts — bear a small crop of fruit in the fall of the first year, plus a regular crop the following summer, after which they are cut away.

Before you start work, let's take a look at your canes. Some will be light in color and fresh-looking; these are the ones which have grown up from the root this summer, and these are to be retained for bearing fruit next year. Others are hard and woody, with small branches and dark-colored bark. These are the ones to come out.

★ ★ ★

Better wear a pair of stout leather gloves on this pruning job, as raspberry canes are not the most pleasant things in the world to handle, and if you get the tip of a raspberry thorn broken off short in your finger, you'll wish you'd been stung by a wasp instead. These things are very sore and have a nasty habit of festering. One of our neighbors always wears her oven mitts when cutting her raspberry canes.

All right, now. You've cut down all the old canes that bore fruit this summer, leaving no disease-carrying stubs sticking up; let's see what we have left.

We have quite a few young canes, actually too many for adequate elbow room, and they had better be thinned out a bit. Some are pretty strong and husky; these we will keep. Others are puny and thin, and as there isn't any point in retaining weaklings, out they come, leaving only the stoutest.

How many of these strong young canes do we retain? I'd say about six to each clump of roots. If you leave too many, you'll get a lot of berries but they will be undersized, while if you thin out the canes too drastically, you'll get beautifully big berries but not very many of them.

I figure six vigorous canes to each "stool" of roots is the ideal compromise between quantity and quality. If the roots have grown together so you can't tell where one clump ends and another begins, thin the canes to stand six inches apart each way.

Some young canes will undoubtedly be springing up in the alleys between the rows. These too must come out or your raspberry patch will degenerate into an impenetrable jungle. Hoe them off, or if you wish, these suckers can be dug up with a bit of root attached and planted elsewhere to make new plants. Cut them down to six-inch stubs after transplanting.

★ ★ ★

The raspberry is the hungriest feeder of all our fruit and should have first call on any old manure we may have available. Spread it over the rooting area in the late fall; don't go digging it in, for raspberry roots are very close to the surface and are easily damaged. The earthworms will soon pull the stuff down to where it will do the most good.

ARTHUR HOPPE

True Christians?

Scene: The Heavenly Real Estate Office. The Landlord, humming a little tune, is happily whipping up another galaxy to place in the firmament as his agent, Mr. Gabriel, enters hesitantly.

★ ★ ★

The Landlord: And now if I take a million parsecs of stardust, add a billion bushels of moonglow, stir thoroughly and . . .

Gabriel: Excuse me, sir. But you did ask that I interrupt you with any reports from Earth.

★ ★ ★

The Landlord: Earth? Oh, yes, that lovely little green planet I made. Such a gem. (frowning) More trouble, I suppose.

Gabriel: Yes, sir. Another fight's broken out. This time in Ireland.

The Landlord (with a smile): Ah, the Emerald Isle. One of the best examples of my handiwork, if I do say so myself. And the Irish. Confidentially, Gabriel, I can't help having a soft spot in my heart for the Irish. Such a warm, loving people.

Gabriel: Yes, sir, they are currently being bombed, shot, burned and clubbed.

The Landlord (sternly): Who risks my wrath by attacking my jolly, lovable Irish?

Gabriel: As usual, sir, the Irish.

The Landlord (thoughtfully): I think it's high time I personally intervened down there. I shall wisely adjudicate the dispute and thereby demonstrate how all men can live in peace and brotherhood.

Gabriel (nervously): Frankly, sir, I'd advise against that. The issues are rather difficult to . . .

★ ★ ★

The Landlord (annoyed): Are you doubting my omnipotence, Gabriel? Just tick off the facts and I'll hand down my verdict. Now, just why are the Irish beating and killing each other?

Gabriel: Well, basically, sir, to determine which are the better Christians.

The Landlord: I beg your pardon, Gabriel?

Gabriel: You see, sir, the Protestant majority has been persecuting the Catholic minority for years in Northern Ireland because the Catholics burn candles, eat wafers and drink wine in church.

★ ★ ★

The Landlord: Well, that's settled. Obviously, those who would persecute their fellow men for such piddling reasons have no concept of what Christianity is all about. I will declare the Catholics the true Christians and have done with it.

Gabriel: Yes, sir. Does that apply to the Catholic majorities in Spain, South America and elsewhere who have been persecuting Protestant minorities for years because they don't burn candles, eat wafers and drink wine in church?

The Landlord: Good me, no. Is that all they can do, persecute each other?

Gabriel: Oh, no, sir. They also persecute the Jews, Moslems, Hindus, Buddhists. . . .

The Landlord (sadly): Are there no true Christians down there, Gabriel?

★ ★ ★

Gabriel: Well, the Jews have been so busy being persecuted over the centuries they haven't had much time to persecute anyone else. But if you want to declare them the true Christians, you'd better hurry, sir. Now that they have a Jewish State and an Arab minority . . . Perhaps, sir, it would be safer to declare that true Christians are always in the minority, whatever minority it might be. Sir? Are you listening?

The Landlord (self absorbed): And add a phantasmagoria of rainbows, one Milky Way, eight octaves of birdsong . . .

Pollution Tax

SYDNEY HARRIS

Perhaps man's basic tragedy is that we are just smart enough to complicate the world, but not quite wise enough to simplify it.

That is the parents who have been "spoiled rotten" by affluence, not the kids by indulgence.

Everybody insists there is "too much government" — but everybody wants only that part of it reduced which doesn't serve his particular interests, and that part strengthened which does.

★ ★ ★

It is not what we "contribute to society" that is of first importance, but what we make of our individual characters; some of society's worst wreckers are the largest contributors to building funds.

When we say we are "willing to change" what we commonly mean is that we are willing to trade off one advantage for another, but not willing to give up any unfair advantage we may already posses.

There won't be any genuine environmental control until there's a tax on pollution that's as equitable and inexorable as the tax on production.

★ ★ ★

If all the people on reducing diets were laid end to end, it would make a revolting sight.

The best and briefest advice for youth and age alike today was given some years ago by James Thurber, when he urged, "Let us not look back in anger or forward in fear, but around in awareness."

Nobody wants to be responsible for what doesn't belong to him; only children recognize that all the world belongs to all the people in it, and we soon shake that "silliness" out of them.

One of the happier by-products of the campus disorders early this summer was the almost total abolition of those boring and bromidic commencement addresses to which graduates have been subjected for ages.

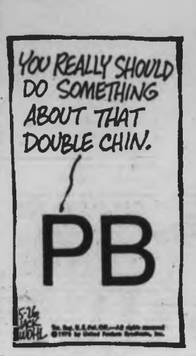

There is a great difference between "compromise" and "combination": to compromise is to give up a part of what you want in order to get the rest; to combine is to join the best elements of opposing views, mutually discarding the worst of each — a far more difficult and demanding task, which is why "compromise" is so much more often attained, and then proves equally unsatisfying to both sides.

★ ★ ★

I suspect that a good part of the attitude alienating older people from youth is the implicit assumption by the young today that sexuality is their exclusive prerogative, and that people over 30 are not merely untrustworthy but unattractive, undesirable, and undesiring.

For every one person who can handle time, 10 are manhandled by it.

Cash Tells Inmates About Love

ATLANTA (UPI) — Johnny Cash, whose successful battle against a longtime pep pill habit started in a Georgia jail, advised 700 Georgia convicts moments before their release Thursday to "go home to the people who love you."

"The more a man looks and searches, the more he realizes that the only place he can find the compassion he needs is at home among the people who love and understand him," the country singing star said.

Cash performed for the inmates at the request of Governor Lester Maddox, whose parole board arranged their early releases, and Sheriff Ralph Jones of Walker County, who had Cash arrested for illegal possession of drugs Nov. 2, 1967.

★ ★ ★

"He was on pills and very intoxicated when he was brought in," recalled Jones. "The next morning I talked to Johnny. I told him I couldn't understand why a man who had the potential of reaching the top and being the biggest man in his business would let a little thing like a pill destroy his life and put him in the gutter.

"He shook hands with me and he said he would never touch a pill again. Before long he was a new man."

★ ★ ★

Cash, talking backstage before singing to the convicts, stressed that friends like June Carter, who after became his wife, played the biggest roles in helping him straighten out his life.

"Sheriff Jones helped by letting me go home so I could find myself with people who helped me."

Cash directed several words at women who sat with their inmate husbands in the auditorium.

★ ★ ★

"To make a good man and keep a good man you got to have a good woman," he said. "And here's where it's all at for me—June Carter Cash."

Miss Carter danced onto the stage in a miniskirt and joined her husband in a lively rendition of Jackson, delighting the convicts as they sang of getting "married in a fever hotter than a pepper sprout."

Cash then turned to Maddox, who had praised Sheriff Jones, and said, "Governor, you're right about Ralph Jones being a good friend and a good influence, but don't you think she has it over him."

•

Miss Carter told the convicts and their wives that she and Cash always would feel close to them. "If you ever had hard times your heart goes out to others who had hard times," she said.

★ ★ ★

The convicts, young and old, black and white, were granted releases several months prior to the ends of their sentences for good behavior as part of Maddox's penal reform program.

Oil Tanker Route: Too Early

HOUSTON, Tex. (CP-AP) — A Humble Oil Co. spokesman here says it still is too early for any conclusions to be announced about the feasibility of an oil tanker route through the Northwest Passage.

"We are still studying the data collected during the two Arctic voyages of the Manhattan and will announce our findings when the studies are completed and evaluated," the spokesman said.

Humble earlier had indicated it may be early December before final conclusions are announced about the economic and practical aspects of transporting oil through the Northwest Passage rather than overland by pipeline. The Manhattan, especially equipped for ice-breaking, made its exploratory voyages under lease to Humble Oil.

Victoria's Singer 90 Today

Almost a Lifetime of Memories

—Ellis Shipman

Eva looks back

BY HELEN MORRIS

Today Victoria's long time singer Eva Hart celebrates almost a lifetime of making memories.

Eva, (Mrs. J. Q. Gillan, 820½ Remberton), is somewhat of a legend to Victorians for her concert and operetta performances.

Born in London, England, Mrs. Gillan — who says she's been singing all her life — studied music at the Royal College of Music in London.

"My father taught me to sing songs," she remembers, "and I just went on with the stage and singing."

★ ★ ★

Her first performance was at a church concert where "I sang something silly — about dolls or something."

As a girl she did a round of church and school concerts. "I remember one clergyman used to give me a six-pence when I'd sing Daddy — something awful like that." (Daddy goes, "Put your head on my shoulder, Daddy. Turn your face to the west.")

With the Royal College she sang a number of times at Buckingham Palace for King Edward VII and Queen Alexandra.

"I used to love that. It was splendid — we'd see all the royalty. The benches were all like choir stalls with the dukes and duchesses the nearest to the dais at front with royalty in it. The higher the stalls got, the lower the class."

After college, Mrs. Gillan went professional. She travelled around England and played the lead in various oratorios and operettas (a lot of Gilbert and Sullivan) with a backup of local choirs.

★ ★ ★

When she came to Victoria in 1912 with her first husband, the late Dr. C. Blackman, she continued as a for-hire lead singer to local groups.

"And I belonged to a local ladies' musical society. We did concerts around town — you must remember that was when people had to make their own entertainment — we didn't have radio or television.

★ ★ ★

"During the war we used to put on pantomimes and all kinds of shows, and I'd perform in all of them. That was the most fun."

It was in one of those wartime performances that she met her second husband, Col. J. Q. Gillan. She was Elsie Maynard (the leading lady) in Gilbert and Sullivan's Yeoman of the Guard, and he was playing what he calls "a bit part," Leonard Merrill.

In 1923 Col. Gillan became her real-life leading man.

"After the war the company became professional. We were the forerunner of the present Victoria Operatic Society, but we didn't call ourselves anthing so grand as that."

★ ★ ★

The Gillans lived in Ottawa — she continued singing there — from 1928 until 1943, when they retired to Victoria.

Here, she says, people recognize her as Eva Hart — Gillan thinks they should; he was called Hart the first years they lived in Victoria.

Once a man sat down beside her on a bus and said, "Eva Hart. I can see you now . . . stepping out onto the royal stage."

★ ★ ★

He was the grandson of Victoria pioneer Dr. J. S. Helmcken, and he had — a small boy sitting beside his mother — seen one of those first Buckingham Palace performances.

Mrs. Gillan celebrates her first 90 years today with an at home at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Grant, 1155 Beach. Guests are welcome between 3 p.m. and 6 p.m.

Oldsters Spurn Free Travel

COVENTRY, ENGLAND (UPI) — The Coventry council has changed its mind about offering free bus travel to elderly pensioners and decided to keep the one penny special fare. A council spokesman said it had received scores of angry letters from elderly residents insisting on playing their own way. He said a poll of old peoples' clubs confirmed they did not want free travel.

THE GRAPES ARE COMING

But let's think about it! This year why not do it

THE WINE-ART WAY

There is good reason to give the matter a second thought.
1. In March most of the California regions reported a 50% frost, short supply, higher prices?
2. WINE-ART now has 100% varietal concentrates which will give you top quality wines.
3. Concentrates are more convenient and easier to use. Make it when you're ready.

GRAPE CONCENTRATE

VARIETIES AVAILABLE

Zinfandel—Probably the most popular with fresh grape users.
Ruby Cabernet—Our Number One Red.
Chenin Blanc—The more delicate of California Whites.
French Red—From the Beaujolais region.
Italian Red—Makes a good Chianti.
Spanish Red—Unbeatable for colour.
Spanish White—Fine for Chablis type wines.
Hidalgo Muscatel—An old favourite.
Special Red Blend—A mixture of Zinfandel and Carignane.
Special White Blend—Mostly Tokay with some Palimino.
Also available—Regular California Red and White.
Hidalgo Tintorero and Macabeo in short supply.

Standards Chief Must Make Fine Distinction

LONDON — "By what curious piece of hairsplitting," the Consumer Council asked, does a bustline become a bust?

Pondering the answer was Lord Drumalbyn, whose baronial crest carries the motto "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills; and who is chairman of the Advertising Standards Association.

The controversy broke out when Drumalbyn's association, in a revised code of practice, banned ads for "bust developers" but approved promotion for "developers of bustlines."

The Consumer Council, in its magazine Focus, asked how the association "arrived at this curious piece of hairsplitting" in differentiating between bustlines and busts.

Focus said it printed results of a major investigation into bust developers of all types in December, 1967.

"The conclusions we arrived at, supported by the opinion of leading medical authorities, were that the results claimed by the manufacturers . . . could be achieved by the use of a tenpenny rubber ball," Focus said.

Fort Knocks Blooms Again

Hot Water E

By MARY TAYLOR

CHESTERMAN BAY — There are campers who pollute and destroy natural beauty spots, and then there are people like outdoorsman Andy Lensen, his family and friends—and "Fort Knocks."

A magnificent Indian teepee, authenic even to its smoke flaps, stands on the west end of the beach. Silver-grey driftwood, upended in the sand, provides a barricade.

In this neatly-enclosed area the Jensens of 3846 Wilkinson, Victoria, and Frank and Bunny Csino and family, of 2253 Marlene, Victoria, have set up their camp—Fort Knocks.

There are two tents, a roofed-in shelter over a large picnic table and other facilities to make life on the beach a pleasure.

Not many campers enjoy the luxury of continuous hot water. But Andy Lensen and crew have it all figured out. They set up a large metal container fitted with a long loop of copper tubing which pokes out the side near the bottom. The campfire is built over the

Tough Waste Law Injury to Forest Ind

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Council of the Forest Industries of British Columbia said Thursday the future of the industry would be threatened by the enforcement of strict anti-pollution measures.

A brief, presented by Council, President Gordon Draeseke to a public hearing of the pollution control branch, said any control measures adopted by the provincial government must be feasible for the forest industry to implement. The hearing is being conducted by branch director W. N. Venables.

Victoria Decides

Comfort Station Reopened Soon

A Victoria-operated comfort station, closed two months ago because of what were described as "shocking conditions," will be reopened shortly.

The decision to upgrade the condition of the public lavatory on Government Street next to the tourist bureau was made at Thursday's meeting of Victoria city council.

Council wasn't told how much the necessary repairs would cost, but it was decided to negotiate with Imperial Oil Ltd. in an attempt to recover the money.

Before the facility was closed down, the city had an agreement with the oil company for partial maintenance of the comfort station which is located next to a service station.

Ald. Cecil Parrott told council it was "absolutely necessary" to reopen the toilet. Complaints had been received from the chamber of commerce, from merchants in the area and from tourists.

Cardboard Breaks Man's Arm

A Saanich man was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital Thursday afternoon after he was hit by a piece of wood-reinforced cardboard that flew off the back of a passing car, Victoria police said.

Einar Norgaard, 59, of 1151 Clovelly Terrace, received a compound fracture of the left arm and was reported in satisfactory condition Thursday night.

Police say he was driving his car in the 2200 block Government when the piece of cardboard flew off the back of a car being driven in the opposite direction by Lintin Atherton of 2354 Dalhousie, Oak Bay.

Norgaard's left arm was resting outside the window when the cardboard struck him, police said.

Chase Nabs Cyclist

Victoria city police arrested a motorcyclist Thursday night after he led them on a high speed chase through Victoria and Saanich.

The chase began about 11 p.m. on Bay near Shelbourne when a Victoria motorcycle policeman spotted the vehicle speeding.

The chase, which reached speeds of up to 70 miles an hour, ended near Mt. Douglas park when the police motorcycle overtook the motorcyclist and his passenger.

Saanich police vehicles had moved into the area and were ready to set up road blocks.

Oil Kings Will Play Cougars

Edmonton Oil Kings, finalists last year in the Western Canada Hockey League, will play an exhibition game Sunday, Sept. 27 at Memorial Arena against Victoria Cougars of the B.C. Junior League.

Oil Kings will be the second WCHL team to visit Victoria. Calgary Centennials had previously been booked for a Sept. 23 date.

Manager-coach Ron Maxwell of Cougars said that Cougars have received replies from about 40 players from the 85 invitations sent out two weeks ago. Only one has turned the club down to date.

Fort Knocks Blooms Again

Hot Water Even Runs

By MARY TAYLOR

CHESTERMAN BAY — There are campers who pollute and destroy natural beauty spots, and then there are people like outdoorsman Andy Lensen, his family and friends—and "Fort Knocks."

A magnificent Indian teepee, authenic even to its smoke flaps, stands on the west end of the beach. Silver-grey driftwood, upended in the sand, provides a barricade.

In this neatly-enclosed area the Jensens of 3846 Wilkinson, Victoria, and Frank and Bunny Csino and family, of 2253 Marlene, Victoria, have set up their camp—Fort Knocks.

There are two tents, a roofed-in shelter over a large picnic table and other facilities to make life on the beach a pleasure.

Not many campers enjoy the luxury of continuous hot water. But Andy Lensen and crew have it all figured out. They set up a large metal container fitted with a long loop of copper tubing which pokes out the side near the bottom. The campfire is built over the tubing and presto—running hot water.

The big teepee, which Andy made from an authentic Indian pattern out of heavy canvas on a borrowed sewing machine, serves as the recreation room for the families. On cool evenings they burn logs in a portable barbecue to keep warm.

This is the second year the two families have camped together on the beach. They took up summer residence this year June 26 and, since then have had visitors by the score—most of them pleasantly surprised to find neither kooks nor peddlers of junk handicrafts, but well-tanned happy families with a genuine love of the outdoors enjoying it to the full.

Andy Jensen isn't out to convert people to the simple life, although he believes it's great. However, there's no doubt many have left Fort Knocks with new ideas about the outdoor life.

The whole thing started when Andy got involved with wolf cubs. He started to interest the boys in simple Indian handicrafts and nature lore some years ago. In his two summers at Chesterman Bay, he has made a wide circle of Indian friends.

Costume Copy

"It was the Indian people who asked, in fact insisted, that I should wear my Indian costume to the Cloyoquot Day celebrations," Andy said, as he brought out a magnificent feather head-dress, complete to the last detail. It was copied from one now in a London, England, museum.

Equally authentic is a coyote fur-medicine hat that Andy wears on occasion, just to see the startled looks on peoples faces.

"Walk into a pub in this and see what happens," he laughed.

Beadwork has become his hobby, and with his feathered head-dress and buckskins, Andy wears a striking beadwork choker—another one of his copies of an authentic Indian design.

Although the wives and youngsters spend the summer at Fort Knocks, the two men can only stay for the length of their vacations and then come up to visit each weekend.

When Andy is not working with cubs and outdoors groups, he's working with electronics in the Victoria traffic department.

Fort Knocks will soon be ready for dismantling. The palisade will be replaced with other driftwood on the beach. The teepee will be struck and folded away and the two modern tents taken down.

The youngsters, David, Russell and Darryl Jensen and Laura, Barbara and Frank Csino, jr. will sort through their collections of shells and driftwood, trying to decide which ones they would most like to take home for winter projects.

"If we let them, they'd take home a truckload," Mrs. Csino quipped.

Tough Waste Law Felt Injury to Forest Industry

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Council of the Forest Industries of British Columbia said Thursday the future of the industry would be threatened by the enforcement of strict anti-pollution measures.

A brief, presented by Council, President Gordon Draeseke to a public hearing of the pollution control branch, said any control measures adopted by the provincial government must be feasible for the forest industry to implement. The hearing is being conducted by branch director W. N. Venables.

The brief said that standards of pollution control should be set for each individual forest operation instead of for the industry generally.

"The forest products industry does not condone pollution for the sake of profit," said the brief. "It does feel, however, that imposition of pollution control regulations without recognition of economic factors is unrealistic."

The forest industry has shown a progressive attitude towards more complete utilization of its raw materials and better control of manufacturing processes.

"However, the industry has now reached the point where expenditures on environmental improvement rarely provide an economic return through increased utilization of its raw materials and by-product manufacture."

★ ★ ★

The brief said the industry has sent $45 million on plans to improve in-plant control and treatment facilities and plans to spend another $85 million in the next five years.

The council, which represents companies producing 85 per cent of the $1.5 billion annual forest production in B.C., said the best pollution control system would consider each operation separately, taking into account its location, type of weather and population in the area.

The brief suggested companies be required to submit plans for waste management for government approval and that these plans be renewable every five years unless revised in the interim. The companies would be required to submit regular progress reports on pollution control.

Pottery Teacher

A Little Cla And Dedicat

By BILL THOMAS

Wheels will start to turn at the end of this month when master potter Jan Grove opens a series of workshops at the Signal Hill Creative Centre in Esquimalt.

After giving up teaching, almost in despair, Grove explained Wednesday "I now have a feeling inside, you might call it a sort of inner urge, to get back to instructing those who really care about pottery. I understand there are very few people willing to teach so I have a sense of obligation to the craft."

Grove is not only a master potter in the European sense, in that he has served a complete apprenticeship in his art, but he is also an accomplished teacher. He studied at the Stuttgart Fine Arts School, but still insists mentor was his own father, also a distinguished German potter.

* * *

In 1960, after running his own successful studio with the assistance of his wife, Helga, also an accomplished potter, Grove accepted a teaching post at the Istanbul School of Applied Fine Arts. He stayed until 1965, when a chance meeting with Victoria artist Herbert Siebner convinced him he should come to Victoria.

In his studio at 2218 Sooke Road, Colwood, the artist explained, "My workshops will focus on the use of the wheel and I have designed it so that it will offer a basic working ability for the beginner and also assist advanced students in gaining confidence in technique. The whole program is dedicated to an exercise in clay."

Key Columbia Enginee

A key figure in the development of the three Columbia River Treaty dams, B.C. Hydro's principal civil engineer Robert McMordie, died in Vancouver Thursday at the age of 62.

McMordie died at St. Paul's Hospital after collapsing in the lobby of the B.C. Hydro building.

He was born in Toronto and graduated from the University of Toronto.

When B.C. Power Commission amalgamated with B.C. Electric in 1962 to form B.C. Hydro, McMordie became associate manager of the engineering division after holding senior positions in Victoria with the commission and before that, with Ontario Hydro.

Pottery Teacher

A Little Clay... And Dedication

By BILL THOMAS

Wheels will start to turn at the end of this month when master potter Jan Grove opens a series of workshops at the Signal Hill Creative Centre in Esquimalt.

After giving up teaching, almost in despair, Grove explained Wednesday "I now have a feeling inside, you might call it a sort of inner urge, to get back to instructing those who really care about pottery. I understand there are very few people willing to teach so I have a sense of obligation to the craft."

Grove is not only a master potter in the European sense, in that he has served a complete apprenticeship in his art, but he is also an accomplished teacher. He studied at the Stuttgart Fine Arts School, but still insists mentor was his own father, also a distinguished German potter.

There will be a choice of a day and an evening program, designed so that each student gets 40 full work hours of practice and instruction. Day classes will run from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday from Aug. 31 to Sept. 11.

Keen students will find that the workshops are open during lunchtime, for those who want to gain extra practice.

Evening classes will run from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday to Friday, from Aug. 31 to Sept. 25.

As Grove explained his program, he picked his way through his studio where he is making potter's wheels for his students.

Leaving nothing to chance, he is building each unit from scratch to provide reliable equipment for his students.

"I think it's only fair to emphasize that this is an exercise in the operation of the potter's wheel and the handling of clay. For the $80 fee the pupil is supplied with all the materials and tools he will need.

★ ★ ★

"But again, I emphasize this is an exercise. If any exceptional works are produced by the students, then possibly I could consider assisting with glazing, decorating and firing. But at this time, I think we should work primarily with the clay. If the students show sufficient interest, then in October I would consider starting a class to demonstrate the techniques of glazing and decoration. This would, of course, be a completely new program, but I feel in time it will come."

The pottery workshop was initiated by Grove, unassisted by any grants or outside aid, which is in keeping with his own spirit of independence.

Anyone interested in registration should apply personally to Jan Grove at his studio at 2218 Sooke Road, Colwood, before Aug. 31.

In 1964 he became the Columbia project's manager and was appointed principal civil engineer last January.

He is survived by his wife Ena May, a son, Michael John, and two daughters, Mrs. William J. (Mary Joan) Sharkey, Trenton, Ont., and Kathleen Moira Jane.

Funeral arrangements are to be announced later.

King Fisherman

Tyee Catch Rewarded

Mrs. Hilda Clarke of Port Alberni has taken the Alberni Valley Tyee Club trophy for the first tyee of the year from Alberni waters, with a 24.13-pounder from San Mateo Bay.

The King Fisherman Contest classifies tyee as chinook salmon 30 pounds or heavier caught in Alberni Inlet and north on the west coast and from Nile Creek north on the east coast of the Island, but the Alberni Club classifies 18-pounders and heavier as tyee for its own club competitions.

Alberni Inlet tyee are starting to show at Nahmint Bay and a number have been taken down Inlet at San Mateo and around Effingham Island in Barkley Sound.

OTTAWA (CP) — An unexpected delay has occurred in the drawing of fisheries closing lines that would bar foreign fishing fleets from large bodies of water on Canada's East and West coasts.

Observers here are puzzled over why the cabinet has not acted to establish the lines, authorized by Parliament in June before it recessed for the summer.

Fisheries Minister Jack Davis told the Commons external affairs committee in May that the government could issue maps setting out the closing lines within days after the enabling legislation was passed.

Warnings He On Labor Fr

By DON COLLINS

Thursday was a day for warnings on B.C.'s uncertain labor front.

Provincial Labor Minister Leslie Peterson warned building trade unionists they would face court action if they strike the construction industry.

Pat O'Neal, international vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, said it is likely all of the province's pulp and paper mills will be closed through strike action by midnight next Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

There were also repeated warnings of separate pending strikes involving the International Woodworkers of America — one against the Victoria operations of B.C. Forest Products and the other by 270 lumber inspectors against the province's sawmills.

Ironically, the day also included a joint statement from the IWA and MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. of a planned study aimed at creating peace in the forest industry.

★ ★ ★

Peterson's warning came following the latest development in the troubled construction picture — a 72-hour strike notice from Local 170 of the Plumbers served on three Lower Mainland contractors.

The union has said, however, that it has no immediate plans to strike.

Several of the building trade unions have rejected settlement proposals from deputy labor minister Bill Sands. Sands came into the picture in a third-party role in an interim agreement that saw the men go back to work beginning July 27.

★ ★ ★

The deal was that the 25,000, men idled since April 14 by an industry-imposed lockout, would go back without contracts if Sands would bring down recommendations and the government would suspend back-to-work and compulsory - arbitration orders.

Peterson said Thursday the binding arbitration section of the act still applies and indicated proceedings would begin if strike action is taken.

The act provides for a variety of fines. A judge can

Wealth S Will Rece Priority S

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa said Thursday Prime Minister Trudeau will study with "absolute priority" Quebec's proposal to establish an economic stabilization fund to redistribute the wealth of Canada.

The premier, who met Trudeau at Ottawa Tuesday, told a news conference the prime minister considers the idea "very interesting" and agreed to have Ottawa civil servants study it.

★ ★ ★

Bourassa proposed creation of an Ottawa-financed fund at a federal - provincial meeting of finance ministers earlier this year, describing it as a mechanism, to aid regions suffering from high unemployment.

He argued that existing wealth-sharing mechanisms such as equalization payments do not enable poorer provinces to over come negative effects of some federal policies, such as unemployment arising from the fight against inflation.

★ ★ ★

Bourassa said Trudeau agreed during their meeting that the country's wealth has not been distributed in a satisfactory fashion within the last 100 years of Confederation.

The Quebec premier hoped that the federal government would agree to setting up of the fund this year, and help him hit his election campaign target of creating 100,000 jobs in Quebec in 1971.

Ottawa Stalls Fishing Lines

By JOHN BEST

OTTAWA (CP) — An unexpected delay has occurred in the drawing of fisheries closing lines that would bar foreign fishing fleets from large bodies of water on Canada's East and West coasts.

Observers here are puzzled over why the cabinet has not acted to establish the lines, authorized by Parliament in June before it recessed for the summer.

Fisheries Minister Jack Davis told the Commons external affairs committee in May that the government could issue maps setting out the closing lines within days after the enabling legislation was passed.

Davis is known to attach great importance to the lines, which would be drawn between co-ordinates on either side of the entrances to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the Bay of Fundy and Queen Charlotte Sound.

The question was on the agenda for the final week of intensive sessions the cabinet held throughout July, and aides of the minister appeared optimistic then that it would be disposed of without undue complications.

A knowledgeable source suggested that Davis apparently was unable to persuade his cabinet colleagues to view the matter with urgency.

He also thought it possible that other cabinet members had expressed concern about the implications of drawing the lines.

Another source suggested the closing lines may have fallen victim temporarily to the need of a "digestion period" after passage of the controversial legislation to enact a 100-mile-wide pollution control zone around the Arctic archipelago.

Arrangements for Arctic pollution control are a more pressing issue at the moment, he maintained.

Hickel: Two-Nation Link

Energy Policy 'Continental'

- Canadian bases proposed for U.S. radar planes. Page 6
- Ottawa issues guides for North. Page 11

MONTREAL (UPI) — U.S. Interior Secretary Walter Hickel, who leaves today for a first-hand look at resources development and pollution problems in the Canadian Arctic, believes that Canada and the United States must forge a common policy on continental energy resources.

Hickel told a news conference Thursday that the two countries, bound by "unique relations in the world," ultimately will find "we have many things in common."

Stressing that he was viewing the question of a pool on Canadian esources, Hickel said any pact would "only be good if it's good for both countries.

★ ★ ★

"It will have to be based on the common good for the greatest number," Hickel said.

"I don't think any one country has a hold on anything. Your resources have to go to market and ours have to go to market, too," the U.S. cabinet member told Canadian newsmen.

"I look forward to a North America energy policy that will take in all forms of energy — atomic, coal, gas, water or whatever."

★ ★ ★

"It may take 20 years to arrive at a common policy by Canada and the United States, though I hope not," he added.

Hickel said he did not believe that President Nixon's cutbacks in March on Canadian oil imported into the U.S. would stir Canadian reluctance to reach agreement on a pool continental policy regarding Canadian resources.

"The matter of oil imports is an entirely different matter," Hickel said. "It's based on other criteria, other needs, and development and trade problems with other countries. It's true, though, that we don't produce enough oil for our domestic market.

★ ★ ★

Hickel said he did not believe Thursday's announcement by Canada establishing guidelines for the building of a pipeline from the Arctic to South Canada markets would deter American investment interest.

Northern Development and Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien, who is host for Hickel's safari into the northland, said the guidelines limit the pipeline building to one for oil and one for gas along a predetermined corridor from the Arctic to Canada's south.

Lindbergh Probes Jungle

MANILA (AP) — Charles Lindbergh, the famous American airman and conservationist, joined an expedition into the forests of Mindanao this week to learn first hand about the lives and problems of ancient tribal people.

Lindbergh, 68, accompanied a party led by Manuel Manda Elizalde, the secretary and director of the Presidential Arm for National Minorities (PANAMIN).

★ ★ ★

The Philippines government organization is dedicated to assisting minority people of the island country who are being threatened by expanding cities and pushed from their centuries-old dwelling places by settlers, loggers and miners.

"I'm going along to learn," Lindbergh said of his series of visits to the Philippines. "Secretary Elizalde is doing an extraordinary job. If I can help in any way, I'll be glad to do whatever I can. It's the first program like this I know of."

He started the series of visits to the Philippines about two years ago to help promote conservation of the Tamaraw wild water buffalo and the monkey-eating eagle, both of which have been faced with possible extinction.

San Francisco Sleeps —Siren-Sounder Sequestered in Cell

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The sirens were silent in San Francisco Thursday. And Michael Courtney was in jail.

Police said the 22-year-old Courtney admitted being the "siren fiend" who has been setting off air raid sirens in various parts of San Francisco during the early hours for the last six days.

Courtney's method was fiendish indeed. He removed padlocks from the sirens, wired in a timing device to set them off at 5:30 a.m., and then locked them up again with new padlocks.

★ ★ ★

So, while the siren wailed and San Franciscans jumped out of bed and held their ears, police would rush to the scene, to find they had to break into the device in order to silence it.

Courtney, arrested Wednesday in his rooming house, said he set off the sirens "as a protest against nuclear armament. I'm against atomic warfare and nuclear holocaust."

He said he arrived in San Francisco from New Orleans about a year ago and entered the San Francisco Mortuary College. His funds ran out and he dropped out, he said.

Courtney said he bought the clocks and the padlocks a couple at a time. The locks, he said, proudly, were "better than the ones I took off the sirens."

★ ★ ★

Asked how he located the sirens, he said, "I'd just scan the horizon."

Courtney was booked on two counts of burglary, for breaking into two high schools, allegedly to set off sirens there.

He said he worked alone, but police said they felt others were involved.

But if everyone in San Francisco didn't get a good night's sleep Wednesday, it was not Michael Courtney's fault.

Big Four Parley At UN Meeting Wish of Kosygin

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) — Eastern European diplomats said Thursday that Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin plans to meet with President Nixon and other western leaders in New York in October on the occasion of the United Nation's 25th anniversary session.

The diplomats said a summit conference was virtually certain. But they said Kosygin apparently would prefer a four-power meeting with Nixon and the French and British premiers rather than a bilateral meeting with Nixon.

If a Big Four summit conference proved impractical, a meeting between Kosygin and the American chief executive appeared "inevitable," the sources said.

US. sources at the United Nations said Thursday no preparations were yet in progress for staffing such a meeting or setting up it's agenda. "If a summit is to be held, it would be on an informal basis only," one source said.

The eastern diplomats indicated the Kremlin's preference for a four-power conference was motivated by its apparent desire to avoid charges of "ganging up" in world affairs by the two superpowers.

World leaders will converge on New York for the special UN meeting scheduled for Oct. 19-24.

Judge Delays Gas Dump

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — A federal court judge ordered the United States Army Thursday not to dump a 2,800-ton load of nerve gas in the Atlantic before today but said it could continue putting gas containers aboard a ship for disposal at sea.

The order was issued after six hours of argument by lawyers supporting and opposing the army plan and despite a plea by a top government research officer that the dumping of the containers be treated as a matter of urgency.

Bennett's Head Crowns 'Non-Indian' Totem Pole

By JOHN MATTERS

A carving of Premier Bennett atop a totem pole at Hazelton is "sacrilege," the administrator of the Union of B.C. Indian Chiefs said Thursday.

Bill Wilson told the Colonist he was in Hazelton on Wednesday when the totem pole was raised during a visit there by the provincial cabinet. Reports describe the carving, which is atop a column of traditional Indian figures, as Bennett in a top hat, bow tie and frock coat.

★ ★ ★

"If it's a joke, it's a terribly unfunny joke," said Wilson, a former University of Victoria student who will be studying law at the University of B.C. this fall. "Where I come from (Cape Mudge), we would have buried the carver with the pole."

The pole was raised to commemorate the opening of 'Ksan Village, described as an Indian "cultural centre." A 61-unit campsite is nearby.

"We tried to talk to the people there (about the totem pole)," said Wilson. "But 'Ksan Village is a project mainly run by non-Indians who are prostituting Indian art."

★ ★ ★

He said the presence of Bennett among such Indian religious figures as the killer whale, bear and frog was unforgivable.

"It is not necessarily because it's Mr. Bennett that Indians are offended," said Wilson. "It is the idea that Indian culture could be exploited to this degree."

Wilson noted that 'Ksan Village, operated by non-Indians, recently got a grant from the First Citizens' Fund.

The B.C. Union of Indian Chiefs has recently said that the First Citizens' Fund is a "political fund" administered to divide B.C. Indians.

Diamond Rings Scatter In New York's Night

NEW YORK (UPI) — The case read like the scenario for an Alfred Hitchcock thriller: police with an electronic eye that peers into the night; a gang of acrobatic jewel thieves with a million-dollar string of successes, and a mad scramble for $240,000 worth of rings tossed out a window.

★ ★ ★

It began shortly before midnight Wednesday when a burglar alarm brought Sgt. Thomas Connolly of the police department's safe and loft squad and two other officers racing to the Botell Ring Co. on the 18th floor of a 20-storey building in mid-Manhattan.

Atop the building, they searched the darkness with the aid of an "owl eye," an electronic device developed for night fighting in Vietnam. It magnifies available light more than 100 times. They spotted a man hanging by a rope from the second floor window and raced back down the stairs.

★ ★ ★

Out of the same window, four other men were throwing cases of gold and diamond rings taken from a vault smashed by sledgehammers. One of the cases burst, spewing rings all over a courtyard.

Sidney Heller, president of Botell, said more than 2,000 rings worth $24,000 were recovered, some of them by police who spent more than an hour searching for them on their hands and knees in the courtyard.

Police arrested Raymond Smith, 36, of New York as he dangled from a rope over the courtyard. The others escaped.

Juiced-Up Elephants Staggering Problem

KARIBA, Rhodesia (AP) — It's marula berry time in northern Rhodesia and motorists have been warned to watch out for drunken elephants. Game wardens say the animals fill up on the ripe berries which then ferment, turning the elephants into staggering nuisances.

Israel Accused in Attack

AMMAN (UPI) — Israeli jets strafed a village in northern Jordan Thursday with rockets and machine gun fire in violation of the 90-day Middle East cease-fire which went into effect at midnight last Friday, a military spokesman said in Amman.

Tel Aviv, meanwhile, accused Egypt of deploying new Soviet-supplied anti-aircraft missiles in the Suez Canal front zone, demanded that the United States have them removed and threatened to delay start of the proposed Arab-Israeli peace talks.

The Jordanian military spokesman said two Israeli jets strafed the village of Northern Shuna, five miles south of Lake Tiberias, at 5:30 p.m. He said the 10-minute raid was aimed against civilian targets, but added that there were no casualties or damage.

The incident was the first officially reported action along the Jordanian front since the cease-fire went into effect.

In Cairo, the official government radio reacted to Israel's missile charges as a "contemptible Israeli attempt to evade the consequences of their acceptance of the American peace initiative."

The broadcast said the charge created an "artificial crisis" and Israel was trying to wriggle out of the peace talks "because every step which would follow would lead to the enforcement of the security council resolution" of 1967.

Israel charged that Egypt had moved SAM 2 and SAM 3 rockets to within 12 miles of the canal after the cease-fire went into effect at 6 p.m. EDT last Friday. Under terms of the cease-fire both sides agreed not to move new military equipment into a zone 31 miles wide on each side of the canal.

In Washington, state department spokesman Robert McCloskey said the United States has been investigating the alleged violation but has not yet reached any conclusion.

Limit Urged On TV

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate negotiators reached agreement Thursday on a bill that would sharply restrict the amount candidates could spend for radio-television campaign commercials for all federal offices and for governor and lietenant-governor.

It would be effective this year, applying to spending for the congressional election campaign.

The compromise bill, drafted by a House-Senate conference committee, basically contained provisions of a House-passed bill to limit broadcast spending to an amount equal to seven cents per vote cast for a particular office in the last election.

The bill would not apply to primary elections this year.

90 Million Privately Owned

Firearm Use Rises Markedly in U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP) — The FBI says the use of firearms in crime has grown markedly in the United States in the last five years.

In crime statistics for the last calender year issued Wednesday, the FBI said two of every three murder victims were killed by firearms and one-quarter of all assaults involved a firearm.

Current estimates say there are 35 million rifles, 31 million shotguns and 24 million handguns privately owned in the U.S.

The FBI said 14,590 persons were killed in murders and non-negligent manslaughter in the U.S. in 1969, a 7-per-cent increase from 1968. Among those killed were 86 law enforcement officers.

The FBI statistics show that 65 per cent of the 1969 murders involved the use of firearms, a jump from 1964 when 5,909 of 9,250 murders, or about 55 per cent, included the use of firearms.

Firearms were also used in 24 per cent of the aggravated assaults, which cover everything from non-fatal shootings to sluggings. There were 306,420 of these aggravated assaults in 1969, up 8.5 per cent from 1968.

Thieves Raid Girls' Home

More than $125 worth of clothing and jewelry were stolen Monday afternoon from the residence of Valerie Baier, 19 and Mary Sloan, 19, both of 707 Linden, Victoria police said. They said the loot consisted of an opal ring, a string of pearls, a gold locket and chain with a diamond in the centre and a dress.

MOSCOW — Chancellor Willy Brandt returned to Bonn Thursday leaving behind the impression that the Russians will make concessions on the status of Berlin as part of the price for West German's signature on a non-aggression treaty.

He left Moscow's Vnukovo airport aboard a Lufthansa jet to complete a two-day visit to the Soviet capital for the signing of the treaty and diplomatic talks.

Premier Alexei Kosygin and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko saw him off.

The vice-regal couple flew to Whitehorse where they are to spend two nights before going on to Mayo, Dawson City and Old Crow. Thy will then visit the Northwest Territories communities of Inuvik, Tuktoyaktuk, Sachs Harbor, Holman Island, Coppermine and Yellowknife.

At Coppermine he is scheduled to take a one-hour canoe trip to Bloody Falls. At Dawson City, he will attend the annual Discovery Day Parade and a performance of the Gaslight Follies.

Money Missing

CHILLIWACK (CP) — Ronald Cameron Roth, 36, of Chilliwack, suspended from his job as business manager of the Chilliwack forest camp last June, was charged Thursday with theft, and is scheduled to appear in court Sept. 9.

RCMP said the charges were laid after the provincial corrections branch, which operates the camps, reported a "substantial" amount of money missing.

Firefighter Fined $200 For Leaving

KELOWNA (CP) — David Cote of Kelowna was fined $200 by Provincial Court Judge D. M. White Wednesday after pleading guilty to failing to man a forest fire line.

White was told Cote had volunteered for fire duty, but later refused to assist on a fire line and chose to leave a camp where men were gathered to fight the Raymer Lake fire near here last month.

The judge noted that Cote was being paid and received meals, yet refused to fight a fire "Which could have wiped the whole area out."

Brandt Buoys Hope

By HARRY TRIMBORN
Colonist-Los Angeles Times Service

MOSCOW — Chancellor Willy Brandt returned to Bonn Thursday leaving behind the impression that the Russians will make concessions on the status of Berlin as part of the price for West German's signature on a non-aggression treaty.

He left Moscow's Vnukovo airport aboard a Lufthansa jet to complete a two-day visit to the Soviet capital for the signing of the treaty and diplomatic talks.

Premier Alexei Kosygin and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko saw him off.

★ ★ ★

While here, Brandt had long conversations with Kosygin and Communist Party chief Leonid Brezhnev on a wide range of topics, especially development of economic ties.

Brandt said he was impressed with the intensity of his talks with the two Soviet leaders but said "they never became tense and hectic."

West German diplomats here said they were impressed with the cordiality of the Soviet-German meetings and with the widespread publicity given them by the Soviet press during Brandt's visit.

Brandt disclosed some of the content of his talks but he shed little light on what was said about Berlin — and then only in a cryptic manner.

★ ★ ★

"I have my reasons for not saying more to this question now," he told newsmen at a briefing before his departure. "And I would appreciate it if this would be respected."

Still, he indicated that the status of Berlin would be improved from the West German viewpoint.

"I feel that my opinion which I expressed the day before yesterday (Tuesday) in Bonn has been strengthened with the understanding that this treaty has a favorable influence on this problem, in which we have a vital interest," Brandt said.

★ ★ ★

The reference to Bonn was to Brandt's expressed hope that the treaty would have a positive effect on Berlin.

Just what concessions the Russians might be willing to make was not known. It could include strengthening of the Allied asserted rights of access to the divided city and a possible opening of the wall dividing East and West Berlin to increase the now limited access to both sides by East and West Berliners.

The movement of Germans across Communist borders was raised Thursday as a new element in the Russo-German drive for burying the hostilities of the Second World War.

ABM Discussion Made Irrelevant

VIENNA (UPI) — Diplomatic sources said Thursday U.S. and Soviet negotiators had made such solid progress toward a treaty at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks here as to make the current U.S. Senate debate on antiballistic missiles virtually meaningless.

But the sources said U.S. chief negotiator Gerard Smith and his delegation do not oppose continued development of the American ABM system until a treaty has been signed and do not feel this development is hampering discussions with the Soviets.

The first round of SALT, which began in Vienna April 16, will end this morning with a brief plenary meeting at the U.S. Embassy.

You see, a Datsun 1600 is so compact it fits in places bigger cars fear to tread. So easy to see out of, it's almost like being outside. (Even if you are a foot from the curb, it's still in line with other cars.) And you can park a lot too because Datsun 1600 gives you up to thirty-five miles per gallon of gas.

Evenson, Mates Shred Vaunted Esk Defence

EDMONTON — The vaunted defence of the Edmonton Eskimos may never be the same.

British Columbia Lions, with an awesome ground attack led by fullback Jim Evenson, overpowered the Eskimos, 35-7, in a Western Football Conference game before 18,992 Clark Stadium fans Thursday night.

Evenson, given the opportunity by near-flawless signal calling of Paul Brothers, shredded the Esk defence for 147 yards and three touchdowns, on 23, carries.

Placekicker Ted Gerela contributed 11 points on field goals of 46 and 18 yards, four converts and a single. Lions' other points came on a late touchdown by Rhome Nixon on a pass from Carroll Williams, who replaced Brothers late in the game.

Gerela moved within one point of Saskatchewan's Jack Abendschan, who has 34 points, in the West scoring race.

Next game: Monday—Calgary vs. Saskatchewan at Regina.

TWO-WAY PERFORMANCE

The B.C. offensive line manhandled the Edmonton defence, opening gaping holes for Evenson and his running mates . . . and an inspired Lions defence, led by Jerry Bradley, easily controlled the Eskimo offence.

Bradley intercepted two Don Trull passes, returning one to the Edmonton 23-yard line from where Gerela scored a single on a wide field-goal attempt to make the count 8-0, and the other to the Edmonton eight, setting up Evenson's third touchdown.

Greg Findley and George Juggum made other interceptions for the Lions.

DOZEN INTERCEPTIONS

Edmont quarterbacks have now had 12 passes intercepted in three games. Trull was the victim three times last night while Rusty Clark had one picked off.

The Edmonton pair completed 17 of 33 pass attempts for 150 yards while Brothers, sticking mostly to the ground, hit on four of 10 attempts for 57 yards. Williams completed both passes he tried for 40 yards.

WHITFIELD STRONG

In addition to Evenson's total, A. D. Whitfield ripped off 68 yards in 16 carries toward a team total of 259 yards on the ground.

It was the second win in four starts for the Lions and moved them into a second-place tie with Calgary Stampeders.

TD EACH QUARTER

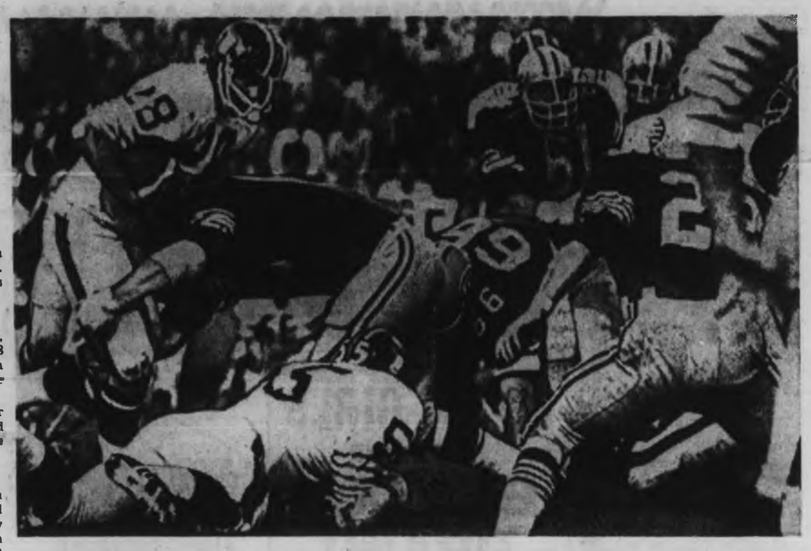

The Lions struck early with Evenson scoring on a six-yard run at the 4:44 mark and they added touchdowns in each quarter. They were ahead 8-0 after one quarter, 15-7 at half-time and 25-7 after three quarters.

Evenson's second touchdown came on a six-yard pass play from Brothers and his third on a seven-yard plunge.

A fumble by Whitfield on the Lions' 25-yard line led to Edmonton's only touchdown. Trull completed a pass to the 11-yard line, ran it himself to the seven and then sprung Eban loose on a reverse play.

Lions now have a week off before hosting Calgary next Thursday. Edmonton travels to Montreal for a game on Tuesday.

ALEC MERRIMAN

Take your pick . . . anywhere in Vancouver Island waters . . . and you will have a good chance of getting salmon . . . the only difference is that some spots are better than others.

Tyee waters are all producing, with Muchalat Inlet, from Gold River to Nootka Sound, probably the hottest.

Campbell River's Tyee Pool is producing a few big ones, including a 57-pounder taken Tuesday night by Ross Spiers.

First of the Alberni Inlet tyee have been recorded from Nahmint Bay.

Coho fishing is reported hot all the way from Duncan Bay, north of Campbell River down to the Comox Bar, and from Deep Bay to Claytons is quite good.

In Cape Lazo-Bell Buoy waters off Comox the coho have been snapping wildly at pink, and green and white; bucktails, with a little spinner in front, trolled quickly in the wake of the boat on less than 50 feet of line.

Norris Rocks, off Hornby Island, has been a hot spot.

The mouth of Little Qualicum River has been rewarding trollers with coho up to six pounds, on herring strip, with or without a flasher, and six ounces of weight.

In the early mornings between 5 and 7:30 the waters in front of Eagle Crest have been hot for bucktailers, but when the sun comes up about 7:30 the bite has been stopping cold.

Claytons is reported good. Nanaimo waters have slowed down a little.

Yellow Point, Coffin Point, Tent Island, Kuper Island, Thetis Island and Crofton are all rated fair for coho and small chinooks and at Porlier Pass the bite has been finnicky, but some big chinooks and some coho are being taken.

Cowichan Bay has been on again-off again, but the overall picture is fair. Bert Caldwell of Victoria took a 33-pounder trolling in Cowichan Bay Wednesday. Bob Young of Duncan took a 28.2-pounder, 11-year-old Bill Miles of Duncan a 24-pounder. There are some coho for the taking. Live herring is not available at Cowichan Bay this year.

Saanich Inlet waters have picked up appreciably with anglers averaging a fish a boat, a mixed bag of coho, jacks and bigger chinooks.

Coho are showing in fair numbers and there has been a run of good-sized chinooks—probably Cowichan Bay fish— milling around Finlayson Arm.

Jim Gilbert has been picking up jacks and coho in the Indian Bay to Coles Bay run, but reports fish just about all over the Inlet. Jacks are a little bigger than they were, four to eight pounds now and it doesn't seem to matter what lure you use as long as it is small, under three inches.

In the early mornings nylon line and eight to 12 ounces of weight is taking fish, later in the day you have to go to 150 to 200 feet and a planer for the jacks.

Under-sized coho grilse are a problem in Saanich Inlet.

Weekend fishing at Otter Point was good for a mixed bag of jackspring, pinks and the odd big chinook, but Beecher Bay-Secretary Island is still rated the hot spot. Over-all picture at Sooke this week has been half a fish a boat, with chinooks averaging 12 pounds and a number of coho grilse having to be returned.

★ ★ ★

E. Jarvis took the monthly trophy of Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association for July with a 17-pounder. Mrs. J. Birch took the women's trophy with a 9.2-pounder.

Hidden weight winners were Vic Holman, Jim Leggett, J. F. Swantson, and L. Mahaffey.

More than 100 of Vancouver Island's top trap shooters will be out at the Victoria Fish and Game Club's Goldstream trap layout Sunday for the Vancouver Island Shooting League Trap championship shoot, starting at 10 a.m.

Saturday will see a merchandise trap shoot, open to all comers, starting at 4 p.m.

VISL rifle championships will be held Aug. 23 at Port Alberni.

Congratulations are in order to the Canadian Power Squadron for its safety-first program, one of the functions of which is to mark deadheads with fluorescent markers and ribbons.

Many of the squadron boats carry a supply of these markers, so if you see a marker floating about you can be sure there is a boating hazard beneath the water at that point.

TORONTO — Quarterback Don Jonas, former passing star with Orlando Panthers of the Continental League, came off the bench in the second quarter Thursday to spark Toronto Argonauts to their first victory of the Eastern Football Conference season.

Jonas threw three touchdown passes in relief of starter Tom Wilkinson as Argos won their home opener before 33,135 fans, 29-3, over Hamilton Tiger-Cats to move into a second-place tie with the losers, who have played one more game.

BUILT EARLY LEAD

Jonas, who also handles place-kicking duties for Argos and scored on three of four convert attempts, connected for two touchdowns in the second quarter as Toronto built up a 15-0 lead.

Hamilton scored in the final minute of the half on a 19-yard single by Tommy Joe Coffey which tied him with Jackie Parker, B.C. Lions' coach, for the all-time Canadian Football League point-scoring record at 750 points.

Hamilton picked up a safety when Bill Symons was tackled in the end zone in the third quarter and Jonas closed out scoring in the final minute of the game with anothr touchdown pass after Wilkinson had come on for a touchdown pass early in the quarter.

Explosive halfback Dave Raimey combined with Jonas for the first touchdown on a 60-yard pass-and-run play midway through the second quarter, catching the pass from the quarterback and streaking in from 30 yards out.

FOLLOWED INTERCEPTION

Jonas, who completed 10 of 16 pass attempts for 180 yards, then clicked on three passes, the last an 11-yard toss to flanker Tom Bland, for the second touchdown after linebacker Mike Blum had intercepted a Joe Zuger pass.

Jonas' final touchdown pass was a 45-yard strike to Dick Thornton, a defence back who went in in the final minute as a flanker.

Wilkinson, who was good on six of nine passes for 138 yares and had one intercepted to two for Jonas, combined with end Tony Moro for the other touchdown on a 62-yard pass-and-run play.

MANN BOOTS SINGLES

Toronto's other two points came on singles in the first and second quarters by Dave Mann before Jonas got Toronto moving.

Symons was the leading rusher for Argos with 89 yards on 18 carries while Raimey gained 64 yards on nine carries.

Zuger hit on 11 of 22 passes for 138 yards and had two passes intercepted. Dave Fleming led Ticats with 37 yards rushing in 13 carries.

Argos had a 22-13 edge in first downs and 479-182 margin in total yardage.

Bosman Pitches One-Hitter To Blank Slumping Twins

Hard-throwing Dick Bosman limited Minnesota Twins to only one hit Thursday with an outstanding performance as Washington Senators defeated the slumping leaders in the American League West, 1-0.

Bosman, bringing his record to 12-8, gave up a leadoff bunt single to Cesar Tovar at the start of the game and faced 28 batters, only one over the minimum, in sending Minnesota to its sixth straight loss.

Losing-pitcher Jim Kaat drew a base on balls in the sixth inning after Bosman, who had a 14-5 record and 2.19 earned run average last year in his first season as a regular starter, had retired 16 straigh batters. Kaat, 10-9, was wiped out in a double play.

KAAT TOUGH TOO

Senators manged only five hits off Kaat but staked the 26-year-old Bosman to a lead in the first inning when Wayne Comer got on with a bunt single, moving to third on a wild throw by Harmon Killebrew and scoring when Twins blew a double-play after Frank Howard was intentionally walked.

Second-place Oakland A's failed to gain ground, remaining five games behind the Twins when they were stopped, 4-3, by Cleveland Indians and Sudden Sam McDowell, who picket up his 17th win with a three-hitter.

COMEBACK WIN

Tommy Davis' three-run double in the fifth inning gave Indians their comeback win over the A's who had a five-game win streak snapped.

Oakland scored three uncarned runs in the third innings on two of their hits after Vada Pinson had homered in the first for Cleveland.

Roger Repoz' eighth-inning home run gave California a 3-2 victory over Baltimore Orioles as Angels closed to within half a game of Oakland.

Ed Kirkpatrick's first major-league grand slam homer helped Kansas City Athletics to an 11-3 rout of Boston Red Sox, Dave May's fifth-inning home run gave Milwaukee Brewers a 3-2 victory over Detroit Tigers and rookie Frank Baker doubled in the winning run in New York Yankees' 4-3 victory over Chicago White Sox in other action.

In the National Legue, Jim Merritt picket up his 17th victory as Cincinnati Reds' home-run power prevented New York Mets from gaining ground on idle Pittsburgh Pirates in the close Eastern Division race.

Johnny Bench, the major-league leader, hit his 40th home run, Tony Perez added his 36th and Lee May, with a shot immediately after Bench's in the fourth inning, his 25th as the Reds won, 6-1, behind Merritt's five-hitter.

CUBS GAIN GROUND

Chicago Cubs, closing to within four games of Pittsburgh, downed San Francisco Giants, 6-3, on home runs by Ron Santo, Billy Williams (his 32nd) and winning-pitcher Milt Pappas, who went the distance to raise his record to 8-5.

Ollie Brown and Jose Arcia each drove in three runs as San Diego Padres snapped St. Louis Cardinals' three-game win streak with a 9-7 victory.

Jesus Alou's two-run single with two out in the eighth inning capped a three-run rally which lifted Houston Astros to a 4-3 victory over Philadelphia Phillies.

George Stone, gaining his first win since July 6, combined with Hoyt Wilhelm for a three-hitter as Atlanta Braves completed a three-game sweep over Montreal Expos, 4-1.

Nanaimo City, third-place finishers in the Vancouver Island Senior "B" Lacrosse League, upset Victoria McDonald's Bread, 12-8, Thursday night at Memorial Arena in the first game of their best-of-three semi-final series.

Mike Good, who had four assists, and Leigh Jeffs led Nanaimo scorers with three goals each. Dave Collett (2), Joe Manzini (2), Jim Scott and Al Mayson also scored for the winners.

Pat Green and Muzz Bryant had two goals each for Victoria, who finished second in regular-schedule play. Jim Walshaw, Fred Mouison, Murray Murault and Rod Hamilton completed the scoring. Victoria was without four of their regulars for the game.

Second game will be played at Nanaimo Saturday.

Salmonbellies Top Burrards

Brothers Wayne and Ed Goss and junior Tracey Wright each added three goals while Ray Bennie scored twice and Al Lewthwaite, once.

Vancouver, which missed a chance to clinch at least a tie for second place, received three goals each from Ross McDonald and Gord Frederickson. Bill Rawson and Brian Davidson each scored twice with the other goals coming from Art Dickinson and Brian Ansley.

Pancho Loses Cool but Wins Match

TORONTO (CP) — Volatile Pancho Gonzales curbed his temper enough to survive three match points and defeat Ron Holmberg of Highland Falls, N.Y., 6-4, 4-6, 8-6, in rain-delayed, second-round singles play at the $23,000 Canadian open tennis championship Thursday.

The fifth-seeded Gonzalez, of Los Angeles, broke Holmberg's service in the fifth and seventh games to win the first set, but erupted in the second set when a fault was called in the 10th game.

Trailing 5-4 in games and leading 40-15, the colorful Californian lost the point and when a fault was called at deuce he yelled at the linesmen:

"That's a fault. The other was on the line."

He then bashed a ball that was being returned to his court at the wall behind him, missing another linesman by about three feet and drove a second ball at the linesman who made the call.

Holmberg then broke Gonzales' service to force a third set.

After Holmberg held his service, to win the opening game of the deciding set, Gonzalez halted play before he started to serve to exchange words with part of the capacity crowd of 2700.

"Please play, gentlemen, nobody wants to make a mess out of this," implored the umpire.

"Why don't you tell the linesman that?" retorted Gonzalez.

He then hit another ball out of the court, over the stands and a row of trees.

When they switched courts, Ganzalez also spoke to the linesman who made the call in the second set, but did not ask that he be replaced.

Gonzalez then evened the match, broke Holmberg's service in the third game to go ahead 2-1, then rattled off four straight points to lead 3-1 on his own service.

and the match was evened at faults to lose the eighth game

Needing only to hold his service to win, Gonzalez served two consecutive double 4-4.

Holmberg won on his service and had Gonzalez at love-40 in the 10th game but Gonzalez used his backhand to even the game at deuce and scored two more straight points to tie the set 5-5.

Homberg went ahead 6-5 but Gonzalez broke his serve in the 13th game and held his own serve in the last game as Holmberg's only point came when Gonzalez double-faulted again.

Top-seeded Rod Laver of Australia made his tournament debut and won his second-round match, 6-3, 6-1, over countryman Bill Bowrey.

DUNCAN — Cowichan-Malahat Society for Pollution and Environmental Control president Kurt Horn has objected to a MacMillan Bloedel forester's comments on 2, 4, 5-T.

Edmond Packee, the forester and former director of Nanaimo SPEC, had called the provincial pollution group's condemnation of the herbicide 2, 4, 5-T "a scare tactic designed to add to the confusion."

Horn repeated SPEC's position on 2, 4, 5-T — "If there is an element of doubt, don't use it until that doubt has been entirely removed.

Shawnigan Lake Presses

Valley Must Wait For Incinerator

LADYSMITH — Although Shawnigan Lake area is pressing for a garbage incinerator to serve the southern part of the Cowichan Valley district, regional directors decided Wednesday to wait for a petition which would support installation of an incinerator.

In addition to Shawnigan Lake, the area includes Cobble Hill and Mill Bay.

Mrs. W. J. Cotsford, Shawnigan Lake planning board secretary, told directors in a letter that "two years is a very long time to wait, and the pollution question grows."

"It would appeqr that there is considerable stalling being done by some areas who seem to be hoping for someone else to handle their chestnuts."

She continued: "Delaying tactics or senseless procrastination will not assist in alleviating the urgency of pollution problems contronting the whole district."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Cotsford felt that "an ounce of prevention is worth more than 32,000 ounces of cure."

Garbage from southern areas was being added to the already overburdened garbage dumps of other areas.

H. A. Warner of Mill Bay said that is was doubtful whether a vote would be successful in his area because C. W. Disposals was "giving us excellent service now."

He said the firm collected Mill Bay garbage and took it to the new North Cowichan incinerator. Warner added that director George Braithwaite, who was unable to attend the board meeting, had also expressed satisfaction with the new service.

North Cowichan Ald. Donald Morton said: "It took us three years to get the incinerator."

He added that the incinerator worked satisfactorily.

Shawnigan Lake director David Laverock said Shawnigan Lake residents wanted a garbage incinerator in their area to serve the southern portion of the region.

He said: "We should not wait for Duncan to make up their mind whether they want to ship their garbage to the North Cowichan incinerator or whether they want to keep their smelly dump going."

Laverock said the incinerator proposed for his area would cost about $30,000.

Discussing ambulance service, the board agreed with Bruce Devitt, who suggested it should obtain more information from Duncan Ambulance Society to enable directors to provide financial support for the society in their 1971 budget.

★ ★ ★

Devitt said: "We need some firm guidelines."

Reporting from a recent meeting between the society, Duncan, North Cowichan and the regional board, Ald. Jim Saunders of Duncan said the society needed assistance. The city and North Cowichan would help until the end of this year but next year the regional district would have to assist, he said.

Warner commented: "I was very disturbed at that meeting. I was there as a spectator. I resent the attitude of that man Sinden (George Sinden, Society president) very much."

Warner said that more than a year ago the society threatened to withdraw its service if the regional board did not provide better quarters and "now Sinden threatens us again that, if we don't buy them a new ambulance, they would withdraw service.

"I have no confidence in that man at all. He overstepped his authority, and my area will not contribute anything if Mr. Sinden has anything to do with it."

Devitt

Laverock reminded the regional board that the ambulance society had assured the regional board if they had a new building, they would not ask the region for anything else.

Sauncers said: "The Duncan Kiwanis club has withdrawn its assistance, and if nobody assists the society, they will collapse."

The board's ambulance committee was requested to study the matter and report back in September.

The board decided to table a regional SPCA function until the 1971 budget because "more important services have to be considered at this time."

Charter Float Plane Sets Down in Strait

VANCOUVER (UPI) — The pilot of a float-equipped aircraft, with 11 persons on board, made a precautionary landing in the Strait of Georgia Thursday when it developed engine trouble shortly after taking off from Vancouver Harbor.

An Air West Airlines Ltd., official said pilot Bert Creasy noticed the single-engine Otter was losing power minutes after lift-off, and he decided to set the plane down in the rough waters.

Later it was found that a broken exhaust valve had entered a clyinder.

The Canadian Coast Guard cutters Rider and Moorhen rushed to his assistance. The passengers were taken aboard the Moorhen, and the two cutters towed the plane back to Vancouver.

The passengers were taken to Vancouver General Hospital for a check-up. None required treatment.

The passengers, all Canadian businessmen, were on a charter flight to Nanaimo when the mishap occurred.

Landowners Rap Proposal

COURTENAY — A firearms regulation bylaw, which has received three readings by the directors of the Comox-Strathcona Regional Board, is still attracting a good deal of attention.

At the regular monthly meeting held Monday, representations were made by Chuck Cronmiller of the Upper Island Retriever Club; Mike Parrish, Courtenay Fish and Game Club; Ray Monk, Cumberland Rod and Gun Club; Frank Cato, CFB Comox Rod and Gun Club; James Osman, Fish and Wildlife Department; and three landowners in the area involved.

The letter from landowners T. K. Berry, G. J. Hurford and D. W. Russell said they objected to closure of the area known as Dyke Flats. They pointed out that hunters with shotguns had always been most co-operative and noted that residents had no opportunity to express views on the closure.

The letter stated that "if our interest or public safety is jeopardized we will close our land to hunting as we are entitled to do by law."

Chairman R. D. Ellis told the group that if the area concerned in the closure was the only objection, the board would be prepared to consider that question in relation to the bylaw.

The representatives then left to prepare a mutual agreement for presentation to the meeting.

The delegation proposed that the boundary stand as it is; to close the whole area to single projectile firearms; and to include an additional 200 yards from the high water mark as a further safety factor.

A meeting between the represenatives of the groups and directors Pat Fox and Fred Luck was set up for next week, at which time the protests of the residents of the areas will also be discussed.

Cowichan Band Will Lecture College Classes

DUNCAN — Members of the Cowichan Indian band will lecture this fall at Malaspina College in Nanaimo, Cowichan Chief Dennis Alphonse said Wednesday.

Members of the band's education committee met with two teachers, Kevin Roberts and Ken Baxter, from the Nanaimo college to discuss the possibility of lecturing evening classes.

"Now we have a group of people lined up for these courses which will start this fall," Alphonse said. The lectures will deal with Indian traditions and contemporary history as taught by native people, with emphasis on the Cowichan band.

The list of subjects to be offered and instructors from the Cowichan band includes: the history of the Cowichan band to be given by Ellwood Modeste; Indians and education today, Mrs. Dennis Alphonse; ceremonial dances, Abel Joe; assimilation and retaining the Indian identity, Ken Sam; the band council, reserves and the federal white paper, Dennis Alphonse; arts and crafts, Ray Peters; residential schools, Ben George, and Indian organizations, Ross Modeste.

Alphonse said there will also be a possibility for a panel discussion on Indians and education today. All classes will be held at Nanaimo.

Recreation To Get Cash Aid

NANAIMO—Recreation programs of the Nanaimo Indian band will get a boost from a First Citizens Fund grant of $650 announced Monday by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

The money was requested to help two war canoe clubs, a basketball and lacrosse team, the Indian Girls' Drill Team and Tillicum Haus, a social centre operated by the band.

Barbara Parnham gave her impressions of Shawinigan Falls which she said she liked very much.

She said the people were friendly, the city was very clean, and the economy was vastly different to the Comox Valley.

She also noted a different type of house construction to that normally seen on the west coast.

A tour of an industrial plant, one of the many in Shawinigan Falls, was discussed by Joan Milligan. She told of going through the Wabasso cotton plant, saying she was impressed with the extensive plant automation.

★ ★ ★

Debbie Davenport gave a general commentary on the trip which, she said, had given her a new outlook regarding other people and "accepting them as they are."

She felt that some of the friendships which were made would last a lifetime.

During 1,500 miles of bus tours, the students were able to see much of the province and its industry at first hand, she said.

Hamilton said he considered the program to be very worthwhile and recommended that it be continued next year.

Car Wrecked, Youth Bruised

CHEMAINUS — A late model car driven by Donald William Jameson, 19, of Chemainus was demolished in an accident early Wednesday but the youth escaped with bruises and broken teeth.

Jameson is reported in good condition in Chemainus General Hospital with a bruised leg and arm and two broken teeth. Police said the car ran off the Chemainus Road near Chemainus and piled up against a telephone pole.

Port Alberni Maintains Building Permit Levels

PORT ALBERNI — Despite unsettled labor and economic conditions, Port Alberni building permits for 1970 are holding level with last year's, the city building inspector's report said this week.

City council was told that July permits totalled $250,708, almost $600,000 less than July, 1969. However the $2,339,670 total so far this year exceeded that for the same period last year by about $90,000.

The fire department handled 33 fire-calls. Two were fires in cars which accounted for $2,750 of the $3,000 worth of fire damage during July. Fourteen grass and bush fires and four rubbish fires were also recorded.

★ ★ ★

There were 37 ambulance calls during the month, including two industrial accidents, three motor vehicle incidents and one boating accident. Twenty-two inspections were carried out and 21 persons toured the firehall.

The firemen are again top contenders for the Knights of Columbus shield for best group performance in contributing to the blood donor clinic.

Co-operation by owners of premises, on which long grass was becoming a fire hazard, was good, Fire Chief Maurice Smith said.

He said owners of vacant lots and other areas had been urged to keep the areas clear.

Bennett Approval Urged

Youth Minister Proposed

By HUBERT BEYER

A brief urging Premier Bennett to appoint a youth minister will be submitted to the provincial government within the next three months.

A second brief asking for amalgamation of all youth services in Greater Victotia will be submitted to the four core municipalities at the same time.

Both briefs are being prepared by Victoria Aid. Ove Witt, the city's youth coordinator. Both briefs will be dealt with by the various councils before they are submitted to the provincial government.

Witt said in an interview Wednesday he will do more than just ask the premier to establish a youth ministry.

"In preparing the brief, I hope to point out why it would be advisable to have a minister of youth. Problems with young people are not confined to Victoria. A provincial ministry could effectively control all the funds spent on youth programs throughout British Columbia," he said.

Amalgamation of our existing services on an intermunicipal basis makes sense because it would eliminate a lot of duplication," said Witt.

"In addition to giving the premier sound reasons for appointing a youth minister, I will outline the possible functions, and finally, I want to suggest to the premier what the possible results of such a move might be."

★ ★ ★

In outlining the advantages, Witt said, he will not only confine himself to financial aspects.

"You just can't put all the values of such an institution in terms of dollars and cents. You must also measure them in terms of human values," he said.

"Do you save a kid from jail? Do you save him from a bad home? How can you express such things in terms of money?"

A youth minister, Witt said, should not see his function as telling youth what to do. He should be an adviser.

"And most important, he should be in complete control of substantial funds," he said.

If the youth problem was to be solved, Witt said, a totally new approach would be necessary. A newly-created provincial youth ministry could take such a new approach.

★ ★ ★

"We have spoiled our youth with affluence. We have taken a fantastic amount of initiative away from our children. We tell them to finish school, we turn them into vice-presidents making $20,000 a year, but there is one thing wrong with that," Witt said.

"We are not allowing them to do it themselves. They are shoved all the way through."

Witt said only a relatively small percentage of youngsters require help. Millions of good children are no problem to anyone.

"The situation today is no worse than it was before. The jails and penitentiaries are filled with people of our generation who stepped on the wrong side of the fence. The trouble is that the media constantly focus their cameras and pens on the few rotten eggs," he said.

Even youths wanting to behave find it very difficult at times, Witt said.

"I would estimate that 99 per cent of the hitch-hikers on the roads are out for adventure. They don't want to create trouble. They want to see their country, and they should.

★ ★ ★

"But then they run into a guy like Mayor (Tom) Campbell of Vancouver who tells them 'get out, don't hitch-hike in my town, I don't want you here.' By doing that, he kills a true spirit of searching for adventure," Witt said.

Boy Diver Drowned In Jungle of Kelp

Panic and a jungle of kelp are believed by Canadian Forces divers at Esquimalt to have caused the death of a 14-year-old Edmonton scuba diver off Ogden Point breakwater Tuesday.

At an inquiry Wednesday night, Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre ruled the fatality was an accidental death due to drowning.

The body of Leslie Nichol, of 8731 83rd Avenue in Edmonton, was pulled from the water at 10:55 a.m. Wednesday after nearly a three-hour search by eight forces divers.

★ ★ ★

The boy, visiting Victoria with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Nichol, had been diving with James Cosgrove, 25, of 532 Dallas Road Tuesday afternoon. When he failed to surface Cosgrove gave the alarm and tried to locate the youngster by diving for him.

Forces divers began a search Tuesday but were hampered by rough water.

"The water was breaking over the breakwater," said Lieut. Leonard Kuzminski, head of the Forces search unit. He explained that the wind caused such surf action it was impossible for the divers to continue the search. It was resumed at 8 a.m. Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

The boy's body was found in about 10 feet of water, tangled in the thick kelp.

"It's as thick as a jungle down there and it is very treacherous diving."

"We were getting tangled up ourselves," Kuzminski said.

★ ★ ★

Aside from the kelp off the breakwater, another danger is the tide which continually runs between one and three knots, he said.

Victoria diving instructor George Stewart drowned off the breakwater about 13 months ago when he encountered trouble with the mouthpiece from his air tank.

The divers recovered Nichol's tank and regulator and these will be examined at the diving unit to discover if they were faulty.

"He was almost down to his last dregs of air," Kuzinski said. "And we assumed he panicked when he got tangled in the weeds."

★ ★ ★

The veteran diver said the youngster's tank held 200 pounds of air when it was found. If full it would have held about 2,350 pounds.

Cosgrove told the Colonist he met Nichol for the first time Tuesday, just before they went diving.

"Some friends of mine were relatives of the boy and asked if I would take him diving. In fact, I didn't even know his last name," he said.

He said Nichol told him he had about two years diving experience in freshwater and had done some diving off Florida in saltwater.

"He wanted to dive in the Pacific Ocean, but it's so different here because of the kelp beds," Cosgrove said.

"We had been down for about three-quarters of an hour when Leslie signalled me he needed his reserve oxygen. He wasn't able to put it on so I turned it on for him and signalled him to follow me to the surface," Cosgrove said.

★ ★ ★

"I had kept a close eye on him and we were almost to the surface when he disappeared. I surfaced and waited about five minutes and then went down to see what happened," he said.

"After looking for about 20 minutes I went and telephoned the police," Cosgrove said.

Cosgrove said he had been diving for 11 years and had been a senior diver at the Undersea Gardens at the Inner Harbor for the last four.

He said he averages about 20 hours a week diving at the Gardens.

★ ★ ★

Nichol is survived by his parents, a brother, James Andrew, at home, and grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Reed, Edmonton, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Aplevich, Andrew, Alta.

Funeral services will be held in Roy and Owen Ltd., Chapel of Chimes in Edmonton Saturday at 1 p.m. Arrangements are by Sands Mortuary Ltd. here.

Hydro Gives Codyre Notice

B.C. Hydro Wednesday served an expropriation notice on Patrick Codyre, the Munn Road resident who has refused to surrender his home and property for a power line right-of-way.

The order was delivered by two people representing Hydro, one of whom was a lawyer. It was dated last Thursday, and uses the past tense to say the government agency has possession of Codyre's land.

Codyre said he is not quarrelling about the price — Hydro has not made him an offer — but he is concerned that the high voltage line, if it were moved about 100 feet and routed through wild land, would not need to occupy five homesites.

He said there are eight "dog-legs" in the line between the Jordan River generating station and Saanich and he has not been able to get an answer from Hydro to questions about whether another "dog-leg" would be possible.

Codyre reminded the lawyer who visited him Wednesday that he had sent a telegram to The Queen seeking intervention in the cabinet-ordered expropriation.

He quoted the lawyer as replying: "The Queen has nothing to do with it. She doesn't belong here."

The Queen told Codyre in a letter that the issue had been referred to Governor-General Roland Michener and Wednesday night, Codyre sent Michener a telegram asking what will be done.

Codyre also said Saanich council had a "cozy" meeting with B.C. Hydro last month and he claimed that council and Hydro have a five-year plan for power lines and substations in the municipality.

He said this information came to him when he was trying to find out what Mayor Hugh Curtis and aldermen were doing on behalf of the five Munn Road residents who were being forced to move because of the Jordan River 230,000-volt line.

(On July 7, Curtis described the meeting with Dr. Gordon Shrum, chairman of Hydro, this way: "It was a very easy and friendly meeting with a pretty full exchange of opinions. The bulk of the discussion related to undergrounding distribution lines.")

Earlier this summer, Codyre was personally visited by Shrum, who travelled by helicopter.

Codyre said Shrum told him that Hydro couldn't save the Munn Road homes because, if it surrendered there, other people in B.C. would want to get everything their way, too.

Codyre has 30 days in which to appeal the expropriation. However, he is not certain whether the 30 days begin July 21, when the cabinet order was signed by Lieut. Gov. John Nicholson; Aug. 6, when the order was prepared by Hydro, or Wednesday, when it was delivered to him.

Research Ship Leaving

Canada's floating laboratory, the CSS Hudson, will leave Victoria this morning on the final phase of its 41,000-mile circumnavigation of the Americas.

The 296-foot long ship, which arrived at the Esquimalt Graving Docks last Wednesday after completing three weeks of research off the Queen Charlotte Islands, will now move into the Arctic Ocean.

After completing a month of research there, it will pass through the northwest passage en route for its home port of Dartmouth, N.S.

In Victoria this time, the 4,800-ton vessel discharged 20 scientists and took on another 15. Scientific staff has been changing for each phase of the voyage.

Original plans had called for the Hudson to spend six weeks in B.C. waters but mechanical difficulties caused the program to be halved so the ship could definitely leave for the Arctic by mid-Aguust and be sure of getting through the Northwest Passage before freeze-up.

The vessel, which is commanded by Capt. D. W. Butler, left the institute last November. Ports of call since then have included Rio de Janiero, Brazil; Mar del Plata, Argentina; ports in Chili; and Papeete, Tahiti.

The Hudson is due back in Dartmouth Oct. 15. Its voyage is the largest oceanographic effort ever undertaken by Canada.

Silvey driftwood provides windbreak at Fort Knock

Fort Knocks Blooms Again

Hot Water E

By MARY TAYLOR

CHESTERMAN BAY — There are campers who pollute and destroy natural beauty spots, and then there are people like outdoorsman Andy Lensen, his family and friends—and "Fort Knocks."

A magnificent Indian teepee, authenic even to its smoke flaps, stands on the west end of the beach. Silver-grey driftwood, upended in the sand, provides a barricade.

In this neatly-enclosed area the Jensens of 3846 Wilkinson, Victoria, and Frank and Bunny Csino and family, of 2253 Marlene, Victoria, have set up their camp—Fort Knocks.

There are two tents, a roofed-in shelter over a large picnic table and other facilities to make life on the beach a pleasure.

Not many campers enjoy the luxury of continuous hot water. But Andy Lensen and crew have it all figured out. They set up a large metal container fitted with a long loop of copper tubing which pokes out the side near the bottom. The campfire is built over the tubing and presto—running hot water.

The big teepee, which Andy made from an authentic Indian pattern out of heavy canvas on a borrowed sewing machine, serves as the recreation room for the families. On cool evenings they burn logs in a portable barbecue to keep warm.

This is the second year the two families have camped together on the beach. They took up summer residence this year June 26 and, since then have had visitors by the score—most of them pleasantly surprised to find neither kooks nor peddlers of junk handicrafts, but well-tanned happy families with a genuine love of the outdoors enjoying it to the full.

Andy Jensen isn't out to convert people to the simple life, although he believes it's great. However, there's no doubt many have left Fort Knocks with new ideas about the outdoor life.

Flowers Break Record

PARKSVILLE — Entries in the 19th annual flower show of Parksville and District Garden Club broke records with a total of 420 entries.

The high quality of items exhibited was attributed to cooler weather just before the show.

For the second successive year, John Steed of Parksville won the Centennial Challenge trophy for the most points in the show with a total of 39.

Steed, who is retired and an ardent gardener, topped his last year's total by one point. He also won the Garden Club prize for the most points in the vegetable and-or fruit section with 15 points.

★ ★ ★

Runner-up for the top trophy was Mrs. E. F. McKay of Parksville with 33 points and Mrs. K. E. Moore and Mrs. Mary Byrand, both of Nanoose Bay, tied for second place with 10 points.

The decorative section was won by Mrs. A. L. Ambrose, Parksville, for the best decorated table centre, and Mrs. James W. Haworth, Parksville, was runner-up. Mrs. Ambrose received the Parksville and District Credit Union cup.

The show was opened by club president W. G. Wheeler. Attendance was higher than previous years with visitors from other points joining local residents.

Judges for the show were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nichols, Mrs. J. Murdock and B. Wardell, all associated with the Nanaimo Dahlia and Gladiola Society.

★ ★ ★

An added attraction was a display of native lichens given by Mrs. Anne McDonald of Calgary who demonstrated how the lichens are used to make dyes. Mrs. McDonald's daughters, Isobel and Madeline, showed how the seeds of Canadian native plants can be used to fashion jewelry.

Andy Jensen isn't out to convert people to the simple life, although he believes it's great. However, there's no doubt many have left Fort Knocks with new ideas about the outdoor life.

The whole thing started when Andy got involved with wolf cubs. He started to interest the boys in simple Indian handicrafts and nature lore some years ago. In his two summers at Chesterman Bay, he has made a wide circle of Indian friends.

Costume Copy

"It was the Indian people who asked, in fact insisted, that I should wear my Indian costume to the Cloyoquot Day celebrations," Andy said, as he brought out a magnificent feather head-dress, complete to the last detail. It was copied from one now in a London, England, museum.

Equally authentic is a coyote fur-medicine hat that Andy wears on occasion, just to see the startled looks on peoples faces.

"Walk into a pub in this and see what happens," he laughed.

Beadwork has become his hobby, and with his feathered head-dress and buckskins, Andy wears a striking beadwork choker—another one of his copies of an authentic Indian design.

Although the wives and youngsters spend the summer at Fort Knocks, the two men can only stay for the length of their vacations and then come up to visit each weekend.

When Andy is not working with cubs and outdoors groups, he's working with electronics in the Victoria traffic department.

Fort Knocks will soon be ready for dismantling. The palisade will be replaced with other driftwood on the beach. The teepee will be struck and folded away and the two modern tents taken down.

The youngsters, David, Russell and Darryl Jensen and Laura, Barbara and Frank Csino, jr. will sort through their collections of shells and driftwood, trying to decide which ones they would most like to take home for winter projects.

"If we let them, they'd take home a truckload," Mrs. Csino quipped.

Ottawa Stalls Fishing Lines

By JOHN BEST

OTTAWA (CP) — An unexpected delay has occurred in the drawing of fisheries closing lines that would bar foreign fishing fleets from large bodies of water on Canada's East and West coasts.

Observers here are puzzled over why the cabinet has not acted to establish the lines, authorized by Parliament in June before it recessed for the summer.

Fisheries Minister Jack Davis told the Commons external affairs committee in May that the government could issue maps setting out the closing lines within days after the enabling legislation was passed.

Davis is known to attach great importance to the lines, which would be drawn between co-ordinates on either side of the entrances to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the Bay of Fundy and Queen Charlotte Sound.

The question was on the agenda for the final week of intensive sessions the cabinet held throughout July, and aides of the minister appeared optimistic then that it would be disposed of without undue complications.

A knowledgeable source suggested that Davis apparently was unable to persuade his cabinet colleagues to view the matter with urgency.

He also thought it possible that other cabinet members had expressed concern about the implications of drawing the lines.

Another source suggested the closing lines may have fallen victim temporarily to the need of a "digestion period" after passage of the controversial legislation to enact a 100-mile-wide pollution control zone around the Arctic archipelago.

Arrangements for Arctic pollution control are a more pressing issue at the moment, he maintained.

WARNINGS SOUNDED

By DON COLLINS

Thursday was a day for warnings on B.C.'s uncertain labor front.

Provincial Labor Minister Leslie Peterson warned building trade unionists they would face court action if they strike the construction industry.

Pat O'Neal, international vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, said it is likely all of the province's pulp and paper mills will be closed through strike action by midnight next Wednesday.

* * *

There were also repeated warnings of separate pending strikes involving the International Woodworkers of America — one against the Victoria operations of B.C. Forest Products and the other by 270 lumber inspectors against the province's sawmills.

Ironically, the day also included a joint statement from the IWA and MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. of a planned study aimed at creating peace in the forest industry.

* * *

Peterson's warning came following the latest development in the troubled construction picture — a 72-hour strike notice from Local 170 of the Plumbers served on three Lower Mainland contractors.

The union has said, however, that it has no immediate plans to strike.

Several of the building trade unions have rejected settlement proposals from deputy labor minister Bill Sands. Sands came into the picture in a third-party role in an interim agreement that saw the men go back to work beginning July 27.

* * *

The deal was that the 25,000, men idled since April 14 by an industry-imposed lockout, would go back without contracts if Sands would bring down recommendations and the government would suspend back-to-work and compulsory-arbitration orders.

Peterson said Thursday the binding arbitration section of the act still applies and indicated proceedings would begin if strike action is taken.

The act provides for a variety of fines. A judge can

Wealth Shift Will Receive Priority Study

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa said Thursday Prime Minister Trudeau will study with "absolute priority" Quebec's proposal to establish an economic stabilization fund to redistribute the wealth of Canada.

The premier, who met Trudeau at Ottawa Tuesday, told a news conference the prime minister considers the idea "very interesting" and agreed to have Ottawa civil servants study it.

* * *

Bourassa proposed creation of an Ottawa-financed fund at a federal-provincial meeting of finance ministers earlier this year, describing it as a mechanism to aid regions suffering from high unemployment.

He argued that existing wealth-sharing mechanisms such as equalization payments do not enable poorer provinces to over come negative effects of some federal policies, such as unemployment arising from the fight against inflation.

* * *

Bourassa said Trudeau agreed during their meeting that the country's wealth has not been distributed in a satisfactory fashion within the last 100 years of Confederation.

The Quebec premier hoped that the federal government would agree to setting up of the fund this year, and help him hit his election campaign target of creating 100,000 jobs in Quebec in 1971.

Lindbergh Probes Jungle

MANILA (AP) — Charles Lindbergh, the famous American airman and conservationist, joined an expedition into the forests of Mindanao this week to learn first hand about the lives and problems of ancient tribal people.

Lindbergh, 68, accompanied a party led by Manuel Manda Elizalde, the secretary and director of the Presidential Arm for National Minorities (PANAMIN).

* * *

The Philippines government organization is dedicated to assisting minority people of the island country who are being threatened by expanding cities and pushed from their centuries-old dwelling places by settlers, loggers and miners.

"I'm going along to learn," Lindbergh said of his series of visits to the Philippines. "Secretary Elizalde is doing an extraordinary job. If I can help in any way, I'll be glad to do whatever I can. It's the first program like this I know of."

He started the series of visits to the Philippines about two years ago to help promote conservation of the Tamaraw wild water buffalo and the monkey-eating eagle, both of which have been faced with possible extinction.

San Francisco Sleeps —Siren-Sounder Sequestered in Cell

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The sirens were silent in San Francisco Thursday. And Michael Courtney was in jail.

Police said the 22-year-old Courtney admitted being the "siren fiend" who has been setting off air raid sirens in various parts of San Francisco during the early hours for the last six days.

Courtney's method was fiendish indeed. He removed padlocks from the sirens, wired in a timing device to set them off at 5:30 a.m., and then locked them up again with new padlocks.

* * *

So, while the siren wailed and San Franciscans jumped out of bed and held their ears, police would rush to the scene, to find they had to break into the device in order to silence it.

Courtney, arrested Wednesday in his rooming house, said he set off the sirens "as a protest against nuclear armament. I'm against atomic warfare and nuclear holocaust."

He said he arrived in San Francisco from New Orleans about a year ago and entered the San Francisco Mortuary College. His funds ran out and he dropped out, he said.

Courtney said he bought the clocks and the padlocks a couple at a time. The locks, he said, proudly, were "better than the ones I took off the sirens."

* * *

Asked how he located the sirens, he said, "I'd just scan the horizon."

Courtney was booked on two counts of burglary, for breaking into two high schools, allegedly to set off sirens there.

He said he worked alone, but police said they felt others were involved.

But if everyone in San Francisco didn't get a good night's sleep Wednesday, it was not Michael Courtney's fault.

Bennett's Head Crowns 'Non-Indian' Totem Pole

By JOHN MATTERS

A carving of Premier Bennett atop a totem pole at Hazelton is "sacrilege," the administrator of the Union of B.C. Indian Chiefs said Thursday.

Bill Wilson told the Colonist he was in Hazelton on Wednesday when the totem pole was raised during a visit there by the provincial cabinet. Reports describe the carving, which is atop a column of traditional Indian figures, as Bennett in a top hat, bow tie and frock coat.

* * *

"If it's a joke, it's a terribly unfunny joke," said Wilson, a former University of Victoria student who will be studying law at the University of B.C. this fall. "Where I come from (Cape Mudge), we would have buried the carver with the pole."

The pole was raised to commemorate the opening of 'Ksan Village, described as an Indian "cultural centre." A 61-unit campsite is nearby.

"We tried to talk to the people there (about the totem pole)," said Wilson. "But 'Ksan Village is a project mainly run by non-Indians who are prostituting Indian art."

* * *

He said the presence of Bennett among such Indian religious figures as the killer whale, bear and frog was unforgivable.

"It is not necessarily because it's Mr. Bennett that Indians are offended," said Wilson. "It is the idea that Indian culture could be exploited to this degree."

Wilson noted that 'Ksan Village, operated by non-Indians, recently got a grant from the First Citizens' Fund.

The B.C. Union of Indian Chiefs has recently said that the First Citizens' Fund is a "political fund" administered to divide B.C. Indians.

Hickel: Two-Nation Link

Energy Policy 'Continental'

- Canadian bases proposed for U.S. radar planes. Page 6
- Ottawa issues guides for North. Page 11

MONTREAL (UPI) — U.S. Interior Secretary Walter Hickel, who leaves today for a first-hand look at resources development and pollution problems in the Canadian Arctic, believes that Canada and the United States must forge a common policy on continental energy resources.

Hickel told a news conference Thursday that the two countries, bound by "unique relations in the world," ultimately will find "we have many things in common."

Stressing that he was viewing the question of a pool on Canadian resources, Hickel said any pact would "only be good if it's good for both countries.

* * *

"It will have to be based on the common good for the greatest number," Hickel said.

"I don't think any one country has a hold on anything. Your resources have to go to market and ours have to go to market, too," the U.S. cabinet member told Canadian newsmen.

"I look forward to a North America energy policy that will take in all forms of energy — atomic, coal, gas, water or whatever."

* * *

"It may take 20 years to arrive at a common policy by Canada and the United States, though I hope not," he added.

Hickel said he did not believe that President Nixon's cutbacks in March on Canadian oil imported into the U.S. would stir Canadian reluctance to reach agreement on a pool continental policy regarding Canadian resources.

"The matter of oil imports is an entirely different matter," Hickel said. "It's based on other criteria, other needs, and development and trade problems with other countries. It's true, though, that we don't produce enough oil for our domestic market.

* * *

Hickel said he did not believe Thursday's announcement by Canada establishing guidelines for the building of a pipeline from the Arctic to South Canada markets would deter American investment interest.

Northern Development and Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien, who is host for Hickel's safari into the northland, said the guidelines limit the pipeline building to one for oil and one for gas along a predetermined corridor from the Arctic to Canada's south.

Big Four Parley At UN Meeting Wish of Kosygin

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) — Eastern European diplomats said Thursday that Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin plans to meet with President Nixon and other western leaders in New York in October on the occasion of the United Nation's 25th anniversary session.

The diplomats said a summit conference was virtually certain. But they said Kosygin apparently would prefer a four-power meeting with Nixon and the French and British premiers rather than a bilateral meeting with Nixon.

If a Big Four summit conference proved impractical, a meeting between Kosygin and the American chief executive appeared "inevitable," the sources said.

US. sources at the United Nations said Thursday no preparations were yet in progress for staffing such a meeting or setting up it's agenda. "If a summit is to be held, it would be on an informal basis only," one source said.

The eastern diplomats indicated the Kremlin's preference for a four-power conference was motivated by its apparent desire to avoid charges of "ganging up" in world affairs by the two superpowers.

World leaders will converge on New York for the special UN meeting scheduled for Oct. 19-24.

Judge Delays Gas Dump

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — A federal court judge ordered the United States Army Thursday not to dump a 2,800-ton load of nerve gas in the Atlantic before today but said it could continue putting gas containers aboard a ship for disposal at sea.

The order was issued after six hours of argument by lawyers supporting and opposing the army plan and despite a plea by a top government research officer that the dumping of the containers be treated as a matter of urgency.

Diamond Rings Scatter In New York's Night

NEW YORK (UPI) — The case read like the scenario for an Alfred Hitchcock thriller: police with an electronic eye that peers into the night; a gang of acrobatic jewel thieves with a million-dollar string of successes, and a mad scramble for $240,000 worth of rings tossed out a window.

* * *

It began shortly before midnight Wednesday when a burglar alarm brought Sgt. Thomas Connolly of the police department's safe and loft squad and two other officers racing to the Botell Ring Co. on the 18th floor of a 20-storey building in mid-Manhattan.

Atop the building, they searched the darkness with the aid of an "owl eye," an electronic device developed for night fighting in Vietnam. It magnifies available light more than 100 times. They spotted a man hanging by a rope from the second floor window and raced back down the stairs.

* * *

Out of the same window, four other men were throwing cases of gold and diamond rings taken from a vault smashed by sledgehammers. One of the cases burst, spewing rings all over a courtyard.

Sidney Heller, president of Botell, said more than 2,000 rings worth $24,000 were recovered, some of them by police who spent more than an hour searching for them on their hands and knees in the courtyard.

Police arrested Raymond Smith, 36, of New York as he dangled from a rope over the courtyard. The others escaped.

Jameson said the board was anxious to proceed with a number of projects, especially activity rooms that have been stalled by the provincial freeze.

Victoria Gives $5,000 For Rubella Vaccine

Victoria city council Thursday decided to spend $5,000 this fall on rubella vaccine for pre-school children in the city.

Council acted swiftly and unanimously after hearing letters from Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, Greater Victoria's senior medical health officer and Dr. Scott Wallace, Social Credit MLA for Oak Bay, advocating a rubella (German measles) vaccination program for pre-schoolers.

Finance committee chairman Ald. Percy Frampton told council the money must be allocated immediately. Although the city's contingency fund has dwindled to $31,000, council had no choice but to approve the expenditure, he said.

"School will start very shortly, and the vaccination program must get underway," he said.

Ald. Harold Olafson said he endorsed the action of council, but he wanted to point out that this matter was actually the provincial government's responsibility.

"But since it looks like they aren't getting into the act, we must spend the money," he said.

Saanich, Central Saanich and North Saanich decided earlier to participate in the inoculation program. Oak Bay and Esquimalt are expected to discuss the matter at their next council meetings.

The money allocated by the various municipalities will be spent for vaccine for pre-school children only. The provincial government plans to vaccinate older children in a province-wide campaign.

According to public health authorities, rubella poses a great danger to the unborn children of pregnant women. A woman who contracts the disease during pregnancy has a 50 per cent chance of giving birth to a deformed child, medical authorities say.

Leases in Harbor Not Yet Granted

By HUBERT BEYER

Victoria Ald. Peter Pollen told city council Thursday the transport department had granted renewal of two Inner Harbor leases to CPR's Marathon Realty, but several hours later he told the Colonist the renewals had not been granted.

Other city hall sources confirmed that the renewals had not been granted.

Nor will the renewals be granted if the city's protest against them is strong enough, Pollen said.

The two foreshore leases in question include pieces of property now occupied by Undersea Gardens and the CPR's new docking facilities at Belleville.

Pollen told Victoria city council Thursday, Marathon Realty, a Canadian Pacific subsidiary, had been granted 21-year renewal leases by the transport department.

In an interview, hours after the meeting, he disclosed that the renewals had, in fact, not been granted.

"After the council meeting, I found out that the transport department may just be trying the city on for size. In a letter to the city, the department very subtly points out that the renewals may be granted," Pollen said.

★ ★ ★

"Now, if public outcry is strong enough and if city council starts screaming about this, Ottawa might just back down. I don't think Marathon will get the renewals if the city's protest is strong enough," he said.

Pollen said the leases would in no way affect the CPR's $1 million Inner Harbor development which has been on the drawing board for more than a year.

The development proposal, which has been altered six times, calls for construction of a shopping centre, a seafood restaurant, a dance pavilion and a number of boutiques.

"We've pretty well got that under control, but we would like to see the Undersea Gardens removed from their present location. They shouldn't be in front of the legislative buildings," Pollen said.

★ ★ ★

"As far as the docking facilities are concerned, they're fine. We don't want to drive the CPR out of business. They're doing a good service to the public," he said.

It all boiled down to who should be in control of public property, he said.

"It is ludicrous that some bureaucrat in Ottawa can determine part of Victoria's destiny," Pollen said.

The two leases in question expired this year, and according to City Solicitor Terry O'Grady, the leases contained renewal clauses.

However, some months ago, Victoria applied to the transport department for primary leases on the two properties and several others so that the city could control development in the area. Council was told at that time the city's interest would be given priority by the transport department.

Group of Tree Defenders Makes Stand in Council

Plans for the Johnson-Begbie-Shelbourne extension were sent back to committee Thursday after a tree-cutting controversy surrounding the project flared up again at a meeting of Victoria city council.

About 25 area residents appeared before council to protest the city's plans for converting Begbie into a four-lane one-way artery.

Their main protest was directed against removal of trees to make way for the road widening.

Richard Morris, spokesman for the Save-the-Trees group, told council the city was giving priority to the automobile in its planning.

He asked council to stop all work and land acquisition until the entire scheme has been carefully reviewed.

Mrs. L. D. McClintock of 1599 Begbie said residents had not been informed of the project prior to last April's capital budget referendum.

"There is an awful lot of nonsense going on here; we didn't know up to recently whether it was going to be a one-way street, a four-lane highway—nothing," she said.

"They just said it would be a major road improvement, and that covers a lot of territory," she said.

"What about the depreciation of our property when we have this highway? What about the extra taxes? I would like to know how many members of council were aware of all the implications of this scheme," Mrs. McClintock said.

Turning to Mayor Courtney Haddock, she said, "You know why you were elected, don't you? Because we were fed up with Oak Bay mayors. Well, we are fed up now."

The mayor replied he was surprised himself when he was elected.

Mrs. McClintock snapped back that he was certainly not doing Victoria taxpayers a favor by building a four-lane highway (Begbie) in the city.

★ ★ ★

"Who do you think will benefit from this? Not Victoria. Saanich and Oak Bay will, but not Victoria," she said.

Mrs. Bernice Packford told council arterial roads were the responsibility of regional government.

She also said the city could stop the project if it wanted to.

"Not one tree has been cut down on Begbie; not one bush has been uprooted. I'm sorry to see that everyone seems to say it is too late. It isn't too late. The choice is still ours," Mrs. Packford said.

★ ★ ★

Ald. Peter Pollen told council it was time the city developed a long-range policy in the fields of planning and road construction.

There are too many examples of shortsighted planning. The beautiful view of the Olympics was now blocked by an apartment building and parks had to give way to street projects.

Ald. Clyde Savage said he would like to find out "a lot more" about the proposed Begbie-Johnson-Sheldourne extension.

He then moved the matter be referred back to committee which will deal with it Tuesday.

Union Reactivates Drive For Jubilee Certification

HEU has until the end of August to find that support. The Labor Relations Act says certifications can be challenged only during the seventh or eighth months of the year.

The latest HEU attempt follows a similar move, made about 15 months ago, which was rejected by the B.C. Labor Relations Board.

At that time, Ray McCready, business manager-secretary of local 180, said his union would not surrender to Royal Jubilee.

At a recent Jubilee association membership meeting, a new slate of officers was elected and all of them are supporters of local 180, The Colonist was told.

★ ★ ★

When this occurred, C. W. Burr, the association's business manager, immediately resigned. He and the Jubilee supporters had just negotiated a new contract with the hospital that provided increases of $50 a month for each of two years and new job security clauses.

Contacted at home Thursday night, Burr said those job security clauses were the best in the hospital industry.

★ ★ ★

The 900 employees at Royal Jubilee would represent about 10 per cent of HEU's province-wide membership. The union is already certified at such hospitals as Vancouver General, St. Joseph's in Victoria and St. Paul's in Vancouver.

During the takeover attempt in April, 1969, HEU claimed the hospital employees' association was being dictated to by an "all-powerful" bargaining committee.

The bargaining committee accused HEU of being unethical and "raiding."

Windows Broken

More than $1,000 worth of store windows in five businesses were broken by rocks thrown at them Tuesday night in the 500 block Johnson. Victoria police said Thursday they arrested two suspects shortly after the incident.

Salmonella Was 'Hefty'

The laboratory at Royal Jubilee Hospital investigated 959 samples following a salmonella outbreak in Victoria in June, it was learned Thursday.

"It was a tremendous workload," said Dr. A. C. Pickles, the hospital's executive director. "We had people working night and day."

The task was particularly difficult because most of the samples were human feces. Others were swabs of kitchen appliances and portions of food suspected of harboring the bacteria.

The hospital's laboratory on an average does about 250 cultures a month in routine investigations of enteric infections.

"The additional 959 samples in a period of two or three weeks was an exceptionally hefty load," said Dr. Pickles.

In addition to collecting samples from persons who complained of salmonella symptoms after the June 13 banquet at the Empress Hotel, public health staff also investigated a number of hotel employees as possible carriers.

Persons suspected as carriers, or who actually came down with salmonella, had a minimum of three fecal samples taken.

Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, Greater Victoria's senior medical health officer, said last month the source of the outbreak likely was a carrier — someone who caught the disease prior to the meal and was still shedding the bacteria — or the food, possibly the turkey that produced positive swabs for salmonella.

★ ★ ★

However, it is understood health authorities will probably not be able to make a conclusive statement for about a month.

After getting the samples, it took the laboratory about 72 hours before the organism could be identified in a culture medium.

Identification involved several steps, including the group of antigens produced by the bacteria (a clue to the antibiotics to which it would be sensitive) and the specie of bacteria.

Court Upholds Gaglardi

VANCOUVER (CP) — A British Columbia Supreme Court judge Friday upheld the right of Welfare Minister Phil Gaglardi and his department to refuse social assistance to persons on strike or locked out.

Mr. Justice Thomas Dohm rejected an application by construction worker Ross Alden, 25, who had been locked out, for an injunction to restrain Gaglardi and his staff from refusing welfare in such cases.

The judge said:

"Clearly the authorities have the statutory power to formulate and direct the carrying out of policies under the social assistance act.

★ ★ ★

"Looking at the statute as a whole and considering its fundamental purposes, I am of the opinion that the Legislature never intended that people who leave their employmets as the result of labor disputes could then expect to be supported out of the public purse."

Lawyer Lloyd McKenzie, who represented the B.C. Government, had said Alden was not refused welfare because of labor troubles but because he was not "destitute and suffering."

Tom Berger, Alden's counsel, had said the issue was not whether Alden was destitute but that Gaglardi's department "rejected his claim without considering it on its merits."

Terror Goes On In Ulster

BUNCRANA (AP) — A blast of high explosives ripped through this tiny customs post on the border between Northern Ireland and the Irish Republic Friday — the latest in a wave of terrorist attacks which have caused two deaths this week.

The 220-mile border between Protestant - controlled Northern Ireland, part of the United Kingdom, and the Roman Catholic Irish Republic in the south once again is the front line of violent and ancient hatreds.

Around 3 a.m., terrorists slipped across fields and along hedgerows to plant 10 pounds of high explosives in the customs building on the Ulster side of the frontier.

It was unmanned at the

Tel Aviv Charges 'Grave Violation'

By United Press International

Israel charged Friday that Egypt was continuing to expand its Soviet-supplied SAM missile network near the Suez Canal, in new "grave violation" of the ceasefire. It complained to UN truce observers that a new Soviet missile battery and fresh construction work were spotted Thursday.

The accusation came shortly after Israel disclosed its warplanes Friday attacked regular Jordanian army positions for the first time since the Middle East ceasefire went into effect a week ago. It said the Jordanians had been aiding Arab guerrillas.

A Jordanian spokesman said two formations of Israeli jet fighters raided a Jordanian army supply camp in the northern town of Irbid and neighboring civilian areas. He said the raiders strafed Jordanian positions with rockets and machine-gun fire for nearly an hour.

The Amman spokesman said it was the second Israeli violation of the ceasefire in fewer than 24 hours, and that Israeli ground forces also opened up with tank and artillery fire on a Jordanian position 25 miles northwest of Amman.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli authorities detained two Algerians Friday after they arrived on a British flight from the Far East to Europe, and French reports from Algiers said one of the men might be a high official and confidant of Alge-

Misunderstood

Canada's 'Ugli

VANCOUVER (CP) — Alex Samuel Chapelski, who was so ugly he hated to look in the mirror, is dead.

Some called him the ugliest man in Canada. Others said he was a misunderstood man with a beautiful soul.

He died in hospital Tuesday, two days before his 39th birthday.

Cause of death is uncertain and an autopsy is being held.

His story was told in court a year ago as a sympathetic judge gave him walk-out sentences for credit card fraud.

Alex Chapelski had been afflicted since birth with a rare disease known as Von Reckinghausen's neurofibromatosis. The disease causes tumors to develop at nerve ends and in their connective tissue.

He couldn't get a job. Waitresses refused to serve him. Bartenders wouldn't bring him a beer. He never had a date.

He retreated to a skid road hotel here and drank cheap wine alone. He turned out the light when he shaved.

"I was afraid to look," he said, "because my face looked so funny, so dark."

He turned to petty crime. He tried once to kill himself. He served four stretches in jail, three in penitentiary.

His fellow convicts called him "Lumpy Lumpy Willie."

He left prison in June, 1968, and Dr. Theo Wilkie, a plastic
